United Gas Plans 3 Big Projects For Twin Cities

The Monroe division of United Gas Corp. is now engaged in and making plans for the biggest building program ever undertaken by that firm in northeast Louisiana, it was revealed Saturday by J. S. Cage, Monroe division manager. Two major building projects are planned near the downtown sections of Monroe and West Monroe and preparatory work has already started on a third big project on Louisville avenue.

Through Murray Hudson, attorney, United Gas recently acquired extremely valuable sites near the downtown sections of Monroe and West Monroe. The Monroe site is located at the corner of Fourth and Breard Streets, across from the Big Piggly-Wiggly store. It was acquired at a cost of approximately $57,000. The West Monroe site is located on Cypress and Pine Streets and was acquired at a cost of about $80,000, four separate purchases being made. Property on Louisville Avenue was purchased a number of months ago.

The program was instituted, Mr. Cage said in anticipation of the continued growth of the two cities and the future need for larger facilities for the local distribution customers.

The company, according to Mr. Cage, plans to develop the property during the year 1954. "United Gas has unbounded faith in the continued growth of Monroe and the surrounding area in northeast Louisiana," Mr. Cage states, "and we are planning our facilities now not only to keep abreast of present growth, but to be prepared for such future expansion as may be necessary to meet requirements of local customers for continuing dependable natural gas service."

It is contemplated now that when a structure is built on the new Monroe property, it will be a building to be occupied by the Monroe downtown distribution office of the company.

Body Of One Of Three Lost Youths Found

Remains Of Bolyer Boy Recovered 150 Miles Downstream

FERRIDAY, Feb. 21 (Special)—The body of Virgil Lee Bolyer, 18, one of three Ferriday brothers drowned in a boating accident Jan. 6, was discovered today about 150 miles downstream at Donaldsville.

The search will continue for the bodies of his brothers, William Chester Bolyer, 23, and William Ernest Bolyer, 21.

The three commercial fishermen disappeared on the choppy Mississippi river while they were running trot lines near the mouth of Coles Creek.

An overturned boat was discovered by the Natchez Civil Air Patrol and a widespread search was started for the brothers. Hope was abandoned for the brothers Jan. 12.

However, the CAP continued patrols to try to locate the brothers' bodies.

Last week a reward of $100 was offered to anyone finding the bodies. The reward was offered by A. B. Smith of Natchez, Miss., a friend of the Bolyer family.

Virgil's body, which was reported located by Donaldsville police, was taken the the Ourse Funeral Home in Donaldsville.

The body has since been transferred to Young's Funeral Home in Ferriday.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Sunday in the Natchez cemetery with the Rev. Dick Griffith of Ferriday officiating. Burial, under the direction of Young's Funeral Home, will be in the Natchez cemetery.

Cold Wave Grips Most Of Nation

By The Associated Press

A wave of intense cold engulfed a wide stretch of land in the West and Midwest Saturday. The mercury plunged as low as 31 below zero. The death toll rose to 13.

The worst snowstorm of the season petered out, leaving a broad belt in the midlands dotted with drifts that towered as high as trees in at least one state.

The storm center that had whipped up blizzards from the Rocky Mountains to Lake Superior moved into Ontario. As the cold front moved eastward, the air churned and temperatures dropped.

Winds of gale force buffeted New York state. The below ranged from 35 to 55 miles per hour in the western part of the state, with gusts between 60 and 80. Buffalo's temperature plummeted 26 degrees in less than three hours.

In Rochester, a 62-mile-an-hour wind toppled trees, tore down utility wires and ripped the roofs of some buildings.

Nine of the dead were in snow-hit Colorado and Wyoming—five in traffic and four caused by overexertion. A girl froze to death in a marooned car in Nebraska. Two men were killed in two auto accidents during a rainstorm in Pennsylvania. One woman lost her life in the southern tornadoes.

It was cold in most of the interior states. These lows show the scope and degree of frigidity:

Commander Of 'Smack' Raid Called Home

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 —UP—The Army announced Saturday that Maj. Gen. Wayne C. Smith, commander of the Seventh Infantry division which participated in Korea's controversial "Operation Smack" last month, has been called home to take a Kentucky command.

The Army said Smith's reassignment, as commander of the Eleventh Airborne Division at Fort Campbell, Ky., has "no connection" with the abortive "Operation Smack"—an unsuccessful attack Jan. 25 on entrenched Communist troops near T-Bone Hill in Korea.

Smith is coming home on "normal rotation," an Army spokesman said.

"Operation Smack" created a short-lived furor when some congressmen, on the basis of newspaper stories, accused the Army of staging it as a "show" only for the benefit of newspapermen and some visiting military "brass."

Jes' Ramblin'

An unusual man whose entire life has been devoted to others, passed out in the tragic traffic death of Harvey Nelson, director of band music in city of Monroe elementary schools. His life was a forceful example for youth to observe and to emulate in a man who loved the great outdoors and the wholesome atmosphere that surrounded his calling.

He believed that the church should have first place, even over family essentials, and it was said of him that he declined to purchase a home until the last note had been paid on the organ in the church of his choice.

Mr. Nelson was fortunate in having a wife who shared with him in his outlook on life, and the Nelsons and their three attractive children formed a family circle that appeared unusually complete. Mrs. Nelson shared her talent in

Senator Raps Ike Resolution On Agreements

Doesn't Express U. S. Sentiment, Complains Wiley

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) said today that a resolution submitted to Congress by Presient Eisenhower condemning Russian violation of secret agreements is "disappointing" and doesn't go far enough.

Wiley, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in a statement that he hopes Congress will "strengthen" the Eisenhower-approved draft "in order to more clearly and accurately set forth the sentiment of the American people."

He complained that as the resolution stands it only "rejects any interpretations or applications of any international agreements or understandings . . . which have been perverted to bring about . . . subjugation of free peoples."

"Actually, I believe the American people have, by and large, felt that numerous clauses of the secret agreements were wrong," Wiley said, adding that from the very beginning they had been "misinterpreted, misapplied and violated by Soviet Russia."

The committee chairman said any strengthening of the resolution should be "in line with a firmer, more vigorous foreign policy which goes beyond mere 'containment.'"

Sen. Russell (D-Ga) however, said he is satisfied with the resolution the way it is and will support it.

Some Republicans have attacked the Yalta agreements and have demanded their repudiation, but the resolution submitted by Eisenhower would repudiate only the Russion interpretation and not the agreements themselves.

M'Carthy Blast Restores Agent To Old Position

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—The State Department back-pedaled today on its transfer of security agent John E. Matson, described by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) as the victim of punitive action for testimony he gave Senate investigators.

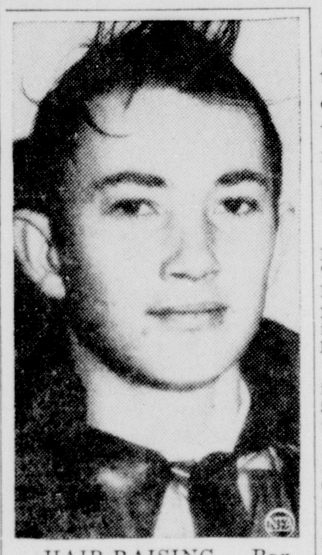
McCarthy told reporters after a closed-door meeting of the Senate investigations subcommittee with Under Secretary of State Donald B. Lourie that Matson will be restored to his old job immediately.

Lourie, who took office Monday in the new Eisenhower administration, agreed to study the whole case thoroughly and advise the subcommittee later whether additional action by the department is warranted.

McCarthy, the subcommittee chairman, said the senators felt it would be "improper to suggest any disciplinary action" — presumably against those responsible for Matson's transfer—until Lourie had a chance to go over all the testimony.

The subcommittee has plunged into a search for any waste and subversive influences in the State Department's Voice of America program.

Government Official, Aide Arrested For Counterfeiting



HAIR-RAISING — Barry Braden, 18 - year - old Houston high school student, shot and killed a fleeing hijacker suspect Thursday using a gun handed him by the police officer with whom he was riding. Braden, who wants to be a police reporter, said he fired three shots at the bandit's feet.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)— Secret Service agents today arrested a Department of Agriculture employe who, they said, started out etching nature studies and wound up engraving counterfeit $10 bills.

Secret Service Chief U. E. Baughman named him as Martin T. Storey, 47, of nearby Oxon Hill Md., a government worker for 27 years and administrative officer in the Agriculture Department's livestock division.

Arrested with Storey was a clerk in his office, Miss Mary Watson, 55, of Washington who has served the government for 23 years.

The two were released on bond after arraignment before U. S. Commissioner Archie Meatyard in Silver Spring, Md. The formal charge was making engravings the purpose of printing counterfeit notes.

Storey posted a $2,000 bond, entered no plea and waived a preliminary hearing. Miss Watson, who put up $500 bond, pleaded innocent. A preliminary hearing before Commissioner Meatyard was set for March 4.

Baughman said agents had been watching Storey for about a month and questioned Miss Watson in her office yesterday. The Agriculture Department is across the street from the Bureau of Engraving, where real money is made.

Miss Watson admitted buying copper plates for Storey, Baughman said, and "knew all about it" but apparently took no part in actual engraving and printing.

Of Storey, Baughman said: "He just drifted into counterfeiting from a hobby of fooling around with engraving copper plates."

When Storey was first approached, agents said, he denied any knowledge of counterfeiting and said his hobby was etching studies of fruit and similar still lifes in copper.

But the agents said Storey admitted making four copper plates engraved to make $10 bills after the plates and printing paraphernalia were discovered at his lonely cabin on the Patuxent River in Maryland.

Former Censor Guilty Of Not Clearing Book

FT. MEADE, Md., Feb. 21 —UP—Lt. Col. Melvin B. Voorhees, Eighth Army censor in Korea, was convicted by a court martial Saturday of refusal to submit his own writings to military censorship and was ordered dismissed from the Army.

A court martial board of six colonels and one lieutenant colonel also ordered forfeited all pay allowances for the 50-year-old reserve officer.

Voorhees, former editor of the Tacoma (Wash.) Times, stood calm and stiff at attention as the president of the court pronounced sentence.

The case will be automatically reviewed by the military board of review in the Army judge advocate general's office. Voorhees then can take the case to the military court of appeals.

He was convicted for publishing his book, "Korean Tales," without obtaining prior Army clearance. He based his defense on his constitutional right of freedom of speech.

Before the court pronounced sentence, Voorhees expressed the hope it would "impose a stiff sentence so I can make an issue of the case."

Ellender Hails Brownell Ruling

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP) —An informal opinion by Atty. - Gen. Brownell that former President Truman didn't legally create a Naval petroleum reserve of submerged off-shore oil lands was hailed by Sen. Ellender (D-La) today as welcome news.

Ellender, who supports legislation giving the states title to the off-shore lands out to their historic borders — generally three miles — said Brownell's opinion was that the Truman order did not create a Navy reserve.

This, he said, should facilitate passage of the measure he supports at this session of Congress.

Many senators who might have felt compelled to vote against granting states title to this land if the area were a Naval petroleum reserve "should now feel free to join with those of us who favor state control of these lands," Ellender said.

In a talk for radio broadcast over station WWL, New Orleans, Ellender also said there has been "considerable misunderstanding arising out of a statement I made last week in which I cautioned against committing ourselves too quickly on Chiang Kai - shek and his Nationalists armies now on Formosa."

Recalling he had voiced "grave doubt as to whether Chiang was the man to lead his people away from Communism," Ellender said "I did not charge Chiang with being either dishonest or disloyal." He added:

He Just Likes Dogs

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 21 — UP—Gilbert Brandt was in the dog house today and his neighbors put him there.

They complained to the city health department that Brandt is keeping 31 German Shepherd dogs in a six-room bungalow all their own.

The neighbors complained that the barking of the dogs keeps them awake all night.

Brandt said he is not a dog breeder, but "I just happen to like dogs."

Sailor Hurt In Crash Of Auto, Truck

A Jonesboro sailor, home on leave from the Memphis naval air station, is in the St. Francis hospital as a result of an automobile-truck crash at Calhoun early Saturday morning. His condition was termed serious by hospital attendants.

The sailor, Ralph Stuckey, 19, suffered a fractured skull and numerous abrasions when the 1948 Plymouth sedan which he was driving west went out of control and hit the rear of an oncoming heavy truck and trailer. The truck was driven by Cecil E. Harris, 38, of Montgomery, Ala.

Stuckey was picked up by a Hixson Brothers ambulance and taken to the Charity Hospital. Later he was transferred to St. Francis.

Investigating officers of the local Troop F, Louisiana state police, said their report of the wreck was incomplete since they were unable to talk with the injured party. The report showed that Harris told police the approaching automobile attempted to make a curve in the corporate limits of Calhoun and struck the rear of the truck.

The Plymouth sedan was completely demolished.

Berlin Captor Named Soviet Chief Of Staff

No Reason Given For Shakeup In Top Red Command

MOSCOW, Feb. 21 (AP)—Marshal Vassily D. Soklolovsky, captor of Berlin in World War II, has been made chief of staff of the armed forces of the Soviet Union, succeeding Gen. Sergei M. Shtemenko.

This was disclosed today when Sokolovsky sent out invitations for the annual celebration of the anniversary of the Soviet Army. The celebration takes place next Monday at the Central House of the Army.

The invitations read: "Marshal V. D. Sokolovsky, chief of staff, and his wife invite ——." They were received by the chief military, naval and air attaches of foreign diplomatic missions in Moscow.

Sokolovsky, who has had a long and brilliant career in the Russian Army, has been first deputy minister of the armed forces since March 30, 1949.

Shtemenko became chief of staff Nov 13, 1948, when he replaced Marshal Alexander Vasilevsky, the present minister of war.

Shtemenko was one of five top Soviet military fgiures who, the government charged last month, were marked for death by nine Moscow doctors, some of them Jews. The doctors, all reported under arrest, were accused of killing two Soviet leaders — Andrei A. Zhdanov and Alexander S. Scherbakov—and plotting the deaths of the others by wrong treatments.

(This dispatch did not say whether ill health might have been a factor in Shtemenko's replacement by Sokolovsky.)

Sokolovsky, now 56, rose high in Soviet military councils in World War II. He was promoted to colonel general in June, 1942, and then to full general in August, 1943.

Commies Battle Munich Police

MUNICH, Germany, Feb. 21 (AP)—Communists battled police for two hours here tonight in Munich's worst riot since the war.

The battle began when police tried to break up a meteing of 6,000 Communists, assembled in a big hall to hear a speech by West Germany's top Communist, Max Reimann.

Reimann accused the Bavarian minister of the interior, Wilhelm Hoegner, of "violating the constitution daily in the service of (Chancellor Konrad) Adenauer by prohibiting Communist meetings."

The police promptly moved in. Two tried to seize Reimann's microphone. Communist leaders attacked them and threw them out of the hall. The Communists barricaded the doors and fought fiercely, while a band played a Communist song.

Reds Asked To Comply With Geneva Pact

Move Is Urged In Letter Addressed To Top Red Brass

PANMUNJOM, Korea, Sunday, Feb. 22—UP—Gen. Mark W. Clark Sunday asked the two top Communist commanders in Korea to cooperate in the "immediate" exchange of seriously sick and wounded prisoners of war.

The United Nations commander made the request in a letter to North Korean Commander Kim Il Sung and Chinese "volunteer" commander Peng Teh-Huai. The letter was handed over to the Reds at a brief liaison officers meeting.

"I wish to be informed," Clark said, "whether you are prepared for your part to proceed immediately with the repatriation of seriously sick and wounded captured personnel of the United Nations command who are in your hands."

Previous efforts by the UNC to arrange immediate exchange of sick or wounded POWs have been met either by refusal or silence on the part of the communists.

Clark told Kim and Peng that his liaison officers "will be prepared" to meet Red officers to make "necessary arrangements" for the exchange.

The four-star general reminded the Reds that on Dec. 13 the executive committee of the league of the Red Cross societies adopted a resolution in Geneva calling for immediate repatriation of the sick and wounded of both sides.

"As has been repeatedly stated to you in the course of negotiations at Panmunjom," Clark said, "the United Nations command has from the very beginning adhered to the provisions of the Geneva Convention."

Another Guard Fired In Texas Prison Escape

FORT WORTH, Feb. 21—UP—Sheriff Harlon Wright Saturday fired a second jail guard, whom he named as being partly responsible for Wednesday night's jail break when 10 prisoners—including desperado Floyd Hill — smashed their way to freedom.

At the same time, officers warned that Hill and two others still free were "dangerous men," and they anticipated a gun battle in taking Hill unless he is surprised.

Wright said he fired guard Bill Crawford for negligence in failing to keep locked a heavy bullet-proof door which would have "prevented the break." Wright earlier fired guard Jim Holcomb for carelessness in failing to lock a cell section door through which the fifth floor break was made.

The sheriff indicated no other guards would be fired, and said that "those two were responsible for the whole thing."

Finds Peace Of Mind

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 21 (AP)—A pint-sized killer in Kilby Prison's death row says he's happier now than ever before "because I found something to live for."

Harris Mullis, 24-year-old Jacksonville, Fla., convict, says he has finally found peace of mind with death rushing toward him.

"Whether I live or die," said the 120-pound, boyish-looking slayer, "I'll never go back to the old life. I have learned that there are things far worse than death."

Unless Gov. Persons intervenes, Mullis will die in the Kilby electric chair March 27 for shooting a Florida constable to death with the officer's own gun near Mobile two years ago.

The slain man was Luther Hardison of Coral Gables, who had boasted "There is no such thing as a bad boy." He was returning Mullis to Florida from California to face theft charges, and refused to use handcuffs on the slightly-built convict who went to prison the first time when he was only 14.

"Men up there the young slayer said, pointing to Kilby's death row on the third floor, "learn how to pray. It's the same old story . . . a man in trouble turns to God. That's the only help for one facing death."

Mullis said he has wished constantly that "it was me who got killed" instead of Hardison.

As they drove nearer Florida, Mullis said he got to "brooding about all my troubles there . . . and suddenly I knew I couldn't go back. I had to escape."

He said he had been doing part of the driving and asked Hardison to take over the wheel.

The officer apparently suspected "what was on my mind," the youth recalled, "when I started to slide out and run. I saw his gun on the floor board and grabbed it."

Mullis said Hardison tried to wrestle the gun away from him and "it went off in the scuffle . . . I didn't intend to kill him."

When Hardison's body was found, it had five bullet holes.

Mullis blamed his early criminal career on what he called "rotten" conditions at home. He said there was seldom enough food in the house.

"I can remember almost being pushed in the street to pick up cigaret butts for my father and beg for food," he said.

There were six other children, "all younger than myself."

Mullis said he got into trouble first when he played hookey from school when he was 8, slipping off to Jacksonville Beach for the day.

"I paid for a pony ride," he recalled, "and just kept on riding nearly all night. I felt like the pony belonged to me and didn't want to give him up."

Cream Of Peanut Soup Is Lenten Delicacy

The arrival of Lent brings interesting problems, not only for those Skilleteers who observe it relentlessly, but for those who entertain those who do. The call has come in from several members for a light meal suitable for this period. We suggest the following menu: Cream of peanut soup, tossed salad with crab meat et al, toasted English muffins; chilled grapefruit, coffee.

In digging through the old family archives we found "Cream of Peanut Soup," written on aged paper in faded ink, which we deciphered as follows: "1 quart milk; 2 tablespoons flour; 1 tablespoon butter; salt & pepper to taste; 5 cents worth of peanut butter dissolved in water . . ."

"Five cents worth of peanut butter!" Oh, happy, long-gone day! After careful investigation on how much peanut butter was 5 cents worth in 1890, we came up with the following:

¾ cup peanut butter (preferably the crunchy kind.
¾ cup hot water.
1 tablespoon butter.
1 tablespoon flour.
1 quart milk.
½ teaspoon MSG.
Salt and pepper to taste.

Dissolve the peanut butter in the hot water. Melt butter in a sauce pan and blend in the flour to form a smooth "roux," then slowly stir in the milk, being careful to avoid lumps. Boil about 5 minutes, stir in the peanut butter, boil about 5 minutes more, then add MSG and salt and pepper to taste, cook a few more minutes and remove from fire. A good, husky affair, this.

We suggest that you make the salad and toss it before you make the soup, then place it in the refrigerator to chill well, and give it one more tossing as you serve it. The English muffins should be split with a fork, buttered, then put under the broiler while the soup is being served.

You may go as far as you like on the tossed salad; we sugge the following as a basis:

1 heaping teaspoon salt.
2 cloves garlic.
1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar.
4 tablespoons olive oil.
Oregano.
Pepper from the mill, or coar cracked black pepper.
2 tablespoons mayonnaise.

For the basic components of t salad bowl, we suggest:

½ cup fine cut celery, with few leaves.
½ cup fine cut green onions an greens.
¼ cup fine cut green pepper.
1 small head lettuce.
1 tomato.
1 can crab meat, well picked.

Place the salt in a chilled sala bowl, split the garlic and rub well into the salt and let it r main there temporarily. If yo have a garlic press, 1 clove garlic will suffice. Cover the sa with cracked pepper or fres ground pepper. Sprinkle light with dried oregano. Then add th vinegar and the oil, stir well, an let it marinate while cutting u the other ingredients.

Warning: Before you toss in t salad, toss out the garlic clove Cut the tomato in small bits, brea the lettuce in bite-size pieces wi the fingers, and toss all well, the add the mayonnaise if you wis To make this even more heart any or all of the following ingr dients may be added too:

Sliced or diced cucumber.
Crumbled Blue Cheese.
Crisp bacon, broken up fine (bu not for Lent).
1 tablespoon capers.
1 hard-cooked egg, chopped.
Croutons, toasted brown.

Half a grapefruit, well chille and coffee makes this a very plea ant luncheon menu.

Freedom Foundation To Share $100,000 In Awards

VALLEY FORGE, Pa., Feb 21 (AP) — Freedom Foundation tonight announced that 761 individuals, schools and organizations will share $100,000 for outstanding contributions to "a better understanding of the American way of life during 1952."

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, former Republican U. S. senator from California, will present awards tomorrow to the first place winners in special Washington's Birthday ceremonies at historic Valley Forge.

Freedoms Foundation — non-profit, non-political, non-sectarian, was organized in 1949 for its announced specific purpose "of honoring Americans who contribute to freedom "by the things which they write, do or say."

The awards are broken down into 16 categories: general, sermons, magazine articles, cartoons, college campus programs, community programs, editorials, essays, photographs with captions, public addresses, company employe publications, 16mm motion pictures, radio and television programs, advertising campaigns—national and local.

In addition, the foundation this week will honor 264 schools and school systems and present $100 cash awards to 45 high school publications for "outstanding editorials on freedom."

There are three principal awards in the general category — Men's Club of the First Congregational Church of Phoenix, Ariz., originators of the God and freedom medal distributed to U. S. servicemen; Robert H. Niemeyer (home address not disclosed) who was brutally beaten by hoodlums when he fought gambling, and ran for mayor, in his former home in North Lake, Ill., a Chicago suburb; and Western Maryland Railroad for its pageant "Mr. Lincoln Goes to Gettsbyburg."

Foundation officials said Niemeyer is honored "for the deeds, not for anything he wrote." They said he left North Lake to safeguard his family and added that the ex-Illinoisan will be under 24-hour protection during his Valley Forge visit.

The Louisiana individuals and organizations receiving Freedom awards included:

John Lanier, University high school, Baton Rouge, honor medal award, essay category for "Freedom Is Not Free."

National Guard On New Stamp

The United States post office department will next week issue a special National Guard commemorative stamp in recognition of the guards 300 years of faithful service to the American people in both war and peace.

Maj. Gen. Raymond H. Fleming, Louisiana's adjutant general said the birthday of George Washington, one of the nations most distinguished National Guardsman, has been chosen as the day the large-size 3-cent stamp will be released.

Since Washingtons birthday falls on Sunday the first day of sale will be Monday, Feb. 23, in Washington, D. C. Louisiana postmasters are expected to begin sale of the new stamps the following day.

A number of special ceremonies involving postmasters, local Louisiana National Guard units, and civic and patriotic groups around the state are planned to inaugurate the sale of the new stamps, according to General Fleming.

Following usual procedure the post office will not produce additional issues of the guard stamps after the initial run of 110 million stamps is exhausted.

Philatelists describe the stamp arranged horizontally with a double outline frame. The central design depicts a typical National Guardsman ready for action.

In the background scene to the left, the wartime activities of the Army and Air National Guard are portrayed by an amphibious landing with air cover. The guards traditional peacetime role of protecting life and property in time of local disaster is shown in the background scene to the right.

Across the bottom of the stamp is the wording "The National Guard of the U. S., "In War, "In Peace, in dark architectural Roman. In an ornamental ribbon across the bottom is the wording "The Oldest Military Organization in the U. S., in dark architectural Roman, the word postage and the denomination three cent in white face Gothic.

Official Explains Error In Tax Returns

Director of Internal Revenue Geo. A. Lambert states that numerous married persons in his district are erroneously using "Head of Household rates in preparing their 1952 individual income tax returns.

The "Head of Household" tax rate, Director Lambert explained, is available only to unmarried persons under those circumstances described in the Form 1040 instructions, and provides for tax benefits approximating one-half those received by a married couple filing jointly and taking advantage of the split-income computation. Unmarried persons qualify for the "Head of Household" tax rate when they meet the statutory requirements as outlined on page 4 of the official instructions accompanying Form 1040.

Taxpayers claiming the benefit of "Head of Household" status should not use Form 1040A but should file on Form 1040.

The use of the special rates by taxpayers not entitled to the status of "Heads of Household" results in errors entailing costly correction procedures, Director Lambert said.

Shreveport Woman Dies In Auto Crash

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 21 (AP)— A woman died of injuries received in a two-car collision in which four other persons were hurt just west of Bossier City today.

Police identified the victim as Mrs. Ida M. Erickson, 31, wife of Capt. John Q. Erickson of Barksdale Air Force Base and mother of four daughters. She died in a Shreveport hospital from head injuries.

The injured were identified as Mrs. Marguerite Van Wormer, 29, who was reported in serious condition at the base hospital; Mrs. Viola Liepsiz, 28, fractured rib, but not considered in serious condition; Airmen 2-c Gerald J. Milburn, 19, and Charles R. Freeman, 22, face lacerations, but their conditions were termed good.

Police said they did not know who was driving the car in which the three women were riding. They said they were unable to determine how the accident happened.

Gas Transmission Permit Is Sought

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Gas from Texas and Louisiana would go to Buffalo, N. Y., and Toronto, Canada, under a proposal before the Federal Power Commission.

Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. filed the application yesterday seeking authority to transport natural gas to New York state for the Iroquois Gas Corporation of Buffalo and to the Niagara Gas Transmission Co., Ltd., of Toronto.

The new application amends one filed by Tennessee last June when only Niagara was involved.

Among additional facilities involved are a 574-mile 30-inch line from Kinder, La., to Portland, Tenn., an additional 158 miles of lateral line in Louisiana and Texas, and three new 21,280-horsepower compressor stations, including one at Yazoo City, Miss.

The Skeletons March Forth

Out of the closets of the Truman-Acheson regime march the skeletons, seemingly by the dozens. The Senatorial Committee on investigations has begun to unearth matters pertaining to the "Voice of America," the official American propaganda agency, which will show what "line" that organization followed in the postwar era and how great an effect its leaders had in bringing about the destruction of the Chinese Nationalists in the Orient.

A Chinese Communist espionage agent has testified that W. Bradley Conners, the head of the "Policy and Plans Division" for the International Information Administration of the State Department "leaked" secrets to the Communists during the struggle by the Communists to gain control of China from its legal government.

Connors has of course, denied this most vehemently, and decried the idea that he ever supported the Communists in any capacity. However, history shows that his organization, the "Voice," abetted and supported the Communist "line" concerning the "Jeffersonian Democratic Agrarian Reformers who were eliminating from their nation the corrupt National Government" and in direct consequence, hurt the position of Chiang immeasurably when that man needed all the help he could get.

Never has the United States suffered such a defeat as it did in permitting the Communists to seize China.

Never was this nation so betrayed by its own leaders. At many intervals along the route, Chiang's government could have been saved. When General Marshall went to China as a "peace maker" a job he should never have been sent to do as it was proven to all that the Chinese Communists wanted no peace save that on their own terms, he was surrounded by the coterie which not only controlled the State Department, but which operated the American Embassy in Chungking at the time. John Service, Ray Ludden, the list is long of the left wing sympathizers and perhaps in some cases, proven Communists who advised General Marshall not to harken the words of General MacArthur and the Generalissimo Chiang himself who probably knows Communists better than the Communists know themselves, but to form his own opinions with their advice, of course.

This the General proceeded to do, and as a result, the Communists were given three separate armistices by Marshall which gave them the necessary precious time to regroup and reform their battered units in order to "whip down" Chiang. At this point. Marshall, in a famous or perhaps, infamous decision, decided "with the stroke of a pen" to cut off the aid which Chiang so desperately needed to carry the war to Mao's bandit government.

All this time it is well to remember that General Marshall's press advisor was none other than W. Bradley Conners who a Communist now claims was assisting the position of Communism in Asia. It is now time for General Marshall to attempt to clear himself of this entire affair if he can, and explain to the investigators the advisors he had, his reasons for turning down the advice of Chiang and MacArthur and principally, why he found it necessary to cut off aid to Chiang while that Christian General was attempting to keep the Communists from overrunning his nation.

It is time for Dean Acheson to get on the stand and try to explain to the American people why he found it necessary to allow these subversives to inhabit the state department and why the papers of General Wedemeyer which could have saved Chiang, were suppressed from the Congress of the United States.

All of this entire sordid affair is presently coming to light and more and more is expected as the investigation goes on. Why was it necessary for former President Truman to entitle the whole disaster a "red herring" when he should have known that it was certainly anything but that? Why is it necessary for Democratic Senators to play politics with a fearful disaster when it is apparent that they have no knowledge of what they speak and are only doing their nation a great disservice by regarding Chiang as anything other than the great fighter of Communism which he obviously is?

It is now certain that the web of intrigue extends to high places in the past administration which is naturally the main reason for all of this never coming to light. The new administration and Congress is determined to find out what happened and the people are in for shock after shock as the affair is unfolded.

It was America betrayed from within in one of the greatest disasters ever suffered by a nation and one which has cost America dearly in blood and which has only begun to bear bitter fruit.

An American Symbol

He was "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

That is what a contemporary said of George Washington, whose birthday is honored today. George Washington, the man, died in December of 1799. But since his death, the spirit of Washington has journeyed with us down through the years. George Washington, the symbol, lives on.

The symbol of Washington has marched like a giant in seven-league boots, shoulder to shoulder with the patriots who carved this nation out of a primeval wilderness. The symbol was there on the shores of Tripoli with the new nation's marines, and it was right up on the firing perimeter when a motley collection of men, whose only common bond was a faith in independence, stood up to an army of crack British troops at New Orleans. The symbol was there at the Alamo, too, and who knows but what his visage gave courage to a frightened soldier in the mud of France, or to a lonely seaman on night watch in the Coral Sea.

Washington's spirit was probably hovering somewhere nearby when President Monroe signed his doctrine that divorced America from Old-World territorial lust when Lincoln signed his proclamation, and whenever American legislators debate those laws and diplomatic moves which plot our destiny.

For Washington was a patriot, and orator, a servant of the people.

Every mile of path hacked through a wilderness and every acre of earth upturned by a spring plow was, and still is, a monument to the Father of America.

For Washington was a pioneer, an adventurer, and all his life he lent his support to those stout Americans who saw early that our destiny as a great nation hinged upon a relentless westward push through unsettled territory.

George Washington is a national legacy, a symbol of faith and hope and moral soundness. His memory is surrounded with both fact and fable, and with myth and half-truth. But the veracity of such things as the cherry tree incident and whether he actually tossed a silver dollar across the Potomac, remains incidental. What matters is that, in the early days of the Republic, Washington was there when he was needed. Like an omnipresent guardian, he nurtured hope and patched bitter quarrels, counciled the impulsive and spurred the reluctant. Out of his steady courage came a new nation which, today, while still young, draws the envy of all the world.

In those separated times in history when events of lasting importance rise to a climax, they very often depend to a great extent on the ability of one man to meet the challenge. Some men try, but fail. Others, gifted with a greatness that defies analysis, rise to meet the occasion.

George Washington, first president, was such a man.

The Current Situation

Last week, in an interview with congressional leaders, President Eisenhower and General Omar Bradley briefed the Congressmen on the present international and national situation. The Congressmen came away from the meeting visibly shocked and worried. Actually, they need not have gone to the President to find enough to worry about.

Most probably, any American with a small knowledge of existing conditions is fast becoming the owner of a new crop of grey hairs. However, the President is in possession of a great amount of facts which cannot be reported at this time but it is apparent that they are bad. If the reader is unable to get a clear picture of the fearful world situation which could explode in three or four vital areas at any time, he might consult his map of the world and check the facts.

Beginning at home on the domestic scene, the new administration is already beside itself with problems and worries which would stagger the strongest of men. The most important is that of balancing the budget. Unless this nation begins to operate "in the black" and put a halt to deficit spending, it cannot be considered a solvent nation. The main repercussion of operating on a deficit is naturally the lowered value of the dollar both at home and overseas. A business cannot continue to operate when it's outlay is annually larger than its financial intake.

The farm price situation is a thorny problem in the hides of the new administration. It is unthinkable that farmers of the nation should expect more than a fair share of return for the materials they produce and this is what is hoped will be the ultimate decision. The Democratic onlookers are using the entire farm problem as grist for their mill in hopes that it will hurt the administration and the GOP congress in the next election. It is believed that the farmers will prove the patriots they have been for years and will "stick by" the President who is attempting to put the nation on its feet financially again after so many years of wild spending. The Communists spy hunts continue with ghastly facts being uncovered each day concerning un-American infiltration of education, governmental departments, and other aspects vital to the nation. The dock situation in New York and Jersey City has assumed proportions never believed possible and the tap-roots extend to extremely high positions. Big, big money has entered the scene. The Tidelands issue has become more confusing every day due to the extremely adroit maneuver of Harry Truman at the end of his reign which turned the oil deposits over to the Navy in an obvious effort to politically embarrass the present administration.

Overseas, the Communists are continually killing off the Americans and South Koreans in their "stalemate" brought on by a shameful armistice which the public now realizes was a typical Communist maneuver for time. General Chiang readies his fleet for action against possible blockade runners into the Communist ports and the U. S. considers a blockade of the China coast. The British at Hong Kong are fearful that Chiang may fire on a British ship going to Communist China and are considering what counter measures to take.

American jet fighters are now armed "to the teeth" and will shoot down any Soviet fighter or airplane over Japan. Here is a number one crisis. Recently, to make the erroneously termed "cold war" a little "hotter," they chased Communist piston engined fighters out of the "home island" area. The Soviets have air bases three miles from Northern Hokaido. The Indian nation which still believes or wants to believe that peace is indeed possible with Communist China has counciled for no blockade of the China coast and no enlargement of the war. How they plan to accomplish these ends, they have not as yet informed anybody, but it is presumed that Nehru must have new ideas. The Indian minister to the Soviet Union has recently had an interview with Stalin and perhaps they will push another "peace conference."

The spotlight falls now on tattered Iran. That nation is appealing for aid of some sort while holding out on its oil and permitting the economic situation of the Persian nation to go from worse to near catastrophy. The British and Egyptians signed a treaty concerning the final disposition of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan and this deal may end strife in that area.

In Germany, the East Germans continue to pour through the East zonal fortifications in droves and the mayor of West Berlin, Ernest Reuter, has doubled the "air lift" from the city into the Federal German Republic giving these people hope for freedom.

These are but a few problems facing the world. They are cause enough to make any man and group of men grow prematurely grey.

"Hear, Hear!"

The Washington Parade

By Peter Edson

WASHINGTON — NEA — Any revision of the Taft-Hartley labor law by the 83rd Congress will mean compromising the views of a flock of currently irreconciliable elements.

They are President Eisenhower, Senator Taft and the rest of Congress; the conflicting opinions of the AFL, the CIO, John L. Lewis and other labor leaders; the National Association of Manufacturers and other employer groups; Secretary of Labor Martin Durkin and his advisory groups, and, last but not least, Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson.

Though Mr. Wilson has plenty to do in the Pentagon, as the co-author of the General Motors cost-of-living and productivity escalator clauses, he is an authority on modern labor relations. His voice will carry a lot of weight in the cabinet.

To get a line on how divergent are the labor law reform views of all these elements, it is only necessary to parallel a few of them. Begin with President Eisenhower:

In his campaign speech to the American Federation of Labor, Mr. Eisenhower said he was in favor "not of repealing, but of amending the law. He said the law as it stood might be used to break unions, and that must be changed.

In his State-of-the-Union message to Congress, the President again called for Taft-Hartley revision. He said he knew that Congress was proceeding with renewed studies, but that the Department of Labor would devise "further specific recommendations.

Durkin's Aides Work On Revisions

Secretary Durkin now has Department of Labor attorneys working on revisions. But it will be some time before they will have anything definite to report to Congress. The public-labor - management advisory committee which President Eisenhower announced would make other recommendations has not been fully organized.

Most of Senator Tafts 16 proposed amendments to his law are similar to those passed by the Senate in 1949, then allowed to die in the House. Most important of these amendments are the following:

Enlarge the National Labor Relations Board from three to five members and separate the office of NLRB general counsel from the board, giving the counsel more powers. End the T-H law ban against discharged strikers voting in plant elections. Eliminate the requirement for NLRB court injunctions in jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts. Permit workers to refuse to handle 'struck' work in secondary boycotts. Require management as well as labor union officials to take non-Communist oaths. Permit union shop contracts in the building trades to require union membership seven days after hiring instead of the present 30 days. Permit employers to refuse to check off (deduct from pay) union fines and assessments. Give unions the power to take membership away from Communists. Give employers the free-speech right to tell employes not to join a union.

These and other proposals which Senator Taft calls a mere starting point for discussion are considered unimportant by the big labor organizations, though they would accept most of the Taft changes.

Congress May Well Tighten Law

CIO has come up with proposals for seven major reforms which it says the Taft amendments do not touch. They include:

Prevent employer coercion under the guise of free speech. Remove governmental restrictions over collective bargaining, the closed shop, welfare and pension funds. End injunction proceedings including the 80-day cooling-off period. Protect industrial unions from being carved up into craft unions. Simplify and clarify the law to prevent delays in handling labor disputes. Strengthen the rights of workers to organize.

The AFL executive committee, at its recent Miami, Fla., midwinter meeting, drew up some 20 amendments it wanted. They are not to be announced in full until President George Meany testifies before the House Labor Committee. But among the principal AFL objectives are these:

End the 80-day injunction. Authorize the closed shop in building, printing and maritime industries. Remove the ban on secondary boycotts. Exempt building - trades workers from compulsory elections to determine bargaining agents. Prevent "packing" of NLRB with antiunion members.

In opening sessions of the House Labor Committee hearings on the Taft-Hartley law there was considerable sentiment for making it tougher. A ban on industry-wide and company-wide bargaining was proposed by Rep. Wingate Lucas of Texas.

Congressional sentiment being what it is, there is every possibility that instead of liberalizing the law, opening it up to amendment may er restrictions on union labor, whether President Eisenhower wants that or not.

Timmons In Washington

By Bascom N. Timmons and his Staff

That New Zealand beef, retailing in various cities at from 27 to 37 cents a pound, has added to the woes of an administration already worried about decline in domestic livestock prices. The widely publicized accounts of a "deluge" of low priced meat from "down under" are further disturbing an already unsettled domestic beef market, but the full story has not been told.

Exaggerations have been numerous in the report of meat markets being mobbed by buyers who want the cheap New Zealand beef. For example, one press account said that a retail butcher had sold 300,000 pounds of the imported product, whereas an inquiry revealed that he had bought only 17½ carcasses as an experiment. But 60 million pounds, orignally consigned to Canada, and owned by the Canadian government until sold at retail have come in, with U. S. packers acting as commission agents for its distribution and sale. Canada set the price at 21 cents a pound wholesale, but the packers are reported to be taking what they can get.

Other details in the New Zealand beef mystery are:

1. The New Zealand beef replaces Canadian beef banned from the U. S. by the hoot and mouth embargo, which is due to be lifted March 30. Packers say that the N. Z. beef is from 7 and 8 year old steers, described as overfat grass cattle, with fat too strong for the American palate, particularly since the beef has been in frozen storage for 9 or 10 months. They say unless it is sold soon, the meat will be inedible.

2. To U. S. cattle raisers who have protested to packers against their participation in the New Zealand meat deal, the inelegant reply is "Ask Washington. Its their baby. We've either got to sell it or smell it.

3. Explanation is that the Republican administration has inherited obligations from the Democrats to permit imports of specified amounts of foreign meats under the reciprocal trade agreements act, which does not expire until June 30. Canadian government officials are said to rue the day that they offered the U. S. the New Zealand beef, early last year. With cattle growers annoyed over the dumping of that cheap beef in some local markets, they may organize a drive to block the lifting of the Canadian embargo March 30. That would cost Canada millions of dollars in addition to the heavy losses her cattle producers have suffered from hoof and mouth disease.

4. The packers point out that (1) 60,000,000 pounds of beef is not even one days consumption for the United States (2) if they had not agreed to distribute the beef to butchers willing to sell it, it would have been grabbed up by the former black marketing groups and distributed under less sanitary conditions than has been the case.

That sums up the information on New Zealand beef, which some consumers say taste good and others don't think much of, but it does not end the story of the troubles the Department of Agriculture must face in coming months. With lambs in several big lamb growing districts overweight because growers held them too long —waiting for controls to be lifted — the decline in livestock prices has caused a market surplus. But within several months, New Zealand and Iceland (of all places) will ship some thousands of lambs to the United States, also under the reciprocal trade treaties.

The packers managed to get rid of about half of 60,000,000 pounds of New Zealand beef before the uproar, and believe they can siphon off the rest, much of which is already en route to retail outlets. But they wonder what will happen when the livestock producers are stirred again by the lamb invasion.

None of this is bad for the consumer, who should benefit by cheaper meat prices with no prospect of shortage in his favorite cuts, for the remainder of this year. Last year the great American appetite consumed 9.6 million pounds of beef and 22.5 million pounds of all meats, which is one reason the packers discount the effect of 60 million pounds of dirt cheap New Zealand beef on retail prices. But they are still having a hard time getting rid of it.

President Eisenhower has included the extension of the reciprocal trade agreements in his 11 point agenda for this session of his first Congress but Republicans on Capitol Hill are beginning to wonder if the flare - up over meat importations may not change the currently favorable outlook for general extensions. During the Truman administration with supports and controls in effect, the annual quotas from Canada, Mexico and other countries moved in with hardly an objection from U. S. growers.

Now, with prices skidding and the excitement over the New Zealand deal, the old farm bloc, which has kept other Republican presidents awake nights, may reappear like the dragon at the Chinese New Year — but unlike the dragon it will not be papier mache.

Editor, Morning World:

I am a Monroe man here in Korea and I read your newspaper as often as it gets to me and I would like to make a request of you.

Everybody else seems to contribute to the south Koreans —clothes, toys, and shoes, so I figured why can't Monroe do it? I have been in Korea eight months now and I sure would appreciate it if you would run an appeal for clothes in your paper. I've seen the suffering and the hardships the people have been through and I think we should help.

There are a lot of people in Monroe who have old clothes, shoes, and toys not in use so why can't they send them to us so we can distribute them among the needy. It is very cold here and with the small amount of clothing the Koreans have, I can't see how they survive.

Please appeal to the people of Monroe and the Koreans will be grateful.

JOHN BRASSELL

NATION-WIDE COVERAGE

New Orleans.

Editor, Morning World:

I want to congratulate you on your editorial "Memo to Local Students. I read it with much interest, and I sincerely recommend it for distribution throughout the schools, especially high schools, of our state and nation.

With your permission, I shall endeavor to have it presented to all the leading newspapers in every one of the forty-eight states. With all of the so called delinquency on the part of parents and children, I do believe your editorial is very timely, and it should be given serious consideration by every one responsible for the guidance of our youth of today.

There is one thing I would suggest adding, however, and that is that each child in our schools, both public and private, be required to study the Constitution of the United States, including the Bill of Rights and the Declaration of Independence. There was a time in our history in which each child in school was required to learn the Declaration of Independence and recite it. Today little or no reference is made to these vital documents which can be so well applied to the preservation of our American heritage and the establishment of freedom among all races of mankind.

CHIANG KAI-SHEK

Bastrop, La.

Editor, Morning World:

It was with genuine appreciation that I read your editorial "A Confused Mind.

Through the pages of history and for 45 years from the pages of dailies and magazines I have read of the rejection, assassination and even crucifixion of great leaders.

I saw our country let the fanatical leaders of organized churches harass, assassinate the character, and try to exterminate Tom Paine, one of the greatest Americans that ever lived and certainly no infidel.

I saw a great leader of democracy or of a kindred spirit, deserted by our country and our allies and murdered by the Communist Tito. When Mikhailovitch fell, we lost a good friend.

I, like the senator referred to in your article, am not qualified to judge Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. But I am willing to accept the value and love that millions of Chinese place in him and let it rest here. I had rather have a friendly Kai-shek than a snake-in-the-grass Communist. If Kai-shek is a despot, he must be a benevolent one, to hold the love, respect and following of so many millions of Chinese. I say, let the Chinese choose their own leader and let us cooperate with him if he is friendly to us.

I know there was some unforgivable blundering or plain out conniving with communism that caused our government to fail to give Kai-shek the help he needed that would have prevented this great Korean debacle and butchery of our boys.

Revenue Bureau Seizes Property Of Fugitive

LYNCHHURG, Feb. 20 (AP) — The Internal Revenue Bureau seized property today owned by Howard Thomas Wallace, ex-convict sought in a number of southern states for crimes ranging from holdups to bank robbery.

Property was seized, the bureau said, to satisfy a back taxes claim for 1949 and 1951 amounting to $4,559.58. The bureau had filed a $21,647 lien against Wallace last month in Birmingham, Ala., for unpaid taxes.

Among the property taken today was a 1951 Cadillac Wallace was driving when he was arrested here Saturday during a drug store safecracking, a large sum of money, a two-carat diamond ring and a 21-jewel wrist watch.

Police said Wallace had $3,692 in his wallet at the time and he and Coy St. Clair Krantz of Martinsville, Va., were apprehended here by police after a patrolman noticed signs of a break-in at a drug store during a routine check.

Wallace was shot in the hand and Krantz had to be tear-gassed from the building, police said. The two were bound over for grand jury action yesterday on charges of statutory burglary. They are being held without bond.

M. B. Pearson, owner of the drug store that was entered, has attached $1,000 of the cash found on Wallace, and revenue agent W. H. Lloyd of Lynchburg said today that Pearson's claim precedes any other on the money.

The accused man—who has served time for previous crimes in Tennessee, Alabama, Kentucky and Missouri—gave his name at the time of his arrest as George Mason of Hot Springs, Ark. His true identity was disclosed Tuesday through a police circular received by local authorities.

Wallace is wanted in Tennessee to face trial on charges of a night club robbery in Nashville in 1951. He was being returned to Nashville early this year from Jackson, Miss., when he escaped from his guard at Sheffield, Ala. Roanoke, Va., authorities already have charged both Wallace and Krantz with breaking into a drug store there earlier this month.

Rookie Captures One Of Ten Most Wanted By FBI

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 21—UP—An FBI file clerk who is taking a correspondence course to become an agent made his first arrest Saturday after spotting one of the nation's 10 most-wanted criminals.

The nabbing of Theodore Richard Byrd, Jr., at nearby El Reno, Okla., ended an 18-month search by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and peace officers throughout the nation. FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said in Washington Byrd cashed $40,000 in worthless checks in 1951 and 1952.

Robert L. Harvey, Jr., 27, was on his way home in El Reno when he stopped in a cafe there about 2 a. m. for coffee.

He had worked until 12:30 a.m. in the Oklahoma City FBI office, where a few months ago he helped mail hundreds of circulars describing Byrd.

"I was just leaving the cafe when I noticed a taxicab drive up and this fellow get out," Harvey said. "Somehow it rang a bell.

"I went on and got into my car, but when the fellow went inside, I got out and walked to the cafe's front window and looked at him again. By that time he had taken off his hat. He was facing the window. I knew it was Byrd.

"I thought maybe he had seen me peeping at him and would check to see if I drove away. So I ran to the police station."

The station was three blocks away, but within 10 minutes Harvey was back with three El Reno officers. He and Lloyd Palmer, a uniformed patrolman, entered the cafe's front door as two other officers closed in from the rear.

Byrd, described as dangerous because of narcotic addiction, was unarmed. He denied his identity for a while, but gave the officers no trouble.

The 26-year-old ex-convict was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Paul Showalter on charges of interstate transportation of stolen property. He pleaded innocent and was held in jail when he failed to post the $50,000 bail set by Showalter.

D. A. Bryce, chief of the local FBI office, said Byrd cashed forged cashier's checks totaling $9,300 i.. two banks here last April 14, and a $7,500 forged check at Albuquerque, N.M., the next day. When arrested, the forger had $189.50 in his pockets, along with a hypodermic needle and forged medical identification cards on him.

Harvey said Byrd at first insisted he was Dr. Melvin Leroy Busch of Chicago, Ill. Harvey, whose father is El Reno's police chief, said he is taking a pre-law course by mail from University of Oklahoma. He said he hopes to go to law school while working nights for the FBI, so he can qualify as an agent. career," Harvey said, "but I don't expect this to happen very often. This was one of those once-in-a-million deals."

300 Retailers To Convention

More than 300 Louisiana retail merchants are expected to gather in Baton Rouge Wednesday, Feb. 25, for the seventh annual convention of the Louisiana Retailers Association, A. B. Freyer, Jr., president announces.

Registration for the one-day convention will begin at 9:30 a.m. at the Heidelberg Hotel.

Governor Kennon will address the group at the luncheon meeting and Baton Rouge's Mayor Jesse Webb, Jr., will welcome conventioneers during the morning session, Freyer said.

This year, for the first time, the association has planned a program of entertainment for wives of members who attend the event. It will be held Wednesday morning and will feature Baton Rouge entertainers including Justin Wilson, reconteur; Pike Burden, magician; and Orene Muse, society editor.

Featured speaker at the noon luncheon will be Charles B. McFee, Jr., managing director of the Virginia Retail Merchants Association, Richmond, Va. Freyer stated that McFee is one of the most dynamic and well-informed speakers in the retail field.

"Highlight of the convention will be a town-hall type meeting at which retailers will have an opportunity to discuss such store problems as merchandising, advertising, finance and controls and other store operations, Freyer said.

The president pointed out that the Louisiana Retailers Association is the only organized group in the state which represents all types of retailers at both state and federal legislatures.

"The primary function of the state association is to safeguard and foster the interests of all merchants in Louisiana and, by the same token, protect and promote the welfare of the consuming public which we serve, Freyer said.

Mexican Town Celebrates Capture Of Fish Pirates

TAMPICO, Mexico, Feb. 21 (AP) —The entire population of Tuxpan paraded in the streets today celebrating the capture of two Brownsville, Tex., fishing boats and their nine fishermen by a platoon of Mexican soldiers, reports from the coast town said.

Capt. Ramon Garcia Sanchez, commander of the infantry which made the catch while navigating a private boat, said the two fishing vessels, "Gulf Ranger" and "Courage", were captured a mile from the Mexican shore with a ton of giant shrimps aboard. This is well within the nine-mile limit claimed by Mexico for her territorial waters and the three-mile limit recognized by the United States.

The Tuxpan population has been aroused by recent reports of violation of Mexico's territorial waters by United States, Cuban and Honduran fishing boats, and by the Mexican Navy's admission it did not have enough boats to stop the practice.

Mexican authorities said 48 foreign fishing boats have been captured in Mexico's waters since the war. Uusually the Navy fines a fishing boat 500 to 1,000 pesos ($58 to $116), and sometimes confiscates the nets.

Herbert T. Bayard, skipper of the "Gulf Ranger," and Earle H. Bowie of the "Courage" were being held at military zone headquarters and the crewmen at police headquarters.

U. S. Consul Kennedy M. Crockett planned to go to Tuxpan on the first available plane.

At Brownsville, W. L. Hardy, president of the Brownsville Shrimp Producers Association, said: "We don't know yet whether we'll take any action." "We don't know where the boats were picked up or the circumstances under which they were taken into custody."

Both the Courage, owned by Dan Thomas, and the Gulf Ranger, owned by N. A. Hardee, sail out of Brownsville.

"We have instructed all our members to stay without the territorial waters claimed by Mexico," Hardy said.

"Winds in the Gulf were very high yesterday, and it is assumed the boats were seeking shelter. If that was the case they probably went inside the 9-mile boundary, but they probably were not fishing."

Asked if there was a possibility the association might sue the Mexican government, Hardy said: "We don't know. We will make no plans until we definitely find out the circumstances."

Fred Waring Is Booked In Tech

A real treat will be in store for all who attend the performance by Fred Waring, noted orchestra and choral conductor, at the new memorial gymnasium in Louisiana Tech on Thursday, February 26 at 8 p.m. Not only noted for orchestral and choral achievements, he is possibly best known for his pioneering in the industry.

It was Waring and his Pennsylvanians who made the first popular music records with a vocal chorus. Today his glee club has become well known throughout the world. It was he who recorded the first rhumba tune. He and his Pennsylvanians appeared in the first musical motion picture, "Variety Show."

It was Waring who first tried out choral groups on a radio show. It had been turned down by 32 prospective sponsors who were sure the thing would never work.

In the development of diction technique he also ranks as a pioneer.

The present trip by the Waring group started January 25 when 60 entertainers left New York for a 17,000 mile trip to 58 cities in 24 states. In a two month period, Waring must also produce two television studios — one originating in Los Angeles and the other in Kansas City in addition to the daily schedule of concerts.

The Ruston Kiwanis Club is sponsor of the performance to be given in Tech, next Thursday night.

Thunderjets Catch Reds By Surprise

By FORREST EDWARDS

SEOUL, Sunday, Feb. 22 (AP) — Bold F84 Thunderjets caught the Communists by surprise Saturday by ranging up to the Manchurian border in North - Central Korea, sowing gasoline fires and ammunition blasts through a sprawling rail-communications center.

The F84 attack on Manpojin, a border city in an area so remote that its targets normally are assigned to long range B29s, brought out 50 Russian-built MIGs seeking to rout the slower Thunderjets. But 42 screening Sabres took on the MIGs in the eighth straight day of sky fights.

The Fifth Air Force said Sabre pilots destroyed two MIGs, probably destroyed three and damaged two others in 13 dogfights Saturday.

The claims brought the eight-day total to 19 MIGs destroyed, seven probably destroyed and 20 damaged.

The air war went on around-the-clock, with B26s and B29s pounding the Reds Saturday night and early Sunday but there was little ground action along the frozen battlefront.

Bomb-blasted Manpojin is about 130 miles northeast of oft-raided Sinuijn through supplies the Reds usually funnel supplies across the Yalu from Antung, Manchuria. Manpojin is also on a direct rail and road supply route from Manchuria and is used as an alternate approach to the Red front lines.

"I don't think they were expecting us," said Lt. Co. Richard N. Ellis, of Montgomery, Ala., one of the F84 pilots in the Manpojin attack.

"The trucks in the target area acted crazy. They would stop in the middle of the road and pull off into the fields."

Returning pilots said they destroyed 18 buildings, 23 railroad cars and damaged a locomotive in addition to scoring numerous hits on fuel and ammunition stores.

Fighter - bombers and B26 light bombers also hit a Red supply buildup near the old Iron Triangle on the Central Front and an airfield at Sinmak, 50 miles above the Western Front, which the Reds keep rebuilding.

"Barrels and all kinds of supplies were flying in the air all over the field," said one B26 pilot, Maj. John Casarelli of Winter Haven, Fla.

In the sea war Allied warships and carrier planes pounded the Reds on both coasts Saturday.

On the ground, two Allied patrols stopped 500 Chinese believed bound for an assault on T-Bone Hill southwest of Chorwon on the Western Front early Saturday morning. The Chinese were caught moving down the flanks of the stem of T-Bone. Artillery and mortar fire was poured on the Reds for several hours before they withdrew.

The new armored "shorts" were given combat tests Friday night by U. S. soldiers on patrol on the Western Front. Two men were hit by shell fragments which ordinarily would have caused serious wounds but the four-pound nylon "diapers" stopped them.

Starting his classic retreat to the Dan, a major strategic move in the Revolutionary War, Gen. Nathanael Greene was completely without funds.

Alumni Council To Keep Out Of Stadium Debate

BATON ROUGE, La. Feb. 21 (AP)—The Louisiana State University Alumni Council today decided to keep out of the great debate over whether the football stadium should be enlarged before a new campus library is built.

The council, which directs the LSU Alumni Federation, voted 12-4 in favor of a resolution that in effect takes no stand.

It neither calls on the University Board of Supervisors to proceed with the $2 million construction nor delay it pending a possible change in fund dedication to a library project.

The vote was taken after two hours of open debate during which a flow of opinion and argument was heard from lawmakers, judges, lawyers and other alumni members on the growing controversy.

At least a dozen telegrams and letters were read from Legislators not present at the meeting.

The resolution adopted by the council was offered by J. Y. Sanders Jr. of Baton Rouge, who urged members not "to pit the Board of Supervisors against the Legislature at the risk of doing incalculable harm to the university."

The board meets Saturday to consider bids on expanding the present 44,000 seat stadium by filling in the south end with 20,000 additional seats and transforming it from an open "U" to a complete oval.

The Sanders resolution stated that the taking of bids was an administrative function of the board and he reminded that the board had to be guided by the wishes of the Legislature.

It also called on the Legislature to provide funds for an auditorium and a library "among other things."

Funds for the stadium project are available under a $6 million bond issue of the 1950 Legislature which gave the stadium top priority after the medical school in LSU's building program.

Opponents seek to change dedication of the remaining $2 million left over from the medical school to a new campus library which they claim President Troy H. Middleton has endorsed as the university's number one need rather than the stadium.

A number of alumni members appeared before the council urging that stadium plans be halted until the Legislature has a chance to review the situation.

Three members of the Board of Supervisors were present but took no part in the debate and did not vote.

Leon Hebert, a representative of the North Baton Rouge Lions club which polled the Legislature on the question, reported that 40 favor the library, four would keep present fund priority and 12 have reserved opinion.

"The very core of a university is its library," he stressed. "The athletic program has its place but should not dominate."

Hebert cited figures to show that the present stadium has only been filled once in the past seven years and has had an average 16,000 empty seats per game.

Sen. Horace Wilkinson of Port Allen took the stadium side in the controversy with four main arguments:

1. The Legislature has twice refused to change dedication of stadium funds to a library.

2. Since the University Board of Supervisors accepted the money it is under moral obligation to complete its part of the bargain and carry out legislative wishes.

3. Baton Rouge is a growing city which will, in time, need a larger stadium. He offered the new Rice Stadium in Houston as a parallel with the LSU situation.

4. The stadium actually supports all university sports and LSU should be devoted to "improving the body as well as the mind."

Carlos Spaht, former gubernatorial candidate, pointed out that not only had the Legislature twice refused to substitute a library "but . . . surprising as it may be. . . had crossed out the library altogether in the last session."

Sanders went even further and reminded that it was the Legislature that had put the stadium into the bill in the first place "a clear indication of legislative intent."

He said that when former President Stokes brought the original building program before the 1950 Legislature it was on the verge of defeat until a committee tacked on the stadium priority.

Both Spaht and Sanders argued that council action would put the board "in an embarrassing position with the Legislature and jeopardize future appropriations.

A delegation of Shreveport alumni headed by Harry Elder, John R. Pleasant and C. T. McCord led off for the library proponents.

Pleasant warned that if the stadium is enlarged "it will be thrown into LSU's face every session of the Legislature."

Red Cross Allots $100,000 To Holland

The American Red Cross, on behalf of the American people, has made an initial allocation of $100,000 for the procurement of emergency supplies for Netherlands flood refugees, O. N. McNeil, chairman of the Ouachita parish Red Cross chapter, has been informed by the organization's national headquarters in Washington, D. C.

These funds have been turned over to the League of Red Cross Societies, Geneva, Switzerland, for administering. The League, and also the Netherlands ambassador to the U. S., have reported that present needs for clothing, bedding, shoes and medicine in the Netherlands flood zones have been adequately met by donations already received. Great Britain and Belgium disaster areas also have adequate supplies of these items, it was reported.

Persons desiring welfare information about relatives, friends or others, whether military or civilian, may obtain specific instruction procedure by contacting the Red Cross chapter here, McNeil said. They should call 3-5141 and ask for Mrs. Taunton Veazey.

the Monroe property follows closely an announcement that United Gas has bought a plot of land at the southwest corner of Pine and Cypress streets in West Monroe on which early construction of a building is planned for the local distribution office there.

United Gas already has a half-million dollar service center under construction on Louisville Avenue in Monroe to accommodate the warehousing, service, construction, engineering and transportation facilities of the distribution division of the company for northern Louisiana.

No announcement was made by Mr. Cage as to the size or cost of the buildings to be erected in West Monroe and Monroe. It was stated, however, that the company plans direct and convenient service to its thousands of patrons on the west side of the river, as well as on the east side. General belief is that the contemplated improvements, including acquisition of property, will be well in excess of $1,000,000. Removal of buildings from the property has already begun.

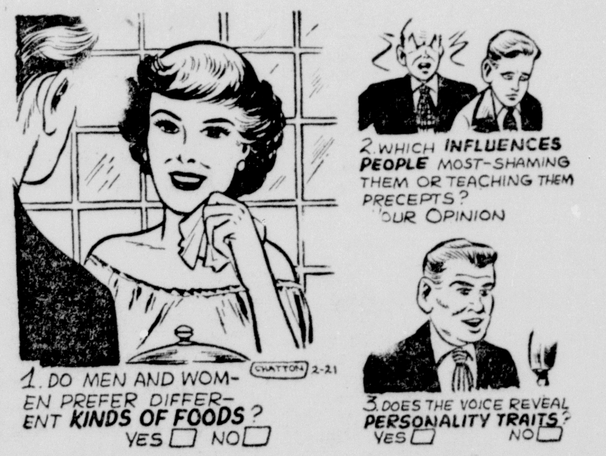
LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D Sc.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off



Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes, decidedly. Psychologists found in studying food choices in cafeterias that more than three times as many men as women ate cereals for breakfast. Many of the women ate fruit for breakfast; most men skipped it. Twice as many men chose whole wheat bread, while nine out of ten women preferred white. Women ate three times as many salads and 50 per cent more desserts. No wonder they have to slenderize!

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Shaming them. Two psychologists found in their studies of 10,000 children, 8 to 14 years old, that moral precepts do little good. Everybody knows most moral precepts by heart, but only keeping them makes moral character. Yet, millions of men go to their death for fear of being called "cowards." They even steal to pay gambling debts so as not to be called "bum sports." Shaming people is sometimes the best way to make them carry out moral precepts.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Yes, to an astonishing degree, according to tests at Harvard University. The voice tells in many cases whether a person is tall, short, fat or thin, an extrovert or introvert. "Judges" were right 99 per cent of the time in telling whether an unseen speaker was "moody," "nervous," "precise," "dapper," and so on.

Proposed Radio Debate Dropped

The public's interest in the L. S. U. library versus stadium controversy prompted Paul Goldman, vice - president and general manager of KNOE in Monroe, to arrange a state - wide network of radio stations in Alexandria, Baton Rouge, Lafayette, Lake Charles Monroe, New Orleans and Shreveport to broadcast a complete discussion of the subject. The statewide broadcast was arranged for Monday night but had to be called off because it was impossible to get any one to speak publicly on the stadium side of the question.

Goldman stated that he was able to get several members of the L. S. U. board of supervisors to agree to speak on the side of the library and that, in an effort to obtain a presentation of the stadium side of the controversy, he placed a call to every member of the board, beginning with the chairman, who was not known to be in favor of the library. He was able to reach by telephone and discuss the proposed broadcast with all but two members of the board, of whom one was confined to the hospital and the other could not be reached. None of the board members thus contacted would agree to discuss the subject on the stadium side or even to present for the public benefit a factual discussion of the entire matter. Goldman stated that the purpose of the broadcast was to present both sides of the controversy to the public in the public interest, rather than to present an unrebutted discussion of the library point of view, and since no board member could be found who would agree to present the case for the stadium, he felt that the proposed program should be called off and proceeded to do so.

Thomas W. Leigh of Monroe, a member of the L. S. U. board of supervisors and former chairman of that body, when asked to comment on Mr. Goldman's action, confirmed the fact that he was one of those members who had agreed to take part in the proposed discussion in the interest of the library. He expressed a willingness to defend at any time the need for a library as opposed to the need for a stadium but agreed that in view of the inability to have both sides of the case presented, Mr. Goldman's action in calling off the proposed program was probably sound.

"My views in favor of the library are already well known," Leigh stated; and continued, "I think a public discussion of both sides of this controversy would have been a fine thing, but until and unless the arguments (if any) which can be advanced for going ahead with the stadium are presented for public consumption, there is perhaps little point in burdening the public via a state - wide radio broadcast with further repetition of the arguments in favor of a library which have been so capably presented by the alumni and by the public press."

Leigh also called attention to the fact that the minutes of the meeting of the board of supervisors held on April 5, 1952, reflect the following action by the board of supervisors:

"The president was authorized in asking the legislature for $3,500,000 for a new library to express the willingness of the university to use funds presently dedicated to the construction of an addition to the stadium, and to decrease the amount of the appropriation by the amount of such funds. It was the understanding that such action would not prejudice future plans for the stadium, but that by such action funds already available would be used for construction which could be made at this time, and that at a future date, when the construction of the stadium addition could be undertaken, the legislature would be at liberty to replace the funds."

He added: "Despite this action by the board, agreed upon dissent, two members of the board a few weeks later appeared before committee of the state senate and persuaded that committee to report unfavorably a bill which would have accomplished the reallocation of funds from the stadium to the library in accordance with the board's previous action. I am surprised that these two members were unwilling to debate in a public forum the position which they took before this senate committee."

music at the church where she was organist, her husband was president of the church board and leader in all that concerned the advancement of the cause it represented.

Despite the inclement weather the little Memorial Methodist Church was packed to the doors for the funeral. A former pastor of the church, Rev. George Pearce came from his present charge in central Louisiana to participate in the service.

Schools were dismissed for the city of Monroe on Friday out of respect for a beloved leader, and the Memorial Methodist Church has already established a Harvey Nelson Memorial Fund that will for time to come stress the value of the life of the man for whom it is named.

A package sent by mail to Keith H. Hootsell of Monroe Saturday contained that handsome, patriotic emblem that every possessor cherishes, a Purple Heart.

Its receipt on February 21, decade after Hootsell was critically wounded in World War Two when in North Africa, was within a day of the return of the date. He was wounded on Washington's birthday, February 22.

The coincidence that the Purple Heart was received almost on the anniversary date, caused him to once more live in memory of those battle - scarred days of the past.

Presbyterian men from cities and towns of north Louisiana have the habit of making a big day of it every year on Washington's birthday when they assemble at Alabama Church for a social time, hear addresses by leaders of the denomination and at noon eat themselves almost sick at a huge dinner prepared. This year it was held two days earlier than February 22, and what a day it was! But downpour floods failed to stop 300 men who assembled for the affair.

Monroe contributed a good-sized number despite inclement weather conditions. The governor of the state is reported to have been there and his newly - named superintendent of state institutions, Dr. E. D. Grant, who was speaker on the afternoon program.

Truman Memoirs To Be Published

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 21—UP—Former President Truman held his first news conference Saturday since he left the White House and revealed that Life magazine would publish his memoirs and that he would take his family to Honolulu next month.

Commenting that "it's just like old times," the nattily dressed former chief executive faced a battery of newsreel and television cameras to say he had selected Life to handle all rights in the memoirs because "I have observed that Life editors have presented other memoirs with great dignity and care."

He added that Life also "made the best offer" in the list of "a dozen, maybe more" bidders.

Details of the financial arrangement with Life was not divulged, nor was the exact time that the memoirs would be published.

(A reliable authority in New York, however, said the amount paid for all rights was "more than half a million dollars.")

Mr. Truman said the work would be published in one or two volumes.

"It will not be published for two years," he said in a prepared statement, "in the belief that by 1954 he will be able to speak more fully on the subjects pertaining to the role his administration played in world affairs."

Spokesman for Life in New York said they expected to start publication of the memoirs some time in 1954.)

Mr. Truman told the newsmen that "Mrs. Truman, Margaret and myself" will sail for Honolulu on the liner President Cleveland on March 22 for a month's vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman will board the ship at San Francisco and daughter Margaret will join them at Los Angeles the next day, he said.

TO VISIT MONROE — Miss Neva Jane Langley, the Georgia Peach who copped the Miss America of 1953 beauty contest, will be the main feature of the spring concert tour of the Wesleyan College glee club, when it visits Monroe on March 6. The famed Georgia group is being sponsored by the Monroe-West Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce. Also featured with the glee club will be Miss Carolyn Stroupe, Miss Dixie of 1953.

Miss America To Visit Here With Glee Club

The nationally famous glee club from Wesleyan College, Macon, Ga., will appear in Monroe on March 6 under the sponsorship of the Monroe - West Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce, Henry Biedenharn, chairman of the special committee, has announced. The Monroe concert has been scheduled as one of the stopping points for the Georgia group on spring concert tour.

Featured as the two outstanding members will be Miss Neva Jane Langley, Miss America of 1953, and Miss Carolyn Stroupe, Miss Dixie of 1953. Both of the beauty queens are students at the Wesleyan School of Fine Arts.

Organized in 1836 as the first college in the world chartered for the specific purpose of conferring degrees on young women, Wesleyan is a two campus college. The Liberal Arts College is open to young women and the School of Fine Arts is open to both men and women.

Girls from both campuses make up the glee club's membership. Vladimir Zorin, internationally known choral director and professor of voice at Wesleyan, will conduct the group.

The glee club will present a varied program which ranges from church choral music by Handel to traditional folk music and Negro spirituals.

Plans For Filibuster On Tidelands Mapped

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (Special)—Senate foes of tidelands legislation are quietly planning a filibuster through which they hope to either block or defeat enactment of a bill at this session of Congress.

In fact, delaying action will start before hearings on the various pending bills now underway before the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs committee are completed.

Sen. Lister Hill, Dem. of Alabama, who favors federal ownership of the off - shore submerged lasds with revenues distributed proportionately to all the states for educational purposes, reports that he will have probably thirty witnesses to appear before the committee on behalf of his amendment.

Some twenty members of the senate, mostly New Deal Democrats from northern states, are understood to have agreed to "debate" the tidelands question at length when a bill is finally reported to the senate by the committee and becomes the business of that body.

They acknowledge that they do not have at this time, at least, anywhere near enough votes to prevent passage of a measure restoring the off - shore lands out to traditional boundaries to Texas, Louisiana and California.

Their strategy will be to hold up a final vote for as long as possible in hope that senate leaders will be forced to lay the measure aside because of the press of such "must" legislation as appropriation bills and those dealing with laws on the statute books which expire June 30 unless extended.

Should they succeed in forcing the bill aside, they believe that they will be in a position to prevent a vote at this session of Congress, at least. Senate leaders recognize the situation and will do everything they can to expedite start of senate debate on the measure so that even a fairly prolonged filibuster would not stand seriously in the way of other urgent senate business.

Fortunately, from the standpoint of the sponsors of the legislation, both floor leaders of the senate, Republican Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Democrat Lyndon D. Johnson of Texas are strong supporters of the states' legislation and will cooperate 100 per cent to press the legislation and break the threatened filibuster.

In the House of Representatives, of course, no filibuster of this character is possible under the rules of that body. Hearings before the House Judiciary committee are expected to resume during the coming week, and House leaders hope to have a bill out of committee and passed within the next month.

The Petroleum Administration for Defense, as such, will probably wind up June 30, when the life of the present defense production act expires.

In fact, top PAD officials, all of whom have been enlisted on a temporary basis from the petroleum and natural gas industries, do not plan to recommend continued operations unless the world situation should become much worse during the next several months.

They are expected, however, to suggest to Congress that certain stand - by authority be continued, particularly with respect to controls over aviation gasoline and materials needed for its production While no specific plan for submission to Congress has yet been drawn, it is anticipated that Secretary of Interior John McKay, who also serves as petroleum administrator, will propose that the oil and gas division of his department, which is a permanent agency, be somewhat expanded to take over the greatly reduced authority and work of the PAD in the future.

British To Hike Coal Price Soon

LONDON (AP)—The British government announced today it will raise the price of coal — the lifeblood of the nation's industry — 10 per cent next month in a determined effort to haul the vast socialized mining industry out of the red.

Industrialists and householders, who burn coal to keep warm, will pay an extra five shillings and sixpense (77 cents) a ton beginning March 2 — the biggest single price hike since the pits were nationalized Jan. 1, 1947.

The increase inevitably will touch off a spiral of other price rises through Britain, from steel factories and other key plants down to food stores. Extra freight charges will have to be levied to pay bigger railway fuel bills. Every commodity moved by rail will have to bear a part of added costs.

THE GREATEST BUICK
IN 50 GREAT YEARS

THE getaway of any 1953 Buick—SPECIAL, SUPER or ROADMASTER—is, in one word, dazzling.

Two things account for this. First: increased horsepowers and compression ratios. Second: Buick's new Twin-Turbine Dynaflow Drive.*

In every SUPER and ROADMASTER for 1953 is a new kind of V8 Engine—the first Fireball V8—and the world's most advanced V8, first in any passenger car to reach 8.5 to 1 compression. In every SPECIAL is a newly designed F-263 Fireball 8 Engine with the highest horsepower and compression ever offered in this Series.

To get fullest benefit from these brilliant engines, Buick engineers designed a new Dynaflow with two turbines instead of one.

Result: flash-fast getaway—less sound—and improved efficiency—added to the infinite smoothness of this power transfer. Getaway that brings the 1953 Buick SPECIAL up to 30 mph in fewer seconds than the mighty 1952 ROADMASTER.

But these Golden Anniversary Buicks put you way ahead in more than time and distance.

You're way out front in style, in comfort, in ride, in handling ease—and, very definitely, in value.

We'd like to prove that to you—while you're sampling any one of the greatest Buicks in fifty great years. Why not drop in this week?

'The Blazing Forest' Is Rough Northwest Story

The steel-fisted story of the rough-and-ready lumberjacks of the great Northwest is brought to the screen with a riot of color and excitement in Paramounts new Technicolor outdoor drama, "The Blazing Forest, now showing at the Tem Theatre. Set against this majestic background of the giant forests which comprise one of the nations most valuable natural resources, this power-packed screen adventure stars John Payne as a logging foreman whose men resent his relentless driving, but respect his ability. Also involved in the logging operations are Richard Arlen and William Demarest, while Susan Morrow and Agnes Moorehead lend able distaff charm to the rugged goings-on.

Much of the blazing action in the film revolves around Payne, as the hard boiled "boss who has private reasons for his rigid control over the men. Just as mutiny against his iron hand seems inevitable the giant trees, as if in protest, burst into flame. The conflagration starts quietly, but before long it has grown to major proportions as all personal enmities are forgotten, all differences set aside in a combined gigantic effort to stem the roaring glames. The courageous workers of the Forestry Service, the ceaseless vigil of the fire watchers, the bulldozers, the shovel brigade, and the fearless helicopter pilots who fly into the heart of the fire, all combine to make unforgettable screen drama.

Actually filmed against the ruggedly beautiful backdrop of Nevadas giant tree country, "The Blazing Forest brings to the screen all the majestic beauty and awesome grandeur of Americas last frontier. Producers William Pine and William Thomas, have even surpassed their previous successes in bringing to the screen this story so rich in authenticity, spectacular in scenic scope and powerful in its emotional impact.

Indicative of the painstaking care taken by the producers to make their story realistic, is the fact that 22,000 acres of actual timberland were "lent for shooting sites; and that a veritable supply depot of logging equipment — including ten tractors, five bulldozers, four fifty ton cranes and a dozen log trucks — was utilized in the filming. To prevent a real forest fire and thus save the burning of valuable timber trees, the Forest Rangers supervised the cutting of hundreds of condemned trees — slated to be destroyed in areas too thickly timbered — and transplanted them in the denuded area where the fire sequence was filmed.

"The Blazing Forest was written for the screen by Lewis R. Foster and Winston Miller, and was directed by Edward Ludwig.

BRODERICK CRAWFORD, CLAIRE TREVOR and a host of Damon Runyon's muggs and molls appear in "Stop, You're Killing Me," Warner Bros. comedy in WarnerColor which moves into the Paramount Theatre on Sunday, Feb. 22nd.

'Stop You're Killing Me' Opens Here Sunday

From the prolific pen of the late Damon Runyon, Warner Bros. brings to the screen, "Stop, You're Killing Me," the fast-paced gangster comedy which brings back the fabulous muggs and molls of the early thirties at their picturesque "best." Broderick Crawford and Claire Trevor star in the WarnerColor production, due Sunday, Feb. 22, at the Paramount Theatre.

Punctuated with songs and dances, "Stop, You're Killing Me" is the story of Remy Marko, gangland overlord who has desires to go straight because of his devoted wife and daughter. He takes his family and some loyal henchmen to Saratoga Springs where they occupy one of the resort's most palatial mansions. Meanwhile, a local race track bookie is held up for half a million dollars, and the bandits take refuge in Marko's house. At this point, the four are murdered by the double-crossing fifth, and the Marko family becomes involved with four "parties" which need to be disposed of; half a million in hot money, and a trigger-happy hoodlum hiding in the attic.

Crawford and Miss Trevor, both winners of the coveted Academy Award play the Markos, while Charlie Cantor, Sheldon Leonard, Joe Vitale and Henry Morgan are seen as the colorful Runyonesque mobsters.

"Stop, You're Killing Me" is a top production. Little expense was spared in building some of the film's impressive sets. The main rooms of the mansion, featuring twenty-foot ceilings supported by numerous carved columns, were constructed on a single sound stage as connected units and included a living room slightly smaller than a conventional hall, with practical fireplaces, the room purposely over-decorated with rich antiques, Oriental rugs, massive furniture pieces and oil portraits.

Based on a play by Runyon and Howard Lindsay, "Stop, You're Killing Me" features Virginia Gibson, Bill Hayes, Howard St. John and Margaret Dumont.

MOST SEDUCTIVE WOMAN—The role of history's most famous Queen and charmer is Claudette Colbert's in Cecil B. DeMille's Paramount production of "Cleopatra," which is being brought back to overwhelming popular demand to the screen of the Paramount Theatre Wednesday, Feb. 25th.

Most Fabulous Siren In 'Cleopatra' Spectacle

The pages of history which concern themselves with the lives of conquerors and kings abound with famous love stories. Although the world knows Napoleon as a conqueror of nations, it also knows him as the doting husband of Josephine. We remember that Louis the Fourteenth sat shakily on the tottering throne of France, but we recall well that the power behind that throne was the cunning and beautiful DuBarry. Charles the Second ruled England with an iron hand, but he was clay in the hands of charming Nell Gwyn, the little orange-vender of Drury Lane.

In all the pages of recorded history, no love story has held greater fascination down through the years than the story of Cleopatra and her love for Marc Antony. It is a story that has been admirably told by that master producer of screen spectacles, Cecil B. DeMille in his unforgettable Paramount production, "Cleopatra," which returns triumphantly to the Paramount Theatre starting Wednesday, Feb. 25th with Claudette Colbert starred in the title role.

An eminent historian has said that if Cleopatra's facial features had been different, the history of the world might have been changed. What he meant was that this woman possessed such compelling personal magnetism that she was able to sway the judgment of men both great and small. None who came within her ken were unaffected by her. At times implacable — at times tender—but always a woman and always a Queen, Cleopatra ruled an empire with her heart as well as her head. Her virtues were those of a Queen driven by compulsion toward her inevitable destiny; her faults were the weaknesses of a woman in love.

Cleopatra's place in history has long since been established; and it is indeed a tribute to her both as a woman and a queen that the story of her life and love still enthrall today as it did in the days of ancient Egypt. To see her on the screen is to live again the pomp and pageantry, the grandeur and glory, the intrigue and adventure, of an era rich in vital, passionate and enchanting drama.

Forestry Service Worker Held For Setting Blazes

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Feb. 21 (AP)—An employe of the U. S. Forestry Service and three other South Mississippi men were charged today with setting a series of forest fires in DeSoto National Forest.

J. M. Lopez, agent in charge of the New Orleans office of the FBI, identified the four men as Richard McCardle, 23, employed by the forestry service; his brother, Willie McCardle, 20, a truck driver; and James L. Shattles, 22, former employe of the forestry service and a recently returned veteran of the Korean fighting.

The quartet, all from Rt. 1, Brooklyn, Miss., eight miles south of Hattiesburg, were held in jail in lieu of $5,000 bond each. If made, the bonds are returnable at the April 13 term of U. S. District Court.

Lopez did not give a motive for the fires which burned some 6,000 acres in the DeSoto National Forest and some 2,000 acres on private lands in Perry and Forrest counties.

DeSoto National Forest is in Southeast Mississippi with portions in Greene, Forest, Wayne, Jones, Stone, Jackson and Harrison Counties.

The FBI said the fires were started about noon on Jan. 24 and were brought under control by members of the forestry service and about 180 men from Keesler Air Force Base near Biloxi.

Forestry officials said at the time that many hundreds of fires were set and that they burned themselves into 22 major blazes.

Damages were estimated to be about $48,000 not including the seedlings and small trees destroyed that had a potential value of millions of dollars.

The FBI said the maximum penalty for the charge is a fine of not more than $5,000 or five years imprisonment or both on each fire set.

Church Art

Light Is Key Factor

By ADLELAIDE KERR
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK — There's a plain-faced building here where you can see fascinating art work being created.

A blue - smocked artist bends over the drawing of a stained glass window that, one day, will glow like a giant jewel box against the grey stone of a cathedral wall. Nearby another completes a cartoon for a mosaic that will be set in tiny, colorful stones on another wall hundreds of miles away. On a floor below a third artist completes the design for a rich glowing tapestry. Here practiced fingers finish wood carvings, there an altar, there a light that will be buried in a ceiling to shed its glow downward.

It's the headquarters of the Rambusch Decorating Co., one of the country's leading decorators of churches and public buildings, whose work has been seen by milliones of American church-goers and sightseers.

It has had a hand in the decoration, refurbishing or lighting of many American cathedrals, among them Holy Cross in Boston, St. John the Evangelist in Cleveland, St. James in Seattle, St. Louis in New Orleans, St. Cecelia in Omaha. It has also done altars and chapel hangings for the U. S. armed forces at various bases in this country.

New York sight-seers have seen its work in the gleaming gold and silver ceilings in the main corridors of the Empire State Building and the giant metal mural that fronted the Medicine and Public Health Building at the New York World's Fair. Mid-westerners know its slab glass windows in the Indiana World War Memorial at Indianapolis.

Rambusch's activities grew out of a small decorating business founded by Frode Rambusch, son of a Lutheran minister, who came from Denmark to New York in the late 19th century. Today the firm is run by his sons: Harold, president and interior decorator extraordinary, and Viggo, vice president and architect. The business, which grossed two million dollars last year, grew steadily from the start.

"But it soon became evident that decoration is only the female side of it; the rest is light," says Harold Rambusch. "Churches often asked for counsel in lighting, so we extended our operations into lighting. Now we have a corps of illuminating engineers, working with our designers. Together they marry art and engineering. Thirty years ago we added stained glass, which is both part of the decoration and part of the light.

"Up to that time one man would do the windows for a church, one would do the altar and one the metal work. It was a hodge-podge. We brought the different types of work together in one firm. But we do the entire job under the direction of the building's architect."

Nearly three decades of experience in the decoration of churches has given Harold Rambusch some definite opinions on church decoration trends.

"There is the same struggle in the church as in the secular world —a battle between the contempoary and the traditional," he says. "There are those who believe we should build in the idiom of our age and those who feel that the church should be eclectic.

"The contemporary is making the same headway that it is in the secular world — today the best churches are built to fill needs and are decorated in the creative thought of a man of today speaking in his own idiom."

DECORATION of this Harrisburg, Pa., church was one of the jobs done by the Rambusch firm.

Speech Meet Scheduled At Northeastern

Students from high schools in 29 parishes in Louisiana will attend an all - day speech festival at Northeast State on March 27, James W. Parkerson, assistant professor of speech here announced today. This will be the first annual high school speech festival to be held on the Northeast State campus.

Parkerson said the college seeks through this medium to better serve northeast Louisiana and to stimulate greater interest among youth, in the communicative arts. The festival will include original oratory, extemporaneous speaking, radio speaking, after-dinner speaking and poetry reading.

"It is our desire to stress the educational values to the individuals participating in the festival, and for this reason we will not declare winners," he said. Each student will receive a rating for each activity in which he participates, with individual ratings to be given as "superior," "excellent," and "good."

An informal banquet is being planned for 6 p.m. the day of the festival, at which time the four highest ranking after - dinner speakers will give their speeches. Tickets for the banquet will be $1 per person and can be secured during registration.

Tech Will Fete Honor Freshmen

RUSTON, Feb. 21 (Special) — Louisiana Tech's annual banquet for freshman honor students is scheduled for 5:30 p. m. Wednesday, Feb. 25, in the private dining room of Adams hall under sponsorship of the Student Union of the college.

Ninety-seven freshmen with a scholastic average of B or better in at least 15 hours will be guests for the semi-formal occasion.

Parish Library Will Construct Children's Room

Work began this week on a special children's room at the Ouachita Parish Public Library and the room will be completed within three or four weeks, it was announced yesterday by Miss Frances Flanders, parish head librarian, and Mrs. John Duchkar, president of the Monroe Junior Charity League. The room, in which all furniture will be built to children's scale, is being undertaken by the Junior Charity League in cooperation with the parish library board.

When completed, the room will cost approximately $2,000 and will contain books for all children.

Formerly used as a store room for back issues of magazines, the room was completely razed when the magazines were no longer needed. During the fall of last year, the parish library purchased a special machine whchi uses microfilm for filing back issues of magazines. The machine and the film on which the magazines are photographed take up a small corner of one of the other rooms in the library building, allowing the former storage room to be turned over to the Junior League for the proposed "children's room."

"This project has long been desired by the Junior Charity League and we feel it will prove to be an asset both to the library and the children using it," Mrs. Duchkar said. "We have found the cooperation of Miss Flanders most encouraging in all phases of planning," she further stated.

Proposals for the special room were brought up at the Junior League meetings early last year, it was pointed out, and plans were advanced to provide the facility to the building. But because of the limited space, the room was not undertaken until the organization was notified by the librarian that the storage room could be renovated.

Bible Comment

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

It was Jesus who said, "Woe unto you, when all men shall speak well of you!" (Luke 6:26).

It might be assumed that a man who is truly good, because of his very nobility of character and love of his fellowmen would have no enemies. On the contrary, those hearts and ways are evil will hate the man whose very goodness condemns them.

So, Jesus, the best and noblest of all, had His enemies. And these enemies were of various kinds with various motives.

Jesus spoke of Himself and His disciples as "The light of the world" (Matthew 5:14), and there were those who "loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil" (John 3:10).

These were the enemies of Jesus simply because of what He was and of what they were.

Other enemies had more personal and specific cause for their enmity. They feared and hated anyone or anything that might endanger their power or authority.

Herod hated even a babe whom Wise Men were hailing as a newborn King. Scribes and Pharisees had the attitude of all authoritarians toward anyone who questions their authority and above all toward anyone who seems to speak with an authority that they do not possess.

Also there were those who in addition to their love of power and place were crooked and corrupt, as lovers of power and place, unworthy as they may be, not always are.

These, who abused their power could have only deep hatred for Teacher, popular with the people who denounced them and their deeds for what they were, calling them hypocrites and vipers (Matthew 23).

There is an interesting question concerning these denunciatory "woe - unto - you" pronouncements of Jesus in Matthew 23. Did He love those whom He denounced in terms of invective, perhaps as strong and bitter as have ever been spoken?

There remain the enemies whose motives were not so evident. Not among these was Nicodemus (John 3) who came to Jesus by night. Evidently he came as a sincere inquirer under cover of darkness while he was still unready to commit himself. Later he was won over.

Insincere inquirers and critics with enmity in their hearts were the people who sought to entrap Jesus by their questioning.

Among these were those who asked Him about giving tribute to Caesar, and the lawyer who questioned Him concerning eternal life (Luke 10:25), though this man may have been a questioning show-off (very common in our own time), rather than a man of insincerity.

We know how Jesus answered those who sought to entrap Him about the tribute by turning the trap and embarrassmen back upon themselves.

To the lawyer, whether sincere or not, He answered with the implication of a mild rebuke and proceeded to tell one of the greatest stories of all time, the Parable of the Good Samaritan.

The Golden Text is: "Great is our Lord, and of great power: his understandig is infinite" (Ps. 147:5).
Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Known unto God are all his works from the beginning of the world." (Acts 15:18).
The Lesson - Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "God is His own infinite Mind, and expresses all." (p. 310).

Bible Words to Live by

My favorite Bible Verse is:

PSALM 23:21 — "The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want."

In all its simplicity this word in the Bible includes everything that my soul craves and for which my heart cries out.

It rates me as a poor, helpless and defenseless sheep, which I truly am, a lost creature for time and eternity, were it not for my good shepherd.

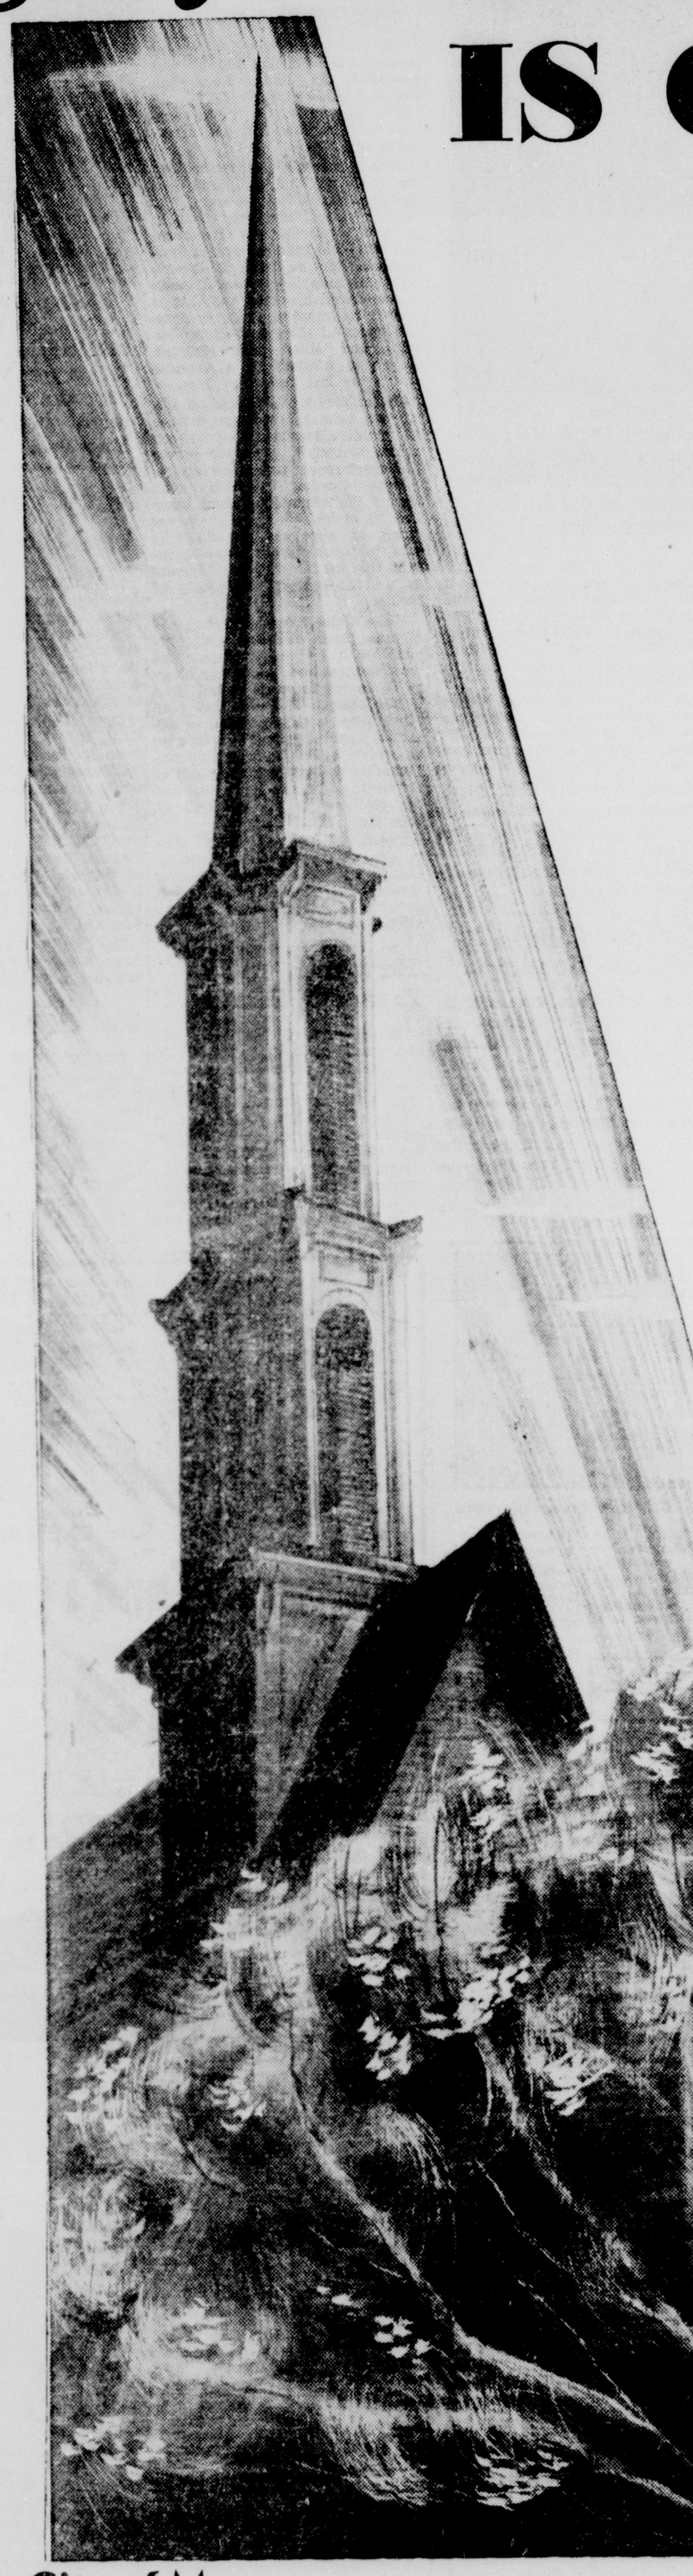
It includes God's providential care which satisfies all my wants.

It includes God's saving grace through Jesus Christ my Saviour. For he said, "I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd lays down his life for the sheep." So here is God's whole plan of salvation, eternal life through the death of Christ for sinners.

It is an expression of the faith of my heart, by the grace of the Holy Spirit, and "whoever believes in in him shall not perish but have eternal life." Therefore I trust with confidence. I have security, boldness, a living hope.

The Lord is my shepherd. When, from the heart I can say this, then I know that there will also be fulfilled on me the Word of God that "The God of peace, who brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, the great shepherd of the sheep by the blood of the eternal covenant, will equip me with everything good that I may do his will, working in me that which is pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ; to whom be glory forever and

A Mighty Fortress... IS OUR GOD



Through all times and all ages the Church has been a strong and mighty battle station against sin and moral decay. Through its portals the battle cry of soldiers of the cross has constantly rung.

The Holy Bible . . . the greatest arsenal of sacred ammunition ever entrusted to any race or to any people has always been found on the altar of the Church.

The banner of righteousness has flown steadily from the fixed redoubts of quaint and quiet community churches and impressive city edifices alike.

The torch of truth and salvation has been carried with flaming zeal to dismal outposts in distant and strange lands by self-effacing vanguards.

The Church's stirring hymns, its reverent litany, its jewelled creed, its holy festivals . . . all have been powerful weapons in the hands of purposeful men determined to see that right makes might.

From its pulpit parapets have resounded continual and courageous challenges to the forces of evil. Truly, the Church today is a mighty fortress in the defense of decency.

Army Engineers May Soon Give Up Flood Control Job

WASHINGTON, Sunday, Feb. 22 (Special) — President Eisenhower's administration was reported today to be looking for a way to put the Corps of Army Engineers out of the flood control business without arousing the animosity of Congress.

Rep. W. F. Norrell, D., Ark., told a reporter that such a move was "in the planning stage" but that he did not understand that any proposal to accomplish the task and place the function under the control of civilian agency has been "firmed up."

Another democratic congressman, Overton rooks of Louisiana, said that he has heard rumors concerning a possible reorganization of the construction functions of the federal government.

"If the administration decides to ask the Congress to transfer the present rivers and harbors and flood control operations away from the Corps of Engineers, I know the people in my district won't like it," Brooks stated. "They are well satisfied with the work of the engineers."

Others who have heard similar rumors are Senators A. S. Mike Monroney, D., Okla., and John McClellan, D., Ark. Members of the committee staff on government operations, which handles reorganization plans, reported that they too, have "heard talk" of such a move.

The proposal to take Rivers and Harbors and flood control construction away from the engineers was made formally in 1949 by the Hoover commission. The recommendation caused such a furore in Congress that President Truman never submitted a reorganization plan to accomplish the Hoover commission plan.

The President has already announced that he favors the reorganization of the Federal Security Agency into a new department of health and welfare.

Rep. Norrell believes that any plan concerning the engineer corps would be "kept under wraps" until the reorganization plan for the Federal Security Agency is submitted to Congress and safely acted upon.

The last "great debate" on the army engineers occurred in 1949, when the Hoover commission recommendation that all rivers and harbors and flood control functions be transferred to the Department of Interior was forwarded to Congress.

Members of Congress expect that the debate would be even more heated if a reorganization plan were submitted by President Eisenhower.

Former President Hoover was particularly bitter in 1949 about the "lobbying" of the army engineers to continue its civil functions. He said that they "mobilized their agency and their friends all over the country. They have prejudiced the case before Congress has had a chance to see the evidence."

Veterinarians Closing Work

The Ouachita Parish Health unit Monday begins the third and final week of its 1953 campaign against rabies, with a plea to dog owners to have their animals vaccinated for the sake of health of both canine and human population in the Twin City area.

Local veterinarians are in charge of immunization, and the fee per dog is $1.00. During the first two weeks of the campaign, 1,133 animals were vaccinated.

Vaccinations of dogs against rabies are required by ordinances of the parish police jury and board of health and the cities of Monroe and West Monroe, and beginning March 1, all dogs not wearing a tag showing a 1953 "shot will be impounded, officials announced. If not claimed within five days, the dogs then will be destroyed, it was stated.

Wild Life To Get Emphasis

Officials of the National Wildlife Federation, Washington, D. C., announces that Charles W. Bosch, Jr., Baton Rouge has been appointed Louisiana chairman for National Wildlife Week, March 15-21.

Purpose of the week, an annual observance since 1938, is to call attention of the nation to the problem of squandered natural resources in the United States.

The National Wildlife Federation, a non-profit organization financed through the sale of its yearly issues of wildlife stamps in color, represents — together with its affiliates in 46 states — more than 4,000,000 sportsmen and conservationists. Affiliate organization in this state is the Louisiana Wildlife Federation, Inc.

As chairman for the week Mr. Bosch will direct a campaign which will include appearances by conservation leaders before clubs and civic groups; proclamations by the governor and mayors; window displays in stores and business places; and statewide publicity.

The Wildlife Week chairman is executive secretary of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation.

Each year the federation calls attention to a species of wild bird or animal life which is threatened with extinction. This years symbol of wasted resources is the prairie chicken, or pinnated grouse. Once plentiful, the colorful bird now is found in relatively small numbers in approximately 15 midwestern and southwestern states.

In an effort to save the remaining flocks of the grouse, the federation has appointed a group of specialists to the national committee on the prairie chicken. Headed by R. A. Brown, Jr., attorney of St. Joseph, Mo., the former chairman of the Missouri conservation commission, the committee is preparing a detailed report on steps which may be taken to arrest the disappearance of the bird.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By SUE SHARMAN

Try outs for the fourth production of Little Theatre's 1952-53 season will be held this afternoon. . . Time and place, 3:30 at the Play house Selman Field.

The play for reading is "The Man", a real chiller in the mystery field. Not only is this play a mystery off the beaten path, which adds much to it's appeal, it would still just being a mystery, naturally capture and interest and imagination of American mystery lovers. Facts and figures from book stores, movies, radio and TV, all show that the American public enjoy an odd sort of relaxation with the unknown (whether it's Who Don-It, or Who Will - Do - It). Scientist and scholars or the man with the pick and shovel can and do equally enjoy the provocative issues in a good "Who-Done-It."

The five men and two women who are to be cast in this show are just right parts for somebody . . .Maybe it's you or you, who have been wishing for an opportunity for a fling at this business called acting. . .In the play just closed, "Bell, Book and Candle," four newcomers to our Little Theatre separates acting and reality, to turn in inspired performances that won't soon be forgotten. In fact, that's exactly what happened in all five roles of the play and if I don't hush about "Bell, Book and Candle" someone is going to get the idea that I have been obsessed or is the word be-witched?

No one needs an engraved invitation to try-outs. If you can't make it Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. then show up for the second go-round which will be held Tuesday evening at 8:00 o'clock at the playhouse. . .Your passport to the hall of acting fame need only be a sincere interest and desire for better theatre in Monroe. With your very human desire and Director Fontelieu's talents as a director "everything is in the bag for a good show."

OUR NEIGHBORS. . . The newly - organized Little Theatre of Ruston opens next week with their initial production Eugene O'Neal's "Beyond the Horizon," the first play to ever win the famed Pulitzer Prize. Their play dates are Wednesday February 25, skip 26 in favor of the Fred Waring show, and then Friday 27, and Saturday evening, 28. Directed by Perry Kinard, Jr., who recently returned to Ruston after association with the Alley Theatre, the Playhouse and the Houston Little Theatre, this O'Neil gem should prove just the right vehicle to kick the new Ruston Little Theatre off to a good start. . .I understand that the cast and crew of the recently closed Monroe Little Theatre production "Bell, Book and Candle" have been invited as special guest to see the Ruston production of 'Beyond the Horizon." As one commentator said it's mighty nice to have another Little Theatre so close... We spoke a moment ago of Fred Waring, who comes to Ruston next Thursday night which reminds us that a Shreveport drama critic, who never writes as though he has his tongue in his cheek, described Waring's Shreveport performance thusly, "With an ingratiating, precisioned formality, Fred Waring emceed a stageful of Pennsylvanians, musicans and singers, through a two - and - a - half-hour, intermissionless program at Municipal auditorium Wednesday night which wouldn't quit, so good was it all.". . .The Shreveport Little Theatre announced their cast for "Bell, Book and Candle" this week. The play will run for nine nights, through Saturday March 14. It would be interesting to see how their version compares to the recent Monroe contribution to the art of acting. . .The Courtyard Players of Shreveport, a group which performs exclusively in-the-round, are already in rehearsal for "The Man," our own main dish in theatre for the next five weeks. It looks like Shreveport and Monroe are running neck and neck or else trying to out do each other in the choice of plays. . .Northeast Players Guild has a treat in store for play - goers on March 13 and 14, when they present a variety ranging from comedy to drama, in three one - act plays. "The Stronger" by Swedish author August Strindberg revolves around the fact that a woman is in love with another lady's husband. Tennessee Williams is the southern playwright whose character sketch "The Last of My Solid God Watches," will be included in the trio. The third member of the trio, directed by Little Theatre alumni, Sylvester Breard, is "Overtones" by Alice Gerstenberg, an eastern author. Alice Montgomery, who won Little Theatre applause for her confused performance in the one-acter "Box and Cox," will appear in two of these productions. . .Congratulations and sighs of envy to Little Theatre actor of some several good productions, Carl Slakter who is spending a week of rest, relaxation and fun on a dude ranch in the "wild and wooley" west. Have fun Carl 'cause Little Theatre welcomes you back to the stage every chance they get.

World Champ Checkerist Coming Here

Information has been received from William F. Ryan of New York, many times world champion checker player, that he will appear at the Monroe Recreation Center, 113 Catalpa Street, on March 29 at 2:30 p.m. for a demonstration in blind-fold and crossboard play.

Ryan, generally recognized as the most colorful, dramatic and energetic checkerist the world has ever produced, has been winning world championships in crossboard and blind-fold matches and in tournaments for at least 20 years. Only one man in the world today is considered his peer and that is Walter Hellman of Indiana, present holder of the world championship, and Ryan and Hellman played to a draw in a 40-game match the last time they met.

The mighty Ryan is also an editor and publisher and has written and published numerous books on checkers, both in go-as-you please and three-move restriction styles.

Most checker players, even among the champions, dont know how to make the game seem exciting to onlookers but Ryan is said to be such a master showman that he can give the kibitzers as well as the players, plenty of thrills.

While at the Recreation center in Monroe, Ryan will play simultaneously with as many players as want to meet him, playing as many as 50 boards or more at one time if necessary. He will also play blind-folded with a number of different players, probably taking on as many as eight boards simultaneously without looking at any of the boards. He carries in his mind the positions of all checkers on both sides of all boards.

The demonstrations will be open to the public and no admission charge will be made. Checker players and others from all parts of north Louisiana are expected to attend.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The Monroe Recreation department, which conducts a ar - round athletic program for the youngsters of the y — and adults who seek a measure of recreation — is aving to speed up its winter basketball program to met a ilitary deadline.

With the possible reactivation of Selman Field, Recrea- on Director Jack Hesketh has been notified to be prepared vacate his Selman Field gymnasium by March 1. For hat reason, the several basketball leagues conducted by he department are having to crowd their schedules in an fort to be ready to meet that deadline and at the same time et in the required games.

Hesketh is of the opinion that he may not have to actually vacate the Selman premises on the first of March, but rather, be prepared to move out on "twenty - four hour notice" after that date. It's quite possible the various leagues will be permitted to clear their games at Selman this season, but it may be an entirely different matter next winter.

The Selman gymnasium was acquired by the city for he recreation department for the fulfillment of its wide thletic program. In another year Director Hesketh will be eeking other sites to carry on his program. Ouachita Parish igh and Louisiana Training Institute already cooperate permitting some leagues to use their gyms.

Thirty - three teams went into action in six leagues here his season with a total of 395 registered participants, 45 f them comprising the Girls' League, and the remainder in- luding the City League, Midget League, Church League, nd two Junior Leagues.

Ouachita parish sportsmen seeking to establish a game efuge within their home area might look to the Coulee onservation Association in Morehouse parish for inspira- on in forwarding the Ouachita efforts, and leaders in the orehouse project have expressed willingness to support ther programs similar to theirs.

Earle M. Barham, Oak Ridge, president of the Coulee roup, remindful of Ouachita's efforts, said this week:

"Our experience with the Coulee game refuge leads me to say that when Ouachita parish has a qualified refuge area they will find fair, cooperative and capable conservationists in L. D. Young, Jr., executive director of the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries, Major James Brown, John S. Campbell, Lyle St. Amant, C. J. Perkins and the various other conservation department people with whom they will work.

"Our state has a conservation department that is anx- us to move ahead with game restoration. Our people must ealize that this can best be done through local effort har- onized with conservation department rules. If at any time he Coulee Conservation Association, which supports the oulee refuge, can assist the Ouachita sportsmen we will be eady. One of the most satisfying things we've discovered n our conservation work is the broad public approval of his type of undertaking. I see no reason why this would be ess true in Ouachita than in Morehouse.

Ouachita sportsmen expect a report on their own refuge roject here Tuesday night when the Ouachita unit of the ouisiana Wildlife Federation meets on the roof of Hotel irginia.

Bierman Missing Woes Of Gridiron

By RAY W. DOHERTY

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 21—UP—Bernie Bierman spent his football Saturdays last season untroubled and warm in a heated press box. He didn't like it. He'd rather have spent them down on th. cold bench with plenty troubles.

Bernie misses football.

After 31 years of coaching, he quit and now lives in retirement. On fall Saturdays he writes football stories for the St. Paul Pioneer Press—not second-guessing "expert" stories but just a review of the game's highlights.

"I miss the excitement and headaches of coaching," he said. "I get itchy."

Not that coaching football was any pipe. "It was a hard job—lots of pressure and lots of hours," he said. "Normally, when a season started, the job was full time except for eating and sleeping.

"There were headaches — but there are headaches in everything. Watching kids develop more than compensated me."

He paused a moment, thought this over and then continued.

"I think this interest in seeing development of kids is the thing missed most by former coaches. It's gratifying to watch their character develop while playing football for you, then following them after they get out of school—to see what they make of themselves.

"Most of them do all right."

They sure do, especially Bierman's boys. Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma is one. Biggie Munn of Michigan State is another. And Red Dawson of Pitt is a third.

But, although he misses football, Bierman can do without those stomach flip-flops that generate little ulcers into big ones for coaches.

"I was nervous before every game right up until I quit," he said. "Any coach who doesn't get a few butterflies before a game isn't much of a coach."

A lot happened during the 31 years Bierman coached, notably at Tulane and Minnesota. "The biggest chance in the game during my lifetime," he said, "is the development of the forward pass. Abilities of the passers have improved a great deal.

"The second most important change is the use of varied defenses. It seems to me now that defenses are more varied than offenses."

There's only one thing wrong with the game—"an unreasonable desire to win among the fans."

Stronger Club Visioned By Harrington

Believes Monroe Team Will Rate Better Than '52

HIGH POINT, N. C., Feb. 21 (Special)—Manager Charley Harrington sat down today and began giving his ideas on what his fans in Louisiana can expect from the Monroe Sports in 1953. With just slightly over one week before the peppery little skipper leaves his winter home with his family for Monroe, La., Harrington gave forth on some prospects for the coming Cotton States League race.

"We expect to have a much stronger club in Monroe than last year," Harrington said. "Naturally, a lot depends on the help we receive from Shreveport and Augusta and that will not be known before the second week in April.

"But even this lag in time won't be too difficult to overcome since during the ensuing period I will be on hand to watch the prospects working with both the Sports and the Rams."

Harrington will move his family to Monroe around March 1 and he will report to Shreveport on March 5 for the annual baseball school where he will assist Shreveport Manager Mickey Livingston. Harrington will work with Shreveport until Monroe begins spring training on March 30.

"It looks like we're going to convert Bobby Weber into a second baseman," Harrington disclosed. "He is a fine young prospect, but his size prevents him from being a successful outfielder. However, during his brief trial at the keystone last August, he showed definite possibility and he is anxious to take a 'whack' at the position."

Harrington also was 'high on Jimmy Jaynes, the 6'4", 200-pound outfielder, drafted from Union City of the Kitty League. He predicted that Jaynes might be the rookie of the year in the C. S. L.

Harrington admitted that first base might be problem with John Paul Jones definitely moving to higher class ball, but he opined that Chip Thomas, the Demopolis, Ala., strong boy, may be converted to the initial sack. Thomas is on the Shreveport roster, but probably will be optioned to Monroe. Thomas, who was signed as a third baseman, showed tremendous power at the plate.

Pitching is a problem at the moment, Harrington admitted with only Marv Hatcher returning from last year's staff, but young Bert McCannon, who had a great year at Sherman in the Sooner State League, is being counted on possibly becoming the ace of the staff.

Harrington also noted that Shreveport has 17 hurlers on their roster, starting spring training, while Augusta has almost a dozen and from that group, enough should be sent to Monroe to give a formidable hurling corps to the Twin City fans.

"The reduction of veterans in the league from ten to six," Harrington said, "should prove a boon to Monroe since we will be able to use more youngsters of which the Shreveport organization is full. It also will make for more interesting baseball as a whole, since the younger the players, the more intensive will be their efforts."

Harrington added a personal note in the interview when he pointed out that he will need a furnished two bedroom home or apartment in Monroe to house his wife and three children. He would like occupancy around March 1.

Anyone having such a place available is requested to contact Business Manager Paul Manasseh at Monroe at 3-7675, 3-8805 or 3-6740.

Cecil Isbell To Be Visiting LSU Spring Coach

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 21 (AP)—Gaynell Tinsley, Louisiana State University coach, announced today that Cecil Isbell, former Green Bay Packer and Purdue star back and college and professional coach for the past 10 years, will serve as visiting coach in the LSU spring drills.

The 20-day spring practice opens here on Monday.

Tinsley said that Isbell, former head coach at Purdue and boss of the Baltimore Colts in professional ball, will assist Perry Moss with the backfield candidates. Isbell also served as backfield coach with the professional Chicago Cardinals and the Dallas Texans.

A native of Houston, Texas, the 37-year-old coaching veteran was an All-America halfback at Purdue during his undergraduate days.

Cub Ex-1st Sacker To Play Outfield

MESA, Ariz., Feb. 21 (AP)—Preston Ward, the Chicago Cubs first baseman in 1950 before entering service, is being groomed for centerfield by manager Phil Cavarretta.

Ward and Leon Brinkopf, third sacker, today were turned over to Ray Blades, Cubs' combination coach and scout, for tutoring in outfield assignments.

"The move is an effort to add some punch to the outfield," said Phil. "I prefer to keep Frank Baumholtz in right along with Hank Sauer in left."

Northeast Sends Intramural Play Into Full Stride

Intramural sports activity is in full swing at Northeast State this week. Boy's contests began this past Friday and girl participations took up the program this past Monday. All games and contests of various kinds are to be played. However, at the present time the stress is on inter - class competition in basketball. Teams are composed of physical education classes.

In charge of the boys' hoop games is A. S. Huffman, assistant professor of physical education at the college, while Miss Ada Bess Hart, also assistant professor of physical education, is supervising the girls' program.

Plans call for competition in the near future in volley ball, softball, tennis and badminton. Intramurals are climaxed each spring at the college "Honors' Day" program, when special certificates are awarded to the outstanding teams and players.

A number of preliminary games have been held in the Northeast State gymnasium this week. Finals in basketball are scheduled tentatively to be held on Feb. 25, at which time anyone interested is invited to attend.

In the girls' basketball finals the Eighth Period, captained by Joyce Currie of Pioneer, will play the Seventh Period, whose captain is Addie Thompson of Tullos.

The boys' finals will be played on Friday, February 27. All games will be held in the Northeast gym beginning at 9:50 a. m.

Donkey Quintets Slate Two Tilts Here This Week

Donkey basketball is again to be given a tryout here. For two nights this week, Thursday and Friday, at 7:30 o'clock, this sport will be in full blast on the floor of the gymnasium at Northeast State College.

Sponsors will be Future Business Leaders of America Club at Ouachita Parish High School and the Civitan Club of Monroe.

Participants will be members of the Monroe Civitan Club versus members of the faculty of Ouachita Parish High School.

The donekys are said to be in fine trim but the men who ride them are a little fearful that the balky steeds may know more about the game than their riders.

Anyway, it will be lots of fun for all who attend. Tickets are for sale from members of the F. B. L. A. club at the Ouachita Parish High School or from members of the Civitan Club.

Coulee Reserve Gets Seed Deer

OAK RIDGE, La., Feb. 21 (Special)—Twenty - eight Morehouse parish landowners who have been working for years in an effort to establish a game refuge in the upper reaches of Lafourche swamp saw their dream growing nearer total realization this week when nine head of deer, all does, were released in the Coulee reserve, a ten-mile square tract situated between Oak Ridge and Collinston.

The Coulee Conservation Association, composed of around 75 sportsmen of Oak Ridge, Collinston, Mer Rouge, and a few "outside interests who own land in the area, created the reserve with help from the state conservation department after the 28 landowners agreed to post their lands against trespassing and all hunting. The Coulee association was established in January, 1952, after the three years of toil by its sponsors made it possible.

The nine deer released on the 6,400-acre tract Wednesday had been trapped wild the night before in Madison parish under the supervision of Carroll J. Perkins, who works with the Pittman - Robertson section, Baton Rouge. Some deer had been released earlier in Coulee, and it is planned to obtain a few more head to give the reserve a good start toward establishing a good deer population for this area.

Madison parish landowners are being a big help to the conservation department in forwarding the restocking program by permitting trapping of deer on their lands. Madison land owners currently working with the department in supplying doe deer for the transplanting programs are J. W. McLemore of Winnsboro, and B. G. Hammond and Hall Allen, both of Tallulah. The department is also trapping deer on Osceola plantation in Tensas parish.

The Coulee Conservation Association is headed by Erle M. Barham, Oak Ridge, as president. Other officers are W. B. Puckett, Collinston, vice president; E. M. White, Mer Rouge, vice president; and John S. Barr, Oak Ridge, secretary-treasurer. Directors include H. A. Pipes, Oak Ridge; David Pipes, Collinston; Norman McDuffie, Oak Ridge; H. W. Tillbury, Mer Rouge; and George W. Files, Oak Ridge.

While the association is composed primarily of residents of this section, two members are Dr. J. W. Cummins and George Weaks, both of Monroe, who own property included in the reserve.

Because so many ducks sought sanctuary in two drainage canals through the reserve this winter, a move is now in progress to create a "holding ground of sufficient water surface between the two canals to furnish a more adequate resting station for ducks in the future.

Oil Capitol, owned by Allie Reuben, Toledo, O., and Mrs. Harry Trotsek, Detroit, Mich., came on with a rush in the final yards to win $93,200 out of the gross poll of $130,400.

Alerted won $20,000, Battlefield $10,000 and How $5,000.

Spartan Valor, with Jimmy Stout up and carrying 127 pounds, was the heavy favorite with Crafty Admiral, top - weighted at 131 pounds and ridden by Kenny Church, the second choice.

Oil Capitol, only horse ever to win both the Flamingo and the Widener at Hialeah, paid $12.20 $5.90 and $3.80. Alerted returned $12.70 and $6.10. Battlefield paid $3.90.

The times for the first mile, with Crafty Admiral and Spartan Valor battling it out, were :22 4-5, :46 -2-5 1:10 3-5 and 1:36 3-5. Time for the mile and a quarter was 2:02 4-5 against the track record set by El Mono in 1948 at 2:01.

As they hit the stretch, Battlefield was in front briefly but Oil Capitol came up on the outside and took the lead midway down the stretch. Alerted rallied nicely and was gaining at the finish but couldn't catch Oil Capitol.

Oil Capitol, six - year - old son of Mahmoud out of Never Again 2nd, was foaled at Elmendorf farm in Kentucky. Today's race was his biggest and boosted his earnings to $117,700 for this year. He has started 70 times and won 17, finishing second 10 times and third eight times in earning a total of $422,151 up to today. His Widener purse boosted his alltime earnings up to $515,351.

Battlefield picked up $10,000 to push his alltime earnings to $451,577.

Brosch Sets Four-Stroke Pace In Mexican Open

Argentine Star, Di Vicenzo, Rides In Second Place

By JACK RUTLEDGE

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 21 (AP)—Al Brosch boosted his lead in the Mexican Open Golf Tournament to four strokes today with a four-under-par 68 which brought his three-day total to 199.

Roberto De Vincenzo of Argentina, winner of the 1951 event gained second place with a 66, giving him a total of 203.

The Argentine champion's six-under-par enabled him to pass North American stars Cary Middlecoff, Lew Worsham, Dave Douglas, Raymond Gafford, Byron Nelson, Tony Holguin and Fred Haas, who now trail in that order.

The final round of the $9,450 tournament on the 6,664-yard 72-par Chapultepec course tomorrow could see a new tournament record established.

Bobby Locke of South Africa won in 1952 with a 266 on another Mexico City course. De Vicenzo in 1951 won on the Chapultepec course with a 275.

Brosch, the Garden City, N. Y., redhead, has a 64-67-68—199 going into the final stretch. Even a par 72 could beat the Chapultepec record. He would have to shoot 66 to beat Locke's mark.

Although his 68 today was his poorest of the tournament Brosch said he considered he played his best golf. He said a brisk, chilly wind bothered him on the back nine.

Middlecoff, a Dentist from Memphis, Tenn., who is second only to Lloyd Mangrum in earnings of the current winter tour, tied for third with Worsham of Oakmont, Pa., and Douglas of Newark, Del. They have three-day totals 204.

The leaders:

Al Brosch, Garden City, N. Y., 64-67-68—199.

Roberto De Vincenzo, Buenos Aires, Argentina, 69-68-66—203.

Baseball Ruling Draws Criticism Of Congressman

BROOKLYN, Feb. 21. (AP)—The ruling of the U. S. court of appeals in Cincinnati yesterday that baseball is a sport and not a business is as "wong as a two - foot yardstick," Rep. Emmanuel Celler (D.-D. Y.) said today.

Celler was chairman of the judiciary sub - committee in Washington last year which held numerous hearings on baseball's status.

"he case must be reviewed by the U. S. supreme court," he added. "Due to the metamorphosis of organized baseball and in the light of the judiciary committee hearings and findings, that court will reverse the old decision. If not, Congress must intervene and make some changes in the law."

The court of appeals ruling in Ohio held that baseball was not a business and thus was not subject to the anti-trust laws. The opinion was the same as made by Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the supreme court 30 years ago and upheld by the court of appeals in Los Angeles in 1951.

In his prepared statement today Celler said that baseball had changed greatly since the Holmes finding and that the income for "organized baseball from radio, television, concessions, admissions and advertising is upwards of a hundred million dollars annually. The court of appeals in New York state refused to follow this old ruling in 1949. Any court that says that baseball isn't an industry is wrong."

Frederic O. Johnson of New York, one of the attorneys for Jack Corbett of El Paso, Tex., and Walter J. Kowalski, former Brooklyn farm system player, said he will take the case to the supreme court.

Corbett and Kowalski contend that baseball's reserve clause, by which a player is permanently bound to one club unless it disposes of his contract, is in violation of the anti - trust act. They ask damages totalling $450,000.

Ever Bright 1st In Oaklawn Race

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 21. (AP)—Pollard and Harkness' Ever Bright, leading from the start, won the $3,000 Inaugural Purse as Oaklawn Park opened its 31-day spring race meeting here today before a crowd of 11,567.

Apprentice Jockey Forrest Kaelin rod the 4 - year - old daughter of Sun Again and Still Blue across the finish line four full lengths in advance of R. R. Thomas' Joe Graves.

Mrs. E. H. Beezley's Pintail Spring moved up from fifth place in the stretch to take show honors, a length and a half back of Joe Graves. C. H. Everitt's Little Imp was fourth.

An odds - on favorite, Ever Bright paid $3.60, $3 and $2.60 and covered the first and a half furlongs over a muddy track in 1:06.3 for the fifth victory in her last seven starts.

Annual St. Matthew's Cage Show Thursday

The third annual "mothers vs. daughters" and "fathers vs. sons" basketball double header for St. Matthew's High School will be held here Thursday night in the St. Matthew's gymnasium.

The mothers-daughters contest opens the night's show at 7:30 o'clock, with the dads-sons game to follow at 8:30.

Jack Curtis, the most popular and colorful wrestler ever to appear in the Twin-Cities in recent months, returns to action here again Tuesday night at Kallio's Arena, with his brother, George; in a tag team match against the villainous Pat Cronin-Jack Kelly combine.

It has been many a moon since the Curtis boys wrestled on the same card here, and George returns from the Carolina circuits to replace Jack's partner of last week, young John Henning, who was injured in the final fall.

The large crowd attending last weeks' action - packed thriller, knew Henning was hurt when his head thumped the mat so hard the ring shook, thanks to a pile-driver by "Irish" Jack Kelly. Up until that moment, Henning and Jack Curtis had been handing both Kelly and "Big Boy" Cronin a severe beating, even knocking their noodles together in ring center, each grasping a villain in a headlock and charging from opposite corners.

Between harping at the fans, and thwarting Curtis' popular question mark hold, Cronin was indeed fortunate to come out in one piece; as was Kelly, who not only took a severe slugging from Jack, but was the unwilling recipient of a few of Johnny's specialties, such as the flying dropkick.

There can be no doubt that this week's card will be every bit as exciting as last week's; for with Cronin and Kelly resorting to every unpopular tactic known to matmen, plus a few of their own invention; and with Jack Curtis facing them, aided by his younger brother, a strong and capable grappler in his own right, a bitter revival of last Tuesday's tag tussle is evident.

Accredit Seven Cage Officials

Seven more nationally - rated women's basketball officials are now available in northeast Louisiana as a result of the passing of written and practical examinations given at Ouachita Parish High School recently. Each of these students is eligible to call women's basketball games anywhere in the United States, according to Miss Ada Bess Hart, assistant professor of health and physical education at Northeast State.

Those passing tests for the national officials' rating were Frances Deggans of Baskin, Mrs. Carriece Lindsey Duke of Olla, Betty Gambrell and Mickey Slater, both of Sicily Island, Addie Thompson of Tullos, Jerry Pace of Monroe, and Gloria Neil Moore of Fort Necessity. All are physical education majors at Northeast with the exception of Miss Gambrell whose major is business education and Mrs. Duke, whose major is elementary education.

These ratings came as a climax to a course in officiating given at the college by Miss Hart. Of eight girls taking the test, seven passed, an exceptionally good record percentage - wise, Miss Hart stated.

Ratings were given through the Northeast Louisiana State Board of Women's Officials, whose chairman is Mrs. Elizabeth Manheim of Ouachita Parish High School. This group is affiliated with the Women's National Officials rating committee, purpose of which is to standardize women's basketball officiating on the local, state and national level.

Local judges in the testing, which is given both in theory and practice — in actual games — are Miss Hart, Miss Mary Lee George and Mrs. Coleen Mann, both of Ouachita High School.

LeCompte Event To Smoke Screen By Good Length

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 21 (AP) — Reverie Knoll farm's Smoke Screen stood off a strong stretch challenge by the favored Spur On to win the $10,000 Lecompte Handicap at the Fair Grounds today.

Well off the pace on a track that was turned into a quagmire by all - night and early morning rains, Smoke Screen gradually improved his position as the 10 - horse field swung into the stretch. Under Jockey Gerald Porch's strong handling, Smoke Screen took the lead as the field headed home and finished one length in front of the heavily backed Spur On.

T. D. Buehl's Second Avenue took the lead in the early running as the field passed the grandstand for the first time, only to surrender the pacemaker's role to Hiram Jr. as the field straightened out in the back stretch.

Dixiana stable's famed campaigner, Shy Guy, made a strong move as the mile post was reachd and held on until challenged by Smoke Screen when the field made the final turn for home.

Spur On, running in seventh position during most of the mile and one - sixteenth feature, came from way off the pace and almost nipped Smoke Screen at the finish line.

Shy Guy had a four - length advantage over Bay Bloom for the show spot.

Second choice of the 10,000 fans who braved a chilling rain to wager $492,067 on the nine - race program, Smoke Screen returned $9.20, $3.80, and $3.20. Spur On, the 6-5 favorite, paid $3 and $2.40, and Shy Guy returned $3.80.

Smoke Screen, who won only $14,000 in 13 races last year, earned $9,850 for his owners in today's victory.

Ward Will Face Ribner In Finals

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 21 (AP)—Harvie Ward, British amateur champion, today won his way into the finals of the National Tournament of Golf Club Champions with a 7 and 6 victory over Sam Maniaci, former Columbia University football great.

Lloyd Ribner, White Plains, N. Y., got the other finalist spot with a hard earned 3 and 2 victory over J. C. Hyatt, Asheville, N. C., who Friday eliminated Dick Chapman.

Both winners finished strong after 1 up leads in this morning's round of the 36 holes.

Ward and Ribner play for the title Sunday over 36 holes.

Maniaci, 40-year-old Philadelphia photographer, threatened to pull the biggest upset of an upset-pocked tournament this morning. He outplayed Ward from tee to green, eagled the 533-yard 15th hole and missed short putts for two other eagles.

Ward was over par on four holes, but scored an eagle and four birdies for a one under par 71 and the one hole lead.

Chanlea-Arcaro Combination 1st At Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 21 (AP)—Chanlea, a gallant young son of Kentucky and money rider Eddie Arcaro combined talents today to capture the famed $100,000 Santa Anita Derby for the second straight year for the Calumet farm of the blue grass country.

Chanlea, given one of Arcaro's most artistic rides, outpointed two amazingly stubborn, longshot foes, Merryman and Correspondent, in a driving finish to the wire to win the $84,500 first money by a nose.

This was the 16th running of Santa Anita's big attraction for the 3-year-old division, and it will go down as one of the most exciting.

Fifty - five thousand fans watched the head to head battle down the final strides to the wire, and while it took a photo to separate the three, there was never any doubt from the observers at the finish line that the victory belonged to Calumet.

Hill Gail did it for Mrs. Gene Markey and her famous Kentucky racing empire last year, but Hill Gail won that one by four lengths.

Decorated, the favorite — in what amounted to a betting duel with Chanlea—finished ninth and was never a serious threat.

Time for the mile and one-eighth race was good—1:49 4-5.

Chanlea rewarded the "bet Calumet" backers with $7, $3.80 and $3.40. Merryman paid $12.80 and $8.70, and Correspondent $7.40.

Merryman, a California colt, is owned by two tuna fishing magnates of San Diego, John and Ed Madruga, and Correspondent is owned by Mrs. Gordon Guiberson of La Jolla, Calif.

Merryman won $20,000 for second place; Correspondent $15,000 and the Springhill stable's De Anza, another California - bred, earned $10,000 for fourth money.

Pro Grids Chief Passing Laurels To Van Brocklin

Rote completed 82 of 157 passes with an average gain of 8.08 yards while Parillia flipped 77 of 177 completions for a straight eight yard per completion.

Twenty of the passes were good for touchdowns and 24 were intercepted. All these figures were high for the season.

Frankie Albert of the San Francisco 49ers, Eddie LeBaron of the Washington Redskins, Bobby Layne of the Detroit Lions, finished in the next three positions in that order.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—The National Invitation Tournament leads the National Collegiate Athletic Association four teams to two, in the scramble to corral the nation's top basketball teams for post season competition.

The N. C. A. A., however, holds a definite advantage in that it is definitely assured of 13 of the 21 more schools needed to fill the 23 - team bracket starting play March 9.

The N. I. T., with unbeaten and top ranked Seton Hall, defending champion LaSalle, Western Kentucky and Manhattan already in the fold, will select eight more for the play opening in Madison Square Garden, March 7.

Only one of the N. C. A. A. conference championships has been decided. That is Idaho State, Rocky Mountain Conference titleholder which will meet high - scoring Seattle in a first round game March 10. Seattle was picked as one of the nine at - large teams which Mountain Conference titleholders in the N. C. A. A. competition.

Asa Bushnell, chairman of the N. I. T. selection committee, said several more invitations have been sent out but he declined to name the schools. He added he doesn't expect any more acceptances before Monday.

Known to be under consideration, however, are Duqesne, St. John's of Brooklyn, DePaul, St. Louis, Niagara, Holy Cross, Eastern Kentucky, Louisville and Oklahoma City.

The N. I. T. definitely would like St. Louis, despite the Billkins' 13-9 record, but the Eddie Hickey-coached team still is in running for the Missouri Valley title. Also, it is questionable if school officials would give permission for them to be away from school the week required to play in the garden tournament.

The N. C. A. A. calls for four regional tournaments after the field has been narrowed to 16 teams. They are scheduled for Chicago, Raleigh, N. C., Manhattan, Kan., and Corvallis, re.O, March 13-14. The four winners will go into Kan., and Corvallis, Ore., March 17-18.

Larsen, Neilsen In Semi-Finals

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—Crafty Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., and killer Kurt Nielsen of Denmark, the top-seeded favorites, followed the script today by stroking their way into the semifinal round of the National Indoor Tennis championships.

The left-handed Larsen, No. 1 in the domestic seedlings, gave Dick Sorlien of Philadelphia, a lesson in court generalship as he prevailed at the Seventh Regiment Armory, 6-1, 6-0, 6-1.

Nielsen, the Danish and Scandinavian champion who heads the foreign list, was less subtle. He blasted Noel Brown, the former pro from Santa Monica, Calif., out of the way, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4. The Dane's "big game" was never more awesome.

Tomorrow Larsen will oppose Grant Golden of Wilmette, Ill., and Nielsen will throw his powerful service and net attack against the veteran Bill Talbert of New York, winner of this event in 1948 and 1951. The final is scheduled Monday afternoon.

Tennessee Picks Coach Tomorrow; Robinson Tagged

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 21. —Monday about noon the University of Tennessee athletic council will sit down to pick a 1953 football coach, and the odds are prohibitive the choice will be Harvey Robinson.

Thus will end — temporarily, at least — the long coaching career of Gen. Bob Neyland — one of the most successful mentors of modern collegiate football.

Neyland, a retired brigadier general, plans to enter the army's Walter Reed Hospital in Washington next week for treatment of a mysterious blood ailment. He asked the university to release him for a year to try to regain his health.

Passing the reins to Robinson will mean no change in the single wing system Neyland established at Tennessee in 1926.

The balding, 42- year - old Robinson has been groomed by Neyland for the job. As player and coach he has been associated with Neyland off and on since 1929 when he enrolled at the university.

Robinson, a slender 145-pounder understudied the great Bobby Dodd, Georgia Tech coach, at quarterback in 1930. The next two years he spelled Beattie Feathers, former North Carolina State coach.

After taking a master's degree at the University of Michigan in 1935, Robinson turned to coaching. Aside except for a tour of army duty in World War II, he's been at it ever since.

He admits two loves — football and music.

"I'm married to football for life," he says. "I wouldn't have any time to devote to a wife. Football is my greatest love. It takes up virtually all of my time."

An accomplished pianist, Robinson plays classical music for relaxation. He also is an avid collector of classic records.

A native of Weaverville, N. C., Robinson first enrolled at the University of North Carolina where his parents wanted him to prepare for a medical career.

"There had always been a doctor in our family and my parents wanted me to carry on the tradition," he says.

He went out for football practice but he recalls that "before the afternoon was over I had decided I was going to switch to Tennessee."

Transferring to Tennessee, Robinson says, was the best move he ever made.

Neyland won't say, of course, whom he will recommend to the council as his successor. But there hardly seems to be any doubt that it will be Robinson, who's been the general's top assistant for seven years.

In Neyland's absence, Robinson also will serve as athletics director. In preparation for this assignment, he has been assistant athletics director since June, 19

Bevo Francis To Appear At All-Star Game

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 21 (AP) — Clarence (Bevo) Francis, the amazing point - maker of Rio Grande (Ohio) College, will exhibit his goal shooting ability as an attraction to the Ararat Shrine Temple All-Star East-West basketball game here March 28.

The second annual East - West cage tilt, played for the benefit of the Shriners' hospitals for crippled children, will feature squads coached by Jack Gardner, Kansas State of the West, and Harry Combes, of Illinois, for the East.

All players will be seniors.

George W. Ryan, chairman of the committee for the games, said the entire Rio Grande team had been invited to participate. Rio Grande declined the invitation, explaining the players had "worn themselves out" with a long schedule and couldn't afford to lose additional time from classes.

Francis will not play in the All-Star game. It will be an exhibition for the Rio Grande freshman who is in the act of establishing all sorts of scoring records during his first season of college play.

38 Injured At Riot At Scot Grid Game

FALKIRK, Scotland, Feb. 21. (AP) —About 38 persons were injured, eight seriously enough to be sent to hospitals, when excited fans invaded the playing field three times today during a football game between Glasgow Celtic and Falkirk.

Celtic, after tailing, 0-2, at the intermission of the Scottish cup match, rallied to win, 3-2. The Glasgow fans in the crowd of 23,000 swept onto the field, crushing others ahead of them, as they broke down barriers and fences.

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 21. (AP)—Manager Lou Boudreau put his Boston Red Sox rookies through a very brief baseball schooling today after several of them reported with blistered hands and sore heels.

"The kids had a lot of batting yesterday and it raised some blisters," Boudreau explained. "It takes three days to blister them, three more to harden them and after that they're okay."

Call Score Another Grove

By JOE REICHLER

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 21 (AP)—The spring training season has started, folks. Another Lefty Grove has risen on the horizon. All that is needed now is another Babe Ruth and another Ty Cobb to make the training season official.

The modern Grove spells his name S-C-O-R-E, just like I and 0. His first name is Herb and he is only 19 years old. He is owned by the Cleveland Indians and pitched for the Tribe's Indianapolis farm club last year, inning only two and losing five in the American Association.

That doesn't sound like much of a recommendation but according to Al Lopez, genial manager of the Indians, this lanky lefthander from Lake Worth, Fla., is a real hot major leaguer prospect. Al thinks so much of the speedy kid, he's going to take him along with him to Tucson, Ariz., next Tuesday to train with the parent club.

"The kid throws a ball harder than any 19-year-old kid I've seen in my life," vowed Lopez. "He is every bit as fast as Grove was when Bob joined the American League some 30 years ago. He's as fast as Bob Feller was when he came up back in 1927, like all kids, he's wild as a Marcl hare. But so were Grove and Feller when they broke in."

Score, discovered by Scout Laddie Placek, was brought up to Cleveland to show his wares last June following his graduation from high school. Veteran receiver Pirdie Tebbets, now manager of Indianapolis, was assigned to catch him.

"After 10 minutes of catching the kid," recalled Lopez laughingly, "Birdie's left hand looked like it had gone through a meat grinder, despite the mitt. Just as Birdie was about to call it quits, Placek said to the kid, 'okay, Herb, now throw him your fast ball.' Tebbets thought they were ribbing him and figured he'd go right along with the gag. 'Okay, kid,' he yelled, 'cut out the slow stuff. Cut loose with your blazer.'

"The kid wound up and let one go. Whop. The ball shot by Tebbetts like out of a cannon. Birdie had no time to get his mitt up. He never even saw the ball. Luckily for him, it whizzed over his head. Had it been a foot lower it would have caught him right between the eyes and maybe killed him."

Score hurled 62 innings for Indianapolis last year and fanned 61. He allowed only 43 hits but wildness proved his downfall. He issued 62 walks.

"One of the reasons I'm taking the kid with me to Tucson," said Lopez, "is that nobody here can catch him. Tebbetts won't have any part of him. Birdie says he's getting too old to fool with lightning."

Friendship Era Between Cards, Browns Evident

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 21—UP—August A. Busch Jr., new president of the St. Louis Cardinals, looked over his property for the first time Saturday and ran into his landlord.

Busch, accompanied by Eberhardt Anheuser, board chairman of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., which bought control of the ball club Friday, showed up at the Cardinals' office at Sportsman's Park to meet the help and tie up some loose ends of the $3,750,000 deal with Fred M. Saigh, the former owner.

One of the first to pay a courtesy call on the brewery owners in the Cardinals' office was Bill Veeck, whose American League Browns own the park which the two clubs share.

The meeting was brief and pleasant but it presaged a new era of feeling in the relations of the two clubs which, while Saigh ran the Cardinals, was marked mostly by bitter wrangles.

Busch has promised a new deal of friendship with the Browns and said he hopes they stay right where they are so the Red Birds can continue to rent playing space.

The first of the Cardinals' hired hands to meet the new owner was catcher Del Rice, a terdy contract signer who came to the office to pick up his plane ticket to the club's St. Petersburg, Fla., training camp where he was three days overdue.

Meanwhile, William Walsingham Jr., vice-president who will operate the club, disclosed he had stalled off a number of other good offers to buy the team under Saigh's forced sale until the deal with Anheuser - Busch could be worked out. One of them was from a Milwaukee brewer whose offer reportedly was higher than Busch's.

Says Brundage Anti-Melbourne On Games' Site

MELBOURNE, Feb. 21 (AP)—A Melbourne sports writer said today president Avery Brundage of the International Olympics Committee had suggested that Australia abandon plans to hold the 1956 games in Melbourne.

Ben Kerville said in tonight's Sporting Globe that Brundage had written two Australian Olympic delegates a letter declaring "if I accept your invitation to come to Melbourne it will only be to discreetly tell you to withdraw your invitation to stage the 1956 Olympic games."

The letter was written to delegates Hugh Weir and Lewis Luxton, Kerville said, adding that Luxton confirmed this but refused to disclose its contents and Weir declined comment.

Netiher delegate plans to attend a meeting of the International Olympics Committee April 17 in Mexico City.

"Mr. Brundage has always been 'Anti-Melbourne' so far as the 1956 Olympic games have been concerned," Kerville wrote. "He has the support of about 80 per cent of the other Olympic countries."

Favored Teams Reach Two-Ball Tourney Finals

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 21 (AP)—It will be Babe Zaharias and George Bolesta against Betty McKinnon and Sam Snead for the International Mixed Two-Ball golf title Sunday.

The favored teams won easily in today's semi-finals.

Mrs. Zaharias, who won last year with Al Besselink as her partner, and Bolesta, Tampa, coasted to a 5 and 4 victory over Edean Anderson, Helena, Mont., and Ky Laffoon, Orlando.

Miss McKinnon, Dallas, and Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., were three strokes under par in beating Betty Dodd and Bill Kaiser, Louisville, Ky., 3 and 2.

Snead sank three putts from 20 feet or more, each for a birdie, and played the top golf of the day. Miss McKinnon had a little trouble with her putting or the match would have ended even quicker. She missed three times from within a yard.

The Zaharias - Bolesta victory was easy mostly because Laffoon ran out of gas. He is an old timer on the men's pro circuit, but he hasn't been making the tour the last couple years and weakened in this fifth day of the tournament.

Gault, Baggett Tune For Title Scramble

ROANOKE, Va, Feb. 21. (AP)—Henry "Pappy" Gault and James "Buddy' Baggett both staged sparring sessions today in final preparations for their 15 - round title fight Monday night in the American Legion auditorium.

Gault, the Spartanburg, S. C., titleholder who will defend his North American bantamweight crown for the first time on U. S. soil, took a five - mile road workout this morning and then engaged in a sparring session with Don Webber, Roanoke featherweight, in the afternoon.

Meanwhile, Baggett, the Dallas, Tex., challenger, slept late and then engaged in a brisk five-pound spar session with another local product, Donnie Campbell.

Kenny Rollins of the Boston Celtics in the NBA and former captain at the University of Kentucky played with the U. S. Olympic team in 1948.

Rising Baseball Fever Indicated In Ticket Sales

Sale of 1953 season boxes is far ahead of any previous year, Business Manager Paul Manasseh of the Monroe Sports announced last night. Over 75 percent of the 1952 box holders already have purchased their boxes for the coming season in addition to over a dozen new purchasers.

Manasseh said that any one desiring a box for the coming year should contact him at American Legion Memorial Stadium or his residence immediately so that the selection may be available.

For the first time since Monroe re-entered the league there is a strong possibility that every box will be sold on a seasonal basis, indicating the intense interest in baseball this year.

Price of the boxes remains the same, $97.60, which pays for six reserved seats per game.

Although the boxes are sold in their entirety, individuals who do not desire a full box may purchase one in company with other people, Manasseh pointed out.

Sale of 20 general admission tickets for $14.40, the price of 18 tickets, also is continuing. They are available at Saul Adler Garage, 201 South Grand, or at Legion Stadium. This price is in force until the season opens, after which the books will cost $16 each.

Michigan State football teams have scored 110 or more points in four different games, the last being an even 100 against Ripon in 1931.

J-H Bengals End Football Drills With Scrimmage

JONESBORO, La., Feb. 21. (Special)—The Jonesboro-Hodge High School Tigers wind up spring football practice Wednesday afternoon with an intra - squad clash. Slated to oppose each other are the "Reds" and the "Blues," and the public is invited to attend the 2 p.m. scrimmage.

Coaches Jack Jaggers and Tabarlet had 28 boys participating in the workouts. The squad is largely comprised of players on last year's "B" team, and the intra-squad game will climax three weeks of practice.

Only Tackle Doyle Walker and Quarterback Freddie Mack Pardue of 1952 starting line up are returning for this season. Stanley Pope, who played offensive left end, has been shifted to left halfback.

Others who saw some varsity action last fall are Fullback Tommy "Doc" Murphy, End Bobby Joe Folks, Guard Maurice Abercrombie and Centers Charles Martin and Bubba Henry.

Thirteen regulars were lost by graduation, including ends Danny Blake, Jerry Fullerton and Eddie Durham; Tackles Charles Garrett and Don Warren; Guards Tommy Weeks, Mike Peel and Jim Finton; Center Ted Walsworth; and Backs Kenneth "Zero" Brown, Don Swanner, Travis Hall, and Tommy Shively.

After the football practice is ended, Coach Jaggers announced that track workouts would begin. Many of the gridders will be called upon to fill the ranks of last year's state championship track and field team, which was also riddled by graduation.

Here are the probable starting line-ups for Wednesday with weights:

Purse Hike Lands Finer Golf Field

HOUSTON, Feb. 21. (AP)—Strategy behind the Houston Open Golf Tournament's prize money being boosted just three weeks ago to $20,000 is paying off.

The largest and strongest field of competitors in the history of the seven - year - old Houston stop on the winter tour is expected here next week.

That was the objective when officials of the Houston Golf Association doubled the previously announced $10,000 and placed Houston alongside Los Angeles as having the only $20,000 opens on the winter tour.

The financially healthy association had nothing to lose anyway. R. E. (Bob) Smith, multi - millionaire oilman, had given the $20,000 idea its final push by offering to make up any losses this year and in 1954.

About the only big names not as yet committed to try for the $4,000 first prize are Ben Hogan and Byron Nelson, Richard Nauts, association president, says he still has hopes, particularly on Nelson.

Such leading money winners as Sammy Sneed and Lloyd Mangrum, however, will be making their first Houston appearances since 1949.

Sixty members of the winter circuit troupe are to arrive here tomorrow night by chartered plane from the Mexico City Open. About 50 lesser - known players came here after last week's Texas Open at San Antonio and have been getting early practice over the 7150-yard par 72 Memorial Park course.

The tournament gets under way Thursday and will be limited to 160 players. Only from 50 to 60 spots are expected to be available to an estimated 175 who will take part in Tuesday's qualifying round.

Robbie Williams, the host professional, said today the sprawling municipal course will be in excellent condition, barring additional rain next week.

Williams had good reason to predict 277 as the winning 72 - hole score.

A 277 has won each of the three previous opens played at Memorial.

Bobby Locke started the habit in 1947. Marty Furgol followed in 1951. Last year, Jackie Burke, Jr., thrilled his hometown fans by coming in the winner with the same score.

LSU Five Beats Georgia Tech Quintet, 76-52

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 21 (AP) — Louisiana State University assured itself of a tie for the Southeastern Conference basketball championship by downing pesky Georgia Tech 76-52 tonight.

Some 6,000 fans shivered through near-freezing temperatures in the Agricultural Coliseum to watch the equally cool LSU team gradually overhaul the fast-breaking Georgians.

Tech had a 10-point lead at the end of the first quarter and a two-point advantage at the half.

But LSU staged a torrid 25-point third quarter to pull into a commanding lead which it never surrendered. It was their tenth straight conference victory without a defeat and their 19th victory in 20 starts this season.

Don Belcher, LSU's deft corner shot artist, was high scorer with 23 points. He was followed by teammate Bob Pettit who bucketed 19 points.

Johnny Harwell was high for Tech with 14 points.

U. S. Being Beaten In Propaganda Fight

New War Of Ideas Urged

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP) — A fresh, dynamic approach to the world-wide "war of ideas" was urged on Congress today by a group of experts who called for consolidation of all overseas information programs in a new Cabinet-level agency.

The idea of another Cabinet officer aroused little or no immediate enthusiasm on Capitol Hill, however.

The U. S. Advisory Commission on Information declared Soviet Russia's psychological warfare machine is highly organized and run by thousands of experts "schooled in techniques of propaganda, agitation and revolution."

By comparison, the commission said "our little army of 10,000 supported by a budget of approximately 100 million dollars remainds us of the biblical picture of David and Goliath."

The commission said Russian expenditures on propaganda in 1950 were reported to have been 928 million dollars and those of the Soviet satellite nations 481 million, or a total of almost 1½ billion dollars.

The commission was created by law in 1948 to make a special study of warring with words and pictures. Its members are Mark A. May, director of the Yale University Institute of Human Relations, chairman; Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, Philip D. Reed, chairman of the board of the General Electric Company; Ben Hibbs, editor of the Saturday Evening Post; and Justin Miller, chairman of the board and general counsel of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters.

Its recommendations came amidst a fresh Senate investigation of the much-criticized State Department's Voice of America program, this country's main effort to penetrate the Iron Curtain with the story of democracy.

The commission, whose ideas may help guide the Eisenhower administration's redevelopment of psychological warfare strategy, urged that the whole operation be divorced completely from the State Department and set up as an independent agency.

Old-line State Department traditions and procedures are too inflexible for a "fast moving operation of this kind," it said, adding:

"The United States must take a more vigorous offensive in its information program, to be launched from a platform of basic principles carefully worked out and enunciated."

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), declaring "we don't need any new departments of government," said the commission's propsal "doesn't make sense."

McClellan, member of a subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis that is now investigating alleged Communist influences in the Voice of America program, sai:

"All that is required is a change in the administration of the agency so that it will be aministered to serve the interests of our country and not work to the advantage of communism."

Two other subcommittee members, Senator Munt (R-SD) and Dirksen (R-Ill), also cold-soulder-ed the proposal, although Mundt said:

"If the new secretary of state should be reluctant to assume the responsibility of reshaping our information policy and giving it t type of tight-fisted administrati it obviously requires, I would fav establishing it under a new feder agency."

He said he did not think it shou be on Cabinet level, however.

McCarthy declined comment.

The advisory commission sa that during the past five years Communist expansion in the worl "we have observed the effor made by top officials of the info mation program to overcome i ternal resistances and misunde standings of the Department State.

Dr. W. H. Sageser Addresses Altrusa Members At Meeting

Dr. W. H. Sageser, vocational counselor at Northeast State College, spoke to members of Altrusa Executive Women's Club on Thursday night at the regular dinner meeting at the Rendezvous.

The T-shaped table was radiant with candlelight and had as a central decor an immense bowl of small yellow and bronze mums, with individual place cards of pansies.

The noted psychologist was introduced by the vocational information chairman, Mrs. Faye Heard.

He stressed consideration of workers, pointing out that no matter what you might think, the men and women in the departments are what make a business a success. In speaking of a boss, he pointed out that he would want a boss whose loyalty he was sure of, rather than one constantly demanding loyalty from him. He said he would want a boss "concerned with me, one interested in human problems and one who realizes their importance.

Speaking from the standpoint of "Average Mrs. Executive Woman, Dr. Sageser pointed out some of the things we must consider in choosing the worker. To a great majority of humanity work is an abstraction, something to be faced with fear and horror. First on the list came personal attractiveness. He was quick to explain that by this, he did not mean glamour—a "Miss America — but good grooming, approriate dress, and a general impression of attractiveness in looks and bearing. Next on the list came a pleasant voice and a reasonable command of the English language. There is a most important third qualification the personnel director looks for. He said, "Another important qualification is courtesy." There could be no more important characteristic in marriage, in friendship, in social life or in business, in my estimation. This implies a natural interest in others and an awareness, wand a consideration for their wishes and needs. These are three things well worth thinking about whether you are seeking employees or just want to add as much grace to your niche in life as possible.

Among those present to hear this outstanding speaker who has been associated with supervisory, and career psychology work for many years were: Mrs. Faye Heard, Miss Mary Lee Frost, Dr. Katherine Foster, Miss Ann Mickel, Mrs Thelma Bond, Miss Helen Sype, Miss Annis Klie, Mrs. Erlene Adams, Mrs. Gordie Phillips, Miss Bernice McCoy, Mrs. Toni Humphries, Mrs. Madeline Hirsh, Miss Lillie Glenn, Mrs. Jewel Durham, Miss Clydie Cox, Miss Mary Benoit, Miss Agatha Burkett, and Miss Mary Gunning of the Shreveport Club and who is Dr. Julia Hunter's sister.

LOVELY FEBRUARY BRIDE — Mrs. Robert Killian Davis, before her marriage at the First Methodist Church of Bastrop, Saturday, February 7, was Miss Martha Ann Ludlum, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Reginald Ludlum and the late Mr. Ludlum, of Bastrop. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Davis, also of Bastrop.

Miss Martha Ann Ludlum Is Bride Of Robert K. Davis

First Methodist Church Of Bastrop Is Setting For Impressive Ceremony

Miss Martha Ann Ludlum, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Reginald Ludlum and the late Mr. Ludlum became the bride of Robert Killian Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Davis, Saturday, February 7th at 7:30 p.m. in the First Methodist Church, Bastrop, La.

Myriads of white candles cast a soft glow throughout the church and complimented the glossy southern smilax which entwined the tall white candelabra. Triangular arrangements of white glads, stock and candy tuft against a velvet drop, laced with smilax completed the setting. White satin bows marked the family pews.

Preceeding the ceremony, Miss Myrtis Fortenberry played prenuptial music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Martha Jean Cobb, who sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly." Lohengrins, wedding march and Mendelssohm's recessional were used.

The candle lighters, Miss Garnet Montgomery of Tallulah and Miss Kay Norman of Crossett, Ark., cousins of the bride, wore yellow nylon net and taffeta, patio length dresses, accented by white wrist corsages centered with yellow.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. William Stall of Shreveport, sister of the groom, Mrs. John Davis McAdams of Mer Rouge, Mrs. Jerry Payne of Collinston and the junior bridesmaid, Elizabeth Ann East of Mobile, Ala., young cousin of the bride, were dressed identically. Their dresses were aqua, styled with fitted bodices and lace boleros. The bustle effect skirts of nylon and lace were full and very effectively trimmed with pleated nylon ruffles and velvet ribbon. Their head dresses were of rolled satin bands. They carried old fashioned bouquets. Acacia furnished an airy note with shaded yellow roses, including Toney Gold and Orange Delight buds tied with gold ribbon. Yellow horse-hair braid as a backing, created rich color tones. The bridesmaids stood within the chancel with the groomsmen, Mr. William Stall of Shreveport. Mr. John Davis McAdams and Mr. Jim Caldwell.

The brides gown of Chantilly lace featured scalloped design in the bodice, long sleeves and neckline. The illusion yoke was edged with lace applique. Tiers of tulle covered the full lace skirt in the back, falling into a graceful train. Her French illusion veil fell chapel length from a cap made of satin bands edged with seed pearls.

Entering with Rev. Jack Midyett who officiated, the groom and his father who served as his best man, joined the matron of honor to await the bride at the chancel rail for the betrothal service. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. William L. Montgomery.

Reception

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Morehouse Country Club. Mrs. Ludlum wore a rose chiffon and lace gown, a necklace of pearls and a corsage of blue French hyacinths. Mrs. Davis wore a blue crepe model with lace trim. Her corsage was of pink rose buds. Mrs. I. Y. East of Mobile, Ala., aunt of the bride, greeted guests as they arrived.

The receiving line stood before a mantle on which a massive arrangement of white glads and stock was doubled in effectiveness by a mirror reflection. A beautifully decorated table continuing the yellow, green and white color choice centered the club lounge. The three tiered wedding cake was embossed with yellow rosebuds and topped with a quaint flower holder filled with white hyacinths. Additional white hyacinths and satin ribbon created a lacy pattern at the base of the cake. Placed at intervals from the cake to each end of the table, were waxy green foliage, Alba Plena camellias and white tapers in silver holders.

Mrs. W. C. Norman of Crossett, Ark., aunt of the bride, served the cake. Mrs. Field Montgomery of Tallulah, aunt of the bride and Mrs. Geo. W. Hiatt, Sr., served punch. Mrs. John Lane Norsworthy invited the guests to sign the bride's book which was placed on a table appointed with a bisque figurine holding white spring flowers. Assisting in the courtesies were Mesdames Louis Brodnax, Cecil Bennett, Duke Shackelford, Todd Spear, Ben Tipton, Jr., Misses Arla Jo Knause, Shreveport; Marilyn Corley and Dorothy Ann Norsworthy of Collinston. Others assisting were Mesdames W. M. Wadsworth, Mildred Brown, Alex Pettiss, D. S. Norris, W. W. Storment, A. C. Volk, A. W. Pomeroy and Miss Hazel Little.

Following the reception, Mrs. Davis and her attendants returned to her home where she changed to a costume suit of dark gray. Her hat was of white summer felt with rhinestone trim — her gloves of matching color. She wore the orchid from her bouquet.

The couple left for Cheyenne, Wyo. Upon their return they will make their home in Bastrop where Mr. and Mrs. Davis are employed by the International Paper Company. Both are graduates of Bastrop High School, Mrs. Davis attended Louisiana Tech at Ruston. Mr. Davis attended Tech and Northwestern and served two years in the Navy during World War II.

Two Hostesses Entertain Members Of Opera Club

Mrs. Merle Padgett and Mrs. R. O. Ware served as hostesses to the Opera Club when they entertained at luncheon last week at the Barn. The long tables were beautifully decorated with red camellias and white narcissus, which ran the length of the board, interspersed by red candles which burned at intervals. The head table had for its centerpiece an unique arrangement of graduated glass shelves which held a profusion of the red camellias. Attractive Valentines with lace frills marked the place of each guest.

Before the serving of a delicious chicken dinner, the club song, "My Louisiana" was sung by the group. Mrs. P. A. Poag served as accompanist. This was followed by the invocation, which was given by Mrs. J. Norman Coon.

Mrs. C. W. Caraway, president, introduced the guests and presided over a brief business session. Mrs. B. B. Martin, chairman of the nominating committee made the following report on new officers to serve next year: President, Mrs. J. C. Kramer, Jr.; vice-president, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell; secretary, secretary, Mrs. J. K. Brothers, Jr.; treasurer, Mrs. M. W. Montgomery; reporter, Mrs P. A. Poag; parliamentarian, Mrs. John Sholars; critic, Mrs. C. W. Caroway.

They were all duly elected to serve as officers for the year 1953-54.

A former member Mrs. Melba Liner Ragland who now lives in Lake Providence was welcomed and presented with a gift from the club members. Mrs. P. A. Poag made the presentation, which was a lovely silver trivot, with the name "Opera Club" inscribed. Mrs. Ragland graciously responded.

Mrs. Duncan Smith, immediate past president, presented Mrs. Caraway, out-going president with the president's pin, which is an annual custom.

Mrs. John Sholars, program chairman, introduced the guest artist, Mrs. Clyde V. Sanders, who sang in lovely voice "One Fine Day" from Madam Butterfly, and "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life." She was ably accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Z. C. Ambrose.

Mrs. Ragland favored the group with a medley of popular requests numbers on the piano.

Girl Scout News

Troop 14 is off on its long-looked-forward-to trip this week end. All fifteen girls, leaders Ethel Easterling and Mary Turner, and five or six other adults left by chartered bus Friday morning for Lafayette, which was to be headquarters for two days of sightseeing in south Louisiana.

Of course, they were planning to go to St. Martinsville and to Evangeline State Park. They planned also to visit historic Weeks Hall in New Iberia. Ultimate goal of the trip, however, is Jungle Gardens at Avery Island. The girls will undoubtedly enjoy the beauty of the garden to the fullest, since they are working on badges in the nature field. To see the birds come back to their nests at dusk will be a long-remembered sight.

For several months these girls have studied about South Louisianna and the things they want to see, have carefully planned their itinerary, what to wear, what to take, costs. The troop committee has helped in this and, all in all, it sounds as if everything should go without a hitch.

Mrs. Gene Demmary, Mrs. D. A. Miller, Mrs. C. P. Gray, Mrs. H. G. McDonald, Mrs. Richard Pierce and Mrs. W. W. Wilson were planning to go with the girls. Bet they have just as much fun!

The following girls are making the trip: Martha Jane Burns, Brigette Cymbol, Gay Demmary, Betty Hemphill, Jacqueline Masur, Ann C. McDonald, Peggy Pierce, Ella King Trousdale, Carey Sue Turner, Joyce Turpin, Susan Wilson, Julie Wooley, Louise Gray, Carol Miller, Sally Ryan, Jo Ann Usrey.

Troop 41, Mrs. W. H. Pace, leader, went out to camp in the drizzle on the first Saturday to be devoted to tree planting. The girls brought a redbud and an Mimosa, and planted about thirty of the pine seedlings, as well.

The girls wore their boots and scarves, as directed, and so were not particularly bothered by the weather. When their feet became cold, they went inside where they added fuel to the fire in the fireplace, made a pot of hot cocoa to enjoy with their nosebag lunches.

A most interested participant was ten-months-old Debbie Pace, who is starting in Scouting at a tender age. Mrs. R. E. Thompson also accompanied the girls to camp.

Haven't heard how yesterday's tree-planting day came out.

Re-registering promptly for their second year of Scouting is Troop 53 at Plum Street School. Adults registering with the troop are Mrs. E. W. Gilbert and Mrs. Earl Bigg, while the following girls are registered: Marlyn Allen, Jane Crawford, Linda Cruse, Bobbie Gilbert, Patricia Miller, Linda Peters, Sharon Sheppard, Sandra Vigg, Norman Barnes, Martha Hasse.

At the moment this is the only troop at Plum Street. Wonder why? With a beautiful school in a neighborhood of new homes it looks as if enough parents would want Scouting for their girls. And if they want it, they can make it possible. Billie Blackmon, organization chairman of the council, will be more than glad to show how it's done.

Saw Mrs. O. B. Copeland, a former Brownie leader, the other day. She tells us that Delhi, where she now teaches, has four Girl Scout troops. All due to her influence, no doubt. That's how the world spreads and how the organization grows.

Troops are busy deciding about their Juliette Low offerings which will be presented on the birthday program March 15th. Shall it be a penny for each year of our age or for each letter in our name, or what?

According to Eunice Forman, Juliette Low chairman, each troop is to make a small bag in which to place its offering, which one member of the troop will present, while another lights a candle on the birthday cake on the stage.

It's not too far off now. Sunday afternoon, March 15, at Ouachita Parish High School auditorium, at 2:30 every Scout from the youngest Brownie to our president should plan to be present for the program in honor of the 41st anniversary of Girl Scouting in the U. S. A.

RECENT BRIDE—Mrs. W. H. Harp, Jr., before her marriage Friday, February 6, in San Diego, Calif., was Miss Joann Shuptrine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Shuptrine, of this city. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Harp, Sr., of Ferriday.

Miss Margaret Bryant Is Bride Of Loyd Roberts

The Calvary Baptist Church was the scene of the simple but beautiful wedding of Margaret Bryant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bryant, to Seaman Loyd Roberts of Grayson, La. The ceremony was performed February 14, at eight o'clock by the pastor, Rev. D. W. Nix.

Baskets of white stock and tall candelabra with white candles made a very effective setting. Prior to the ceremony Miss Elaine Knight played traditional wedding music. I Love You Truly and O Promise Me was sung by Mrs. Eugene Smith.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a hand crocheted lace dress over white taffeta and finger tip veil attached to a crown white hat covered with orange blossoms and full length mittens. She carried a white Bible used by an aunt, topped with a purple throated orchid with long white streamers. She wore the traditional old, something new, something borrowed, something blue and a goodluck penny in her shoe.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Geraldine Bryant. She wore a floor length pastel blue taffeta with mittens to match and carried a large nosegay of tulle and pink carnations.

Lee Cook was the bridegroom's only attendant. James Bryant brother of the bride and J. D. Bryant, uncle of the bride, from Shreveport were ushers.

Mrs. Gerald Bryant, mother of the bride, wore a beige and brown suit with white nylon blouse and gloves and brown accessories and a corsage of white Empress camellias. Mrs. Roberts, mother of the groom wore a mauve suit with white blouse and gloves with black accessories. Mrs. J. A. Bryant, paternal grandmother, from Haynesville, wore a black crepe dress with black and gold stole, black accessories, and a corsage of purple dawn camellias. Mrs. S. D. Burnette, maternal grandmother of Monroe wore a navy suit with pink nylon gloves and blouse with navy accessories and a corsage of pink Empress camellias.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for a short trip on the gulf coast. After their return the groom will report to his ship in San Francisco, Calif.

The groom is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School. Soon after graduation, he enlisted in the navy. The bride will graduate from Ouachita Parish High School in June. She is a member of the Jeffersonian Club and the National Honor Society. She will remain with her parents, until Mr. Roberts returns from overseas.

Lenwil Home Demonstration Club Meets

The Lenwil Home Demonstration Club met February 11 in the home of Mrs. Stennett. Ritz open - face sandwiches were served with cookies, coffee, and cold drinks

Highlighting this occasion was a spelling match between the members, with a clump of blooming flowers given as a prize. Mrs. Ford withstood the five minute barrage of words to win the prize.

An interesting demonstration was given by Mrs. M. L. Owens on altering different types of clothes. Some high points were how to take measurements for altering and then adjusting them to a pattern. Hints on what to do at this time of year were given by Mrs. Chilton, consumer education; Mrs. Joiner, poultry; Mrs. Stennett, landscaping, and Mrs. Whitlock, family tree.

Marion Club Meets With Mrs. Andrews

The meeting of the Marion Home Demonstration Club was held in the home of Mrs. J. R. Andrews with a Valentine motif used for the "pot luck" dinner which was held from 1:30 until 2:30 o'clock.

Games were played with Mrs. C. W. Causey, Mrs. J. R. Gibson, Mrs. James Oxford winning prizes. The "door prize" also went to Mrs. Oxford. Following the games, the group rendered several selections.

Two new members of the club are Mrs. C. W. Burch and Mrs. D. Pierson. Other guests were Mrs. Ola Burns, Mrs. G. W. Beaver, Mrs. C. W. Causey, and Mrs. C. Allen.

A regular business meeting was held after which refreshments were served. Those enjoying this Valentine party were Mrs. Marie Pierce, Mrs. Ola Burns, Mrs. G. W. Beaver, Mrs. C. W. Causey, Mrs. C. Gibson, Mrs. Oliver Graves, Mrs. Emma Nettles, Mrs. Minnie McVicker, Mrs. R. E. Williams, Mrs. Don Burns, the hostess, Mrs. Andrews, and co-hostess, Mrs. James Oxford.

The March meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. O. L. McVicker with Mrs. Don Burns, co-hostess.

Demonstration On Cutting Plaids To Be Given

Springtime brings us many beautiful and colorful plaid materials. Garments made of these plaids are beautiful and distinctive, if the person making the garment knows how to use them, says Mrs. Euna D. Spielman, home demonstration agent, you need to understand the arrangement of the designs. Matching plaids can be very simple when you know your dress pattern layout and plaid arrangement.

Mrs. Pearl Thompson, employed by one of the local fabric shops, will give a demonstration in cutting plaids Tuesday, February 24th at 9:30 a.m. This demonstration will be in the auditorium of the Agricultural Building, West Monroe. Mrs. Thompson is experienced in handling all types of arrangements of plaid for she has taught it a number of years.

The public is invited to see this demonstration.

MRS. WILLIAM EWELL COOPER — Before her marriage January 31st was Miss Patricia Ann Applewhite of Winnsboro, daughter of Mrs. Rufus Eldridge Applewhite and the late Dr. Applewhite.

Miss Applewhite's Vows To William Cooper Pledged In Candlelight Ceremony

In a candlelight ceremony, Saturday evening, January 31, in the Winnsboro Methodist Church, Miss Patricia Ann Applewhite, daughter of Mrs. Rufus Eldridge Applewhite and the late Dr. R. E. Applewhite, became the bride of William Ewell Cooper, Junior, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ewell Cooper, Sr., of Alexandria, La.

The Rev. C. B. Hall, pastor of Winnsboro First Baptist Church, officiated with impressive double ring ceremony before a background of graduated tiers of white tapers in candelabra, alternated with tall pedestal baskets containing white stock, gladioli and woodwardia. A giant gothic arch of tapers outlined the rear of the chancel and clusters of white tapers tied with tulle and white asters were placed in the embrasures of the memorial windows. The pews for relatives and intimate friends were marked with white asters tied with tulle and white satin bows of ribbon and tulle.

A program of nuptial organ music was presented by Mrs. Charles L. Moore, Jr., who also accompanied the vocalist, Mr. Richard Braud of New Orleans. Mr. Braud sang "Because" and "At Dawning" and gave a touching rendition of "The Lord's Prayer" following the benediction. Traditional wedding marches by Mrs. Moore announced the entrance of the wedding party and the recessional.

Preceding the entrance of the bridal party, the myriads of tapers were lighted by Ronald and Donald Chandler, twin cousins of the bride, and Messrs. Morris Dante and Jules Dante, twin brothers, who also served as ushers.

Given in marriage by her uncle Mr. Leroy Chandler of Alexandria, the bride was radiant in an original wedding gown of nylon tulle and chantilly lace over imported white satin, designed with fitted lace bodice, the portrait yoke of which was nylon tulle appliqued with irridescent sequins and seed pearls. Two tiers of the lace were draped from the waistline and worn over period hoops, extending into a cathedral train. Her veil of silk illusion cascaded from a Juliet cap of chantilly lace encrusted with seed pearls and baby sequins. She carried a bridal bouquet centered by a specimen white orchid surrounded by lilies of the valley and stephonotis. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

Miss Mary Lou Applewhite, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and the bridesmads were Mrs. C. Wilson Chopin of Baton Rouge, sister of the groom, Miss June Shelton and Miss Betty Jean Tarver of Winnsboro, and Mrs. Don C. Scott of Dermott, Ark. They wore formal gowns of teal blue nylon tulle over taffeta with full skirts which swept into a semi-train. Self colored fitted velvet jackets trimmed with tiny velvet buttons complimented these. They carried velvet muffs of teal blue adorned with crescent shaped bouquets of pink carnations and wore tiaras of teal blue velvet and tulle. Miss Applewhite's gown was identical in design in American Beauty tulle and velvet. Her muff was of velvet embroidered with crescent shaped bouquet of American Beauty roses. Mr. C. Wilson Chopin of Baton Rouge, La., served as best man, and the groomsmen were Mr. Bernard Chandler of Alexandria, Dr. Julius Brown of Jackson, Miss. Mr. Winston Henderson of Boyce, La., and Mr. John E. Walker of Pollock, La.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs Applewhite chose a lovely formal of aqua crepe with bodice embroidered in baguettes and rhinestones. She wore a bandeau of rose petals and sequins with rhinestones and silver accessories, completed with lavender orchid. Mrs. Cooper, mother of the groom, was lovely in a pale pink brocaded crepe designed with classic lines and cowl neckline. Her shell hat was of same material banded with pearls and she wore a lavender orchid.

Reception

A reception immediately followed the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Landis, Jr., close friends of the bride's family. This lovely and spacious home was decorated ensuite with bridal color scheme of green and white, developed in huge baskets of white stock, Gladioli and asters placed at vantage points. The bride's table in the dining room was covered with lace banquet cloth centered with an arrangement of candelabra and epergne of white gardenias and tiny spirea tied with white satin ribbons. Individual corsages of gardenias were scattered over the table at one end of which was the three - tiered wedding cake surmounted with miniature bride and groom. At the other end was the punch bowl presided over by Mrs. Heuy Stein. Frills of starched maline accented the table appointments. Mints and petit fours were passed among the guests by Misses Jean Lowentritt, Betty Sue Price and Ann Riser. Others assisting in courtesies were Mrs. Jack Landis Wood, Mrs. B. S. Landis, III, Mrs. Alice Walter, Mrs. Walter Wood and Mrs. B. S. Landis, Jr. Several hundred guests were privileged too view the lovely wedding gifts of china, crystal, and silver, and other gifts of distinction.

For their wedding trip to Havana, Cuba, the bride wore an advanced spring model of light blue wool flecked with white, and light blue straw hat with navy blue accessories. She wore the white orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return they will live in Baton Rouge, where Mrs. Cooper is attending school, and Mr. Cooper is employed. The gride is a graduate of Winnsboro High School and as an accomplished pianist is resuming study in Louisiana State University's school of music. The groom served in the armed forces, and is a graduate of Louisiana College, Pineville, La., where he majored in history.

The Y. W. C. A. is one of your Red Feather services of the Twin City Community Chest. Some ask what is the Y. W. C. A. What are we trying to accomplish? The Y. W. C. A. is not just a club, not just rooms and gyms, cafeterias and residences. The Y. W. C. A. is a fellowship in which people are happily related to each other and to God. The Y. W. C. A. is more interested in people than in anything else: it tries to help people grow toward the best that is in them; it provides a setting where people are doing things together, are sharing a common responsibility; are growisg in understanding of themselves and others. The Y. W. C. A. is a youth-adult partnership, an enterprise in which women and girls are equally members and take part in making plans and carrying them out both for their own groups and for the whole Y. W. C. A. All women and girls are welcomed in the Y. W. C. A.

Soft rays of afternoon sunlight, streaming through the windows upon the bridal party as they stood before the lovely background of green fern trees, baskets of white gladoili and burning white tapers, in branched candlebras, added a touch of solemn beauty to the scene.

Exciting New Books Added To Collection At Public Library

Each week about 75 new books are added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Of course many of these are duplicate copies to take care of the four branches of the library. This week there is an unusual number of new fiction titles.

The literary world has been waiting with interest for the appearance of "The Second Happiest Day," written by an author who calls himself John Phillips, but who is in reality, John Phillips Marquand, Jr., the son of the famous novelist. This is his first effort and bids fair to be very successful. This is the story of a young man in a world he didn't belong to—a wealthy world inhabited by the comic as well as by the gracious, and ruled by the faded traditions of the Jazz Age. Gus Taylor entered this domain through a scholarship to a venerable boarding school. His subsequent career with these companions, their families and friends provides a fascinating story of contemporary life.

Stories with a southern background are always popular and "The Plantation" by Ovid Williams Pierce, should be extremely so. It has for its scene a plantation in North Carolina and for its people, the kind of folks that you and I have known. It is the story of the life of Mr. Ed Ruffin, as seen through the eyes of his coachman, Josephus. We see how life had passed Mr. Ed by, because he knew only how to give and never how to take what he deserved. It is a haunting story and one that will stay with you for a long time.

If you would like to read a heart-warming story try "Family Album" by Antonia Ridge. This is the perfectly charming story of an English spinster, who went to France on the only impractical adventure of her life and found a happiness she had never expected. Helen MacInnes is a modern writer, who writes about every-day people with such depth and perception that we feel as if we knew them. Her latest book is "I and My True Love." Her scene is Washington, but she is concerned with it as a residential not a governmental unit. This is an exciting and romantic story and one that you will not want to miss.

For the readers of mystery stories there are two new books this week. "The Black Iris" by Constance and Gwenyth Little is a thrilling story of two elderly ladies whose main sport was Russian roulette. "Speak Justly of the Dead" is the title of the new book by E. C. R. Lorac has for its background an English village of tight loyalties and the murder of an important woman of the village. Both of these books are crime club selections and are exceptionally good.

Although a great many readers are interested in fiction titles only, there are still many who specialize in non-fiction and they are always glad when we receive new titles.

"Divided We Fought," edited by David Donald is a remarkable pictorial history of the Civil War. This war gains in interest as the years roll by. There are young and old alike who will welcome this volume. "What to Do When" by Jennifer Colton is a new type of etiquette book that gives advice about dealing with difficult and unusual situations. It deals with things that the average etiquette books forget and it should be of real help in difficult situations.

David E. Lilenthal has a most pertinent and informative book just off the press. It is called "Big Business, A New Era." It is a challenging book and one that every American should read. Thomas Merton is the author of a number of books dealing with the spiritual life. His latest title is called "The Sign of Jonas" and is a sequel to his very popular "Seven Story Mountain." This book and his other titles are available at the Ouachita Parish Public Library and are yours to read by merely asking for them.

If you are not a library patron, start now and you will find your life most pleasurable enriched.

The Home Shift With Mildred Swift

Somebody has been circulating a rumor to the effect that George Washington never chopped down that cherry tree In fact, it has been said that the whole story is a myth. Let's have no further tampering with one of our best national anecdotes. Whether or not the Father of Our Country chopped down that tree, cherry flavor has forever become traditional for his birthday, and I, for one, intend to go right on celebrating it in just that way! Besides, what better story do we have to tell our children on honesty?

Hit and Miss Garden News

Mr. Ben Arthur Davis talked to us at the Monroe Garden Club on "Planting for Continuous Bloom." He says we should have a written plan to remind us when to plant. We know that's true because we forget about something until we see it in bloom. Mr. Davis says chrysanthemums can be planted as late as June. He says in March or April he buys fine plants, pinches the taps out and roots them, therefore, he gets two chrysanthemum plants for one. The speaker recommended 4-12-4 and bone meal mixed half and half for bulbs. The bone meal makes the soil alkaline so gives the bulbs a happy home. The 4-12-4 does the feeding. Mr. Davis gave other fine garden hints that I'll tell you about when it's seasonal.

Trim Rose Bushes

A mild winter thus far has kept roses flowering beyond their natural blooming period. The plants have not had the necessary rest that cold weather procues. Though it takes a lot of courage to cut back a rose bush when it is full of buds, that is exactly what must be done in order to renew the plant's vigor for spring flowering. Prune to an outside bud so as to open the bushes in the center to admit air. Don't prune climbing roses until after they have bloomed. Then remove the oldest canes. Feed all your roses now using 5-10-5.

Mamie Davis was telling me about "High Noon," a yellow climber. She says she has observed the one in the Harry Oliver yard for years and that it holds it's color so well in the hot sun. Also, it blooms continuously.

don't believe our nurseries carry this rose, but if we ask for it, they'll have them next year. Any plants the gardeners want, our nurseries try to get and usually do.

For You

Mrs. Clarence Faulk, 207 McClendon, West Monroe, has some plants to give new home owners. Call her before you go by. Her number is 6393 and be prepared to do your digging. She has evergreen palms and heavenly trees. This is the tree mentioned in the book, "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn." It is not an evergreen, it's quick growing and has a tropical look. I've just been by for one and find the tree grows lots like the mimosa.

Miss Josie has the most interesting garden. I asked the name of a little pink climbing rose and she said: "I came from my mother's yard and we always called it the pink climber." There's a gingko tree here, too, and the largest youpon I've ever seen. I just didn't know they grew that tall. Some day I'm going to have time to roam about three hours in Mrs. Faulk's garden and really enjoy it's loveliness.

For Girl Scouts

If you have any small red bud or mimosa trees you'll give the Girl Scouts, call the Scout House 2-1270. They'll be glad to come for them. The girls want to plant these at their camp. Let's give generously of these plants and encourage our young women to love plants and planting. Wait til tomorrow to call.

Cleaning Hats

Miss Juanita Porter cleaned a panama hat at the work shop Friday, and it came out looking almost new. First, she brushed the straw with hydrogen peroxide. While the hat was still damp she rubbed it with white cake magnesia, let it dry, then gave it a good brushing. There were some nifty hats turned out in that class. Again the leaders, Maud Mayo, Louise Smith, Blanche Ray and Margaret Webb supervised the reworking of the old hats.

Flower Seed to Plant

These seed can be planted now: Chinese Forget-me-not, Blue Salvia, Nasturtium, Ageratum, Torenia, African Golden Daisy, Red Salvia, Periwinkle, Feverfew, Petunia, Sweet Alyssum, Four O'Clock, Candytuft, Marigold, Balsam, Forget-me-not, Moonflower, Calliopsis, Scabiosa, Zinnia, Early Cosmos, Gaillardia, Portulaca, Verbena, Phlox.

That's all for today. See you again next Sunday in this same column.

First Whiff Of Spring Makes Green Thumb Itch

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — You say your quivering nostrils detect the first faint perfume of approaching spring? Your thumbs itch and show a tinge of green?

These are sure signs that you have gardening in your blood. You'd better get comfortable after supper and give your new seed catalogues some attention.

Seed catalog study and garden planning are part of your paper work war-up to a season of happy green thumbing. Plenty of time later to develop your calluses.

A plan is important, even though you can jump over your gardens widest dimensions. Part of my job as an editor at Rutgers is to siphon off professorial advice, and planning, the professors assure me, gives results.

For all their dwelling in ivory towers, professors are handy at giving down to earth answers to farm and garden questions. They get dirt under their fingernails and lawnmower grease on their pants, just as you and I.

And so, when a professor tells me that the books says you should plan a garden, and that furthermore, he always draws up a garden plan himself, I'm all ears. Maybe you, too, can remember the year you had to eat your way through a 50-foot row of Swiss Chard? Of did you consume your weight in parsnips?

Just a simple diagram, showing the dimensions of your vegetable and flower gardens, will do. Draw a line to show where you will first grow early peas, then tomatoes. Another line can show that snap-beans will go in when the early lettuce is finished. And can you really afford the space to grow the spreading vine crops like cucumbers and squash?

Prof. C. H. Nissley, vegetable specialist and well known author of a garden handbook, says planning will help you save money when you buy seeds and fertilizer. And, as you know, most packages of seeds have directions for spacing and time for planting.

Nissley warns not to let the vegetable garden get too big if you're expected to give a hand with the weeds in the perennial border.

And while you're planning, you'd better feel your muscles and ask yourself if your energy next July will match your early spring spirit. Or, as we like to say around here: "Dont bite off more than you can chew.

This applies to more than the use of your muscle power and limits of time. Theres that little matter of spreading the dollars, too.

How To Grow Orchids At Home

Dr. Katherine Foster was the guest speaker at the Garden Gate Garden Club of Winnsboro when it met Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Quentin McLemore.

Dr. Foster spoke on "How You Can Grow Orchids in Your Home." She explained that she and her husband began their fascinating hobby with one plant in their kitchen, later constructing a bay window, and finally a green house where they now have over a hundred plants, located in the back yard of their home in West Monroe.

Several specimen plants were displayed showing beautiful orchid blooms and buds. Dr. Foster confined her talk to the cattelya orchid which is the large exquisite variety one usually thinks of when the word "orchid" is mentioned. She has a large number of them in her collection and says that they are no more difficult to grow than African violets. In fact, Dr. Foster said any location in your home where African violets will grow is a good location for orchids.

The cattelya orchid grows on osmunda, a type of fern found in the everglades of Florida, in Hawaii, and Australia. The orchid plant should be placed in a large pot filled with osmunda, except for a small amount of rocks or broken pot in the bottom to provide for good drainage, Dr. Foster stated.

Light, temperature, and water are the three most important factors to remember in growing orchids. Dr. Foster said an orchid plant should have plenty of light, but never the direct rays of the sun; that the temperature should never be below 60 degrees, and that the plants should be well watered once a week, but no more. Ventilation should be regulated, and humidity controlled by spraying the air several times a day if one is growing orchids in the ideal conditions of a greenhouse.

The club members were advised to start their collection with a full grown plant, bought from a reliable nurseryman, since a seedling would take from four to six years to mature and bloom.

After a short business session presided over by Mrs. Robert F. Mulhearn, enjoyable refreshments were served in the dining room, where the Valentine theme was carried out with lovely arrangements of red and white flowers. Dr. Foster was accompanied to Winnsboro by Mrs. T. Mickel.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Q—My lawn is getting to look miserable because of a thick growth of small-headed mushrooms or toadstools. The neighbors say that the spot, 8 ft. or so in diameter, was occupied by a tree a year or so ago.

A—Mushrooms are the result of decaying organic matter in the soil; the buried tree stump is undoubtedly the cause of your infestation. Several applications of Bordeaux mixture, using five tablespoons per gallon of water should prevent their continued appearance. Saturate the soil three or four times at weekly intervals.

Q—Should a commercial fertilizer be added to the soil before or after planting trees and shrubs?

A—Good soil preparation always must precede planting and the use of a complete fertilizer well mixed with the soil at that time will insure an abundance of available fod early next spring when root activities start.

P—Can one prune fruit trees during the winter months? I've been told to wait until spring to prune—but I have more time now.

A — Most fruit growers start pruning in early winter and continue when weather permits. No harm results from winter pruning.

Q—What is the best poison for the home owner to use to eliminate ants, silver fish, roaches and similar household insects

A—There are new liquid concentrates based on chlordane which are highly recommended for insect control. Chlordane kills by contact and leaves a residue, toxic to these insects for from four to six weeks.

YOUR GARDEN

By HENRY PREE

Nearly everyone loves a garden, but not everyone is successful in the attempt to grow beautiful flowers or bountiful crops of vegetables. Success invariably depends upon the "good earth," for without a live soil plants just will not thrive.

Soil is a living thing, and if neglected, will once more revert to sand. The old gardener places a great emphasis on the fact that the use of commercial fertilizer alone is not sufficient to revitalize the soil.

For plant life to thrive, four things are absolutely essential: humus, nitrogen, phosphorus and potash — but most important of all is the humus.

In forest land, the surface of the soil is constantly renewed by the fall and decay of leaves, thus building up a "floor" of fertility and richness. It is humus - rich soil of that nature which all gardeners need for their flowers and vegetables.

The soil operates on a cycle of continuous, natural operations. Under conditions of normal plant life and decay, when crops are neither gathered nor eaten by livestock, the herbage, on dying down and rotting, returns to the soil all those elements which it took from it during life and growth.

In the garden, however, the crops, grown and used for human consumption, return nothing to the soil, but rather take a heavy toll of the soil's natural plant food.

Tests have been made on both light and heavy soils, to compare constant cropping and no manuring with constant cropping and regular manuring. They showed a poor and diminishing fertility in the first case, as against a more than double, and gradually increasing yield on the regularly manured land.

Humus returns to the soil the vital elements that garden crops selfishly take but don't give back.

Heavily cropped ground, whether it has been producing flowers or vegetables, needs to be well-dug and manured every year. The digging is preferably done in the early spring so that subsequent frosts and rains can help to break down down the soil to a fine, easily worked condition.

A good dressing of manure at least once a year is also most essential if one is to produce crops of quick-growing vegetables — the kind that are flavorsome, tender and of goodly size — or flowers that will give you masses of colorful blooms.

Tips Given On Flower Gardening

Here are some suggestions for digging and planting in the flower garden. It's time to start planting gladiolus corms says Mrs. Euna D. Spielman, Home Demonstration Agent. Other notes on the subject come from the landscape specialist, Don Spurlock, associate horticulturist with the L. S. U. agricultural extension service. A suggestion for having blossoms a long time is to plant the gladiolus corms every two weeks right on through March. Some gardeners have a country cousin to the "glads" called Montbretia. Plant it now, too. Dahlia tubers are being planted now. While doing the job, also stake them. Then you won't injure the roots by staking them later. Plan a cutting bed, too. Build it in a protected plot in the yard where you can grow cuttings for your own use and for exchanging with neighbors and friends. By the way, keep pruning shears out of spring flowering shrubs. Wait until after they've bloomed, then prune them, later.

Thompson Wood Lee Aux. Meets With Mrs. T. J. Davis

Thompson Wood Lee Auxiliary, United Spanish War Veterans, met with Mrs. T. J. Davis on St. John Street for their February meeting. Beautiful arrangements of red camellias and other spring flowers were used at vantage points.

Mrs. J. M. McKee, the newly elected president, presided and the meeting was opened with a prayer by the chaplain, Mrs. T. J. Davis. The pledge to the flag was repeated in unison after which the routine business session was held. Commemorating the anniversary of the sinking of the Maine, February 15, which was the cause of the Spanish American War, Mrs. H. E. Webb, patriotic instructor, read an interestig article on the subject. A motion was made and carried that the auxiliary purchase two histories of the Spanish American War to be placed in the libraries of Monroe and West Monroe in memory of local veterans of that war.

The president, Mrs. McKee, outlined worthwhile projects for the year, child welfare work being especially stressed. The meeting was closed with prayer, after which a social hour was enjoyed. The members were invited to the dining room for refreshments. Mrs. Davis presided at the coffee service at the beautifully decorated table, covered with handmade lace cloth with floral centerpiece. Tea sandwiches, cakes and mints were served to Mrs. J. M. McKee, Mrs. O. M. Arnette, Mrs. Ray Hood, Mrs. H. E. Webb, Mrs E. G. Courtney, Mrs. Stella Ross, Mrs. Eula Morgan, Mrs. W. B. Mangham and Mrs. Dell Robinson.

Chief Tusquahoma Chapter Of DAR Has 3rd Anniversary

The third anniversary of Chief Tusquahoma Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was celebrated Monday night at a dinner held at the LaCasa Tea Room.

D. A. R. colors of blue and white were used on the speaker's table with a lovely arrangement of narcissus, spirea and dutch iris, while the guests tables held a runner of ivy with white candles surrounded by clusters of camellias placed at intervals. Programs in D. A. R. colors and book matches were placed at each cover, the match covers bearing "Chief Tusquahoma 1950-1953."

The dinner was presided over by Mrs. George Lawn, regent, who welcomed guests to this annual event. Miss Katherine Averett then read the message from the president general in Washington, followed by the invocation given by Mrs. Jesse Norris, and the pledge of allegiance by Mrs. Tom Rainbolt. Mrs. Archie Dickerson then lead the American Creed.

Mrs. Lawn introduced the guests as Mrs. J. C. Liner, and Miss Karen Lee and Miss Anita Faye Rickerson. Mrs. George T. Madison, of Abram Morehouse Chapter, was then introduced as the guest speaker of the evening. Mrs. Madison also gave the itinary for the D. A. R. State Conference to be held here March 3, 4 and 5.

Mrs. Madison spoke on the number of great Americans born during the month of February and recalled episodes in the life of the great American patriot, George Washington. She told of the lonely boyhood and told of the three scenes relative to the characteristics of George Washington. Mrs. Madison told of his experiences at Valley Forge and of how his men not only loved him but would follow him to death, of his human kindness, his love for his country and his lovable character.

Chief Tusquahoma Chapter, which was organized in 1950 with organizing regent, Mrs. G. S. Stovall, got its name from the Chief of the Indian tribe residing in Ouachita Parish who sold the portion of land on which the village was situated. This deed was recorded in 1820, and thus complied with D. A. R. rules that chapter names, individuals or locations, must have written record of their existence prior to 1825. The organizing officers held office for a period of one year, after which time newly elected officers took their office. Present officers are: Regent, Mrs. George M. Lawn; first vice regent, Mrs. Jack Willis; second vice-regent, Mrs. Roy E. Lee; recording secretary, Mrs. J. Howard Williams; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Jessie Norris; treasurer, Miss Mary Louise Ellis; registrar, Mrs. V. O. Allen; historian, Mrs. Edith Lee; librarian, Mrs. Warren McGee, and chaplain, Mrs. Lela Cullom.

Those attending were: Mrs. Jack Willis, V. O. Allen, Edith Lee, Clark Butler, Archie Dickerson, W. G. Haynes, Jr., George M. Lawn, Warren McGee, Jesse Norris, J. L. Harper, R. R. Pribble, J. G. Rickerson, J. A. Rainbolt, Lela Cullom, Howard Williams, Roy Brooks, Henry Hamilton, H. C. Ervin, Miss Katherine Averett, and Miss Mary Louise Ellis, the following guests: Mrs. George T. Madison, Mrs. J. S. Heard, Mrs. Nell Entrican, Mrs. R. C. Mahaffey, Miss Karen Lee, Miss Anita Faye Rickerson, Mrs. J. C. Liner, Sr., and Mrs. Joe Renwick, and Mrs. Francis Ortis, and hostesses, Mrs. Jeff Caldwell, Mrs. J. O. Miller, and Mrs. Roy E. Lee.

Your Problems

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Mrs. Landers: One of my resolutions for 1953 is to improve myself, and I believe you to be the person to set me on the right track. I am 18, a senior in high school, attractive, nicely dressed, and with my share of dates. Several boys have asked me to go "steady," and even though I have liked one or more, I have refused. I feel that when one goes "steady" it should be final and really mean something more than just an assured Saturday night date. I have seen so many of my girl friends break up with their steadies and have seen too many heartbroken boys who tried to find escape in drinking to rush into the same sort of thing. Now, the boys think me snobbish or afraid.

Another thing I want to discuss with you are the odd ways of boys. In our neighborhood there are two factions; a good one and a bad one. The good crowd do not smoke or drink and observe decent hours. The bad crow are the opposite and some of the boys even carry knives or blackjacks. Our good boys ask us good girls to avoid the others absolutely; yet, when we are at a mixed dance you should see them run to dance with and kid the "bad girls! —Burny.

An excellent resolution and one that most of us arrive at on the morning of Jan. 1, only to forget it (alas an alack) on the morning of Jan. 2 (when we are feeling better).

You are quite right and quite wise to avoid the "steady" association until you feel you have met the boy with whom the relationship will go on to even more permanent ties. It is also wise to date many boys, at your age, so that you can make a successful and intelligent choice of a husband.

Don't worry about the "odd" ways of the boys. They like to feel wicked (especially the "good" ones (by associating with the "bad" girls — but, they seldom marry them.

Dear Mrs. Landers: I have been reading your column for some time and believe you can help me. When my wife died three years ago I vowed I would never marry but life is too lonesome and I now wish to marry. I am 50, weigh 200. I'm 6 foot tall, good looking and have a steady job. I meets lots of women but it is hard to find a good wife among them.

I want a wife who has good character, health, and who has a home or business or some money of her own so that we could go into business (as I formerly was (together. I don't smoke or drink and love a social life at home with a wife. Not too old or too young please; between 30 to 50.—Lonesome Johnny.

PS—Have them write directly to you and you be the judge. If you get too many letters, I can come in and pick them up as I am only 50 miles away. Thanks a million. —J.

All very interesting, but if you have really been reading my column for some time, my friend, Johnny, you would know that we NEVER, NEVER function as a matrimonial bureau! I agree with you that you should marry (such a handsome guy!), but you'll have to do your own snooping into the prospective bride's bankbooks, character, and state of health. If you can't find a good wife among the women you meet, what chance have I through a mere letter? Thanks for the left-handed compliment, but we decline the honor.

Thirty - years - of - age, indeed! Brother, but you think you're good.

Dear Mrs. Laners: Do you think a family man of only 27-years-of-age, should belong to any organization that consists of only a few other married men and the rest young single men and GIRLS?—Trudy.

The poor man can't help it if the single people didn't marry. If the organization has a purpose or interest that corresponds to his, why shouldn't he belong? If the wife doesn't trust him or doesn't like the idea, why doesn't she join, too?

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper.)

Lexington Avenue P.-T. A. Reviews First Year's Work

The Lexington Avenue Parent-Teachers' Association i approaching the end of its first year of organization with great deal of satisfaction over its accomplishments and wit keen anticipation regarding plans for the future.

With justifiable pride and delight over the beautiful new school building, the parents and teachers have worked together in complete harmony to meet the immediate and most worthwhile needs of the students and the school.

Mrs. Meyer Glazer, finance chairman, has worked tirelessly with the P.-T. A. collectively to supplement the school library, bringing the books up to three per child in school, which is an outstanding record for a new school. Funds for this major project were obtained mostly from a rummage sale and from the Hallowe'en carnival held in October.

One of the chief aims of the Lexington P.-T. A. has been to promote traffic safety and to prevent traffic congestion in the vicinity of the school at all times. Signs have been placed at vantage points and adequate parking facilities have been provided. Mr. A. B. Waggoner, the school guard, who has made each child's safety his personal responsibility, has endeared himself to parents and students alike. He has ably directed traffic, concentrating particularly on his small pedestrians and bicyclists.

Much time and effort have gone into the possibility of black topping the street directly in front of the school, and it is hoped that this will be accomplished by the beginning of the fall term.

A well-equipped, sanitary cafeteria is maintained to the immense satisfaction of parents, teachers and students.

A committee, headed by Mrs. David Aron, is now hard at work raising funds for playground equipment. The results of their efforts will be announced at the Founders Day meeting on February 26.

Listed below are the officers and committee members who have worked together in a warm and friendly spirit of cooperation throughout the year.

Mrs. Harold V. Brady, president; Mrs. David Aron, first vice-president and membership chairman; Mrs. Meyer Glazer, second vice-president; Mrs. W. E. Leigh, third vice-president; Mrs. J. H. Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Do you remember the old saying, "If you tell a big enough lie often enough people will believe you?"

Many world leaders have adopted that idea with success, Hitler for instance. I am even inclined to think that if you tell a big enough lie often enough you begin to believe it yourself.

When you tell the simple truth, you can tell it over and over again and few people pay any attention to you. I have observed that this is true when repeating the simple rules of health which today are being proven in research laboratories and in the field of psychosomatic medicine.

This is especially true in the field of figure-molding exercises. I seem to be all tangled up with bromides today because I am about to say, "Seeing is believing." This is certainly true of women and exercise.

When I first started my figure-molding classes women came because I was so enthusiastic that they thought, "Maybe she has something." Anyway it is worth a fling."

After seeing for themselves what happened to their figures they came again and their friends asked them what they had been doing, and after that first year I had waiting lists—women who wished to be telephoned when I started classes.

Right here let me correct any false notion you may be getting. This is not an advertisement for my classes. I do not teach them any more because I am too busy answering Why Grow Old? mail. I did hang on as long as I could and taught six to eight weeks each year until recently. I hung on because I enjoy teaching and it was always so exciting to me to see the metamorphosis from overweight to correct weight, from bulges to curves, but more than all, the changes from self-consciousness to self-confidence, from fatigue to energy, and the accompanying increase in rich living and charm.

Fat does have a tendency to accumulate over lazy muscles and then there is the stretching involved. For whatever reason, I had one woman in my classes who gained four pounds and reduced her abdominal measurement six inches through exercise. I mention this because it is the most surprising example of what I am talking about. I could give you many more.

Do not overlook the advantages of an easy daily routine of exercise. The following motion toward health and beauty goes like this: Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor overhead. Bend both knees up close to the abdomen. At first, just straighten them and return them to the floor. After your muscles have become a bit stronger, bend the knees and then straighten them toward the ceiling, and slowly lower the legs to the floor (with stiff knees).

If you would like to have my short daily routine, "Essential Daily Routine for Beauty and Health," planned especially for women, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 19. Address Josephine Lowman in care of Morning World.

Tomorrow: "New Hobby or Business Will Give You More Pep."

Roamin' In The Rural

Euna D. Spielman

The shrubs are certainly putting on new growth. A hard freeze on them now would cause severe injury. Let's hope we don't get one.

Pruning

When is the best time to prune is always a good question for discussion. The old answer "Prune When the Knife is Sharp" is still a good one as you should prune lightly throughout the year as plants need it.

Most broad-leaf plants as ligustrum and abelia will grow back whenever pruned, but the junipers and arborvitaes should be pruned moderately. Flowering shrubs should be pruned immediately after blooming. Spring bloomers — in spring. Summer and fall bloomers — in fall. When pruning, keep in mind what you are pruning for —vigor, form, or blooms, and prune to get these results.

Usually we prune when we set a plant out so that it will grow more vigorously. When pruning for form, keep in mind the natural shape of the plant. Some plants are supposed to be open, airy, and informal. Prune them in such a manner that you do not change its natural form, for example don't prune a ligustrum like a boxwood, which tends to grow compact and formal.

Camellias

The camellias have been beautiful this year and we are likely to succumb to camellia fever and once you get it in your system you are likely to be an addict for life. So if we're going to buy them, let's learn what should be done to secure healthy vigorous plants. Location of the plant, soil, preparation, planting, and care are important points to consider.

Location of Plant: The location of plant has a lots to do with its health and growth. Choose a well-drained location protected from sweeping winds. Plants given northern and western exposures, or otherwise protected from winter sun, especially morning sun, will stand more cold than those with southern exposure. The reason for this is on warm days the sun causes the plant to start new growth which is easily damaged by the cold.

Soil Preparation

Unless soil is loomy and full of organic matter, its best to dig out the present soil about 4 feet wide and 18 inches deep and fill in with good soil with plenty of humus. Some recommend to refill the hole with one fourth leaf mold, well rotted, saw-dust or peat moss and the rest good top soil. If we live in an area where the soil lacks acid we need to add a small amount of aluminum sulphate to this mixture (and don't think just because the plant looks motley yellow, you need more aluminum sulphate). Yellow leaves indicate something is wrong but it may be you have used too much acid, or you may have it planted too deep, or used too much fertilizer. If your plant continues to look sick, the best thing to do, in most cases, is to take up the plant then work up the soil and reset the plant.

Camellias won't tolerate being planted too deep. Let the top of the ball of the soil that comes with the plant be level or slightly above the ground. Plants must be kept free of scales by spraying immediately after blooming with 2 per cent oil of emulsion. Most authorities recommend two to three applications fourteen days apart. (Spread paper under plants.)

Camellias do not require much fertilizer two to three pints each year of a special camellia fertilizer per 100 square feet is enough. With old plantings spread the fertilizer over the top of the mulch and make three applications — one just before new growth starts, another in midspring, and last one in June. Mulch three to four inches with pine straw, or similar material of a coarse nature. One inch of sawdust, peat moss, or similar fine materials are also good.

Vegetable Gardens

Do some planting in the vegetable garden too, it pays. It can contribute to the family's income but more important it contributes to the health of the family. You'll need some complete fertilizer 8-8-8 is fine. Use three cups to each 10 foot of row — when rows are three feet apart; two cups if rows are two feet apart. Work it into the soil 10 days before planting seeds. Buy seed recommended for this area — La Soda potatoes, giant stringless bush beans, or contender; etc. (Get the list from the extension service if you do not have it.)

Tailoring

Sterlington group will finish the tailoring course Thursday—shortie coats, suits, boys' overcoats, and corduroy jackets were made, and we've really enjoyed working together.

Calhoun did their cutting Friday and will work the 1, 17, and 18th and (maybe the 19th). Looking forward to this group, too.

Anyone wanting to work in the Woodlawn group must attend the meeting at Mrs. G. E. Rutledge's home Friday, February 20th, at 2:00 p.m. You will learn what you need for the tailoring work at this meeting.

See you next week at this time, same column.

Baskin Woman's Club Meets

Miss Kathlyn Goforth and Mrs. Janie Goforth entertained the Baskin Woman's Club in their home February 5, 1953.

The meeting was opened by the pledge to the flag and singing of the song "Louisiana." An inspirational devotion on faith was given by Mrs. J. P. Frellsen.

Mrs. George M. Baskin gave a review of Mrs. Ada Jack Carver Snell's book "The Cajun" followed by Miss Hattie Brothers who reported on "Louisiana Architecture and Landscaping."

As the title of the book suggests "The Cajun" is the story of the lost people of the south whose very name means corruption of the word Acadian. These are the people who fled from British invasion in Canada and settled in La Fourche and Bayou Teche Parishes.

Mrs. Baskin gave some very interesting facts about the author. She was born at Natchitoches, April 7, 1896 and now lives in Minden. She attended public schools in Natchitoches, Judson in Alabama, and graduated from Louisiana State Normal College, and later studied at Columbia University. She married Lt. John Bernard Snell after the U. S. entered the world war. Her short stories have been included in O'Henry's Anthologies and in O'Brien's Best Short Stories. Among her best published short stories are: Redbone, Treeshy, Maudie, Singing Woman, The Old One and Raspberry Trees.

In 1925-1926 the Shreveport Little Theatre selected Ada Jack Carver's "The Cajun" to enter the Belosco Cup Tournament. Shreveport tied Dallas for 1st place. When they played off the tie, Dallas won by one point but the favorable publicity kept Shreveport in the spotlight for weeks.

Mrs. F. E. Lyles, secretary read the minutes of the previous meeting and they were approved. The polio chairman reported on $11 contribution to the March of Dimes.

Members of the club stood and repeated the club collect.

All were glad to have Mrs. Mable Nash and Miss Ethel Watson, state treasurer of the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs, both members of the Bono Nostrorum Club of Mangham. The Bono Nostrorum Club sponsored the Baskin Woman's Club.

The hostesses served delicious refreshments of chicken salad, divinity candy, coffee, and cocoa to: Mrs. Mable Nash, Miss Ethel Watson, Mrs. G. M. Baskin, Miss Hattie Brothers, Miss Lilliane Corley, Mrs. Lonez Shipman, Mrs. J. P. Frellsen, Mrs. C. M. Eppinette, Mrs. F. E. Lyles, Mrs. Ella Wombie, Mrs. A. M. Brand, Mrs. Mary E. Le Fevre, Mrs. J. T. Tims, Miss Opal Brand, Miss Nadine Shipman, Mrs. R. D. Davis, Miss Estelle Lawrence, Mrs. R. P. Stewart, Mrs. Janie Goforth and Miss Kathryn Goforth.

Guy Lombardo Seats Nearly All Sold Out

GUY LOMBARDO ... ... JB

Only a small number of seats remain in Neville auditorium for the Guy Lombardo show the night of February 27.

The famous orchestra leader accompanied by many individual stars is sponsored by the Monroe Lions Club and all proceeds from the show will be placed in a fund for construction of an administration building at Camp Ki-Ro-Li, Boy Scout camp located in West Monroe.

The Royal Canadians featuring Carmen, Lebert and Victor Lombardo, along with Kenny Gardner, Bill Flannigan, Kenny Martin, Cliff Grass, The Lombardo Trio, the Lombardo Twin Pianos and an all star revue will entertain the public of the Twin Cities and northeast Louisiana.

Guy Lombardo has introduced more songs that subsequently became hits than any other bandleader in history. Since 1929, when Lombardo first became a "name" orchestra, more than 260 songs first introduced by his Royal Canadians have skyrocketed to the top.

It is not alone in finding new song hits that Lombardo has no peer. Another of his talents is digging up old tunes from his files, dressing them up with new arrangements, and putting them back into the best - seller list. In recent seasons, for example, Lombardo is credited with having reincarnated such favorites as "Always," "Humoresque," "Frankie and Johnny," and literally dozens of others.

A season never goes by in which half or more of the nations favorites haven't been thus introduced or revived by Lombardo.

The remaining tickets for the show can be purchased at Howard Brothers on DeSiard Street.

260 Books Are Given School

The faculty and student body of Highland Elementary School wish to publicly express their sincere appreciation of the cooperation they obtained in the recent book fair held at the school.

Two hundred sixty books were purchased, autographed, and presented to the libraries by the parents, the students, the teachers, and friends. This gave, on an average basis an increase of twenty books to each classroom. Books donated from the home libraries of some of the patrons were gratefully accepted and appreciated.

The faculty and student body would also like to say "thanks to Miss Julia Wossman, owner of Childrens Workshop, for the courtesies she extended during the book fair. Also, appreciation to the mothers of Highland who graciously acted as hostesses in the all-purpose room the day of the book fair.

Highland hasn't yet reached the required quota of three books per student but hopes within another year to be able to do so.

1/3 less armwork than cake mixes!

This new "Quik-Beat" Cake saves 150 to 300 strokes

with SNOWDRIFT

the shortening pre-whipped 2,000 times

Less beating than mixes

Leading cake mixes call for a whale of a lot of beating. Drop the drudgery! Only with new lighter Snowdrift and its new method can we promise you'll save up to 300 strokes.

Twice as quick as most quick-method recipes that call for lots of hard beating. Snowdrift's "Quik-Beat" cake saves nearly half the strokes—Snowdrift is pre-whipped 2000 times.

NEW LIGHTER SNOWDRIFT

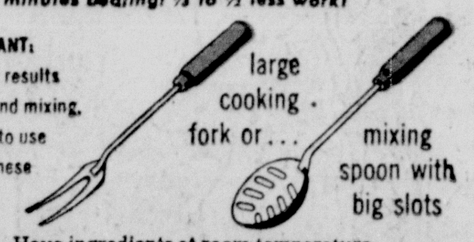
THE WESSON OIL SHORTENING!

© 1953 by Wesson Oil & Snowdrift Co., Inc.

ONLY SNOWDRIFT GIVES YOU THIS "QUIK-BEAT" CAKE

2 minutes beating! ⅓ to ½ less work!

IMPORTANT: For best results when hand mixing, be sure to use one of these



Have ingredients at room temperature.

In large mixing bowl, break up...
½ cup SNOWDRIFT

Important: use only Snowdrift, it's pre-whipped for you

Add... 2 eggs ½ cup milk

Sift all together over above...
- 2¼ cups sifted cake flour
- 2½ teaspoons double-action baking powder
- 1½ cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt

Blend ingredients, then beat 1½ minutes, scraping sides of bowl frequently. (Count 225 strokes for hand beating. With electric mixer use low speed, scrape sides during beating, scrape beaters after beating.)

Add... ½ cup milk with 1 teaspoon vanilla

Blend, then beat enough to smooth out batter, about 75 strokes (½ minute, electric beater). Turn into 2 greased 8-inch layer pans, lined with paper. Swirl fork through batter in each pan. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 25 to 30 minutes.

CHOCOLATE ALMOND ICING: Blend 5 tablespoons Snowdrift with ½ cup sifted cocoa. Add 3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar and ⅛ teaspoon salt alternately with ⅓ cup milk. When smooth, add 1 teaspoon almond flavoring. Frost cake. Decorate with almonds.

ACTUALLY THERE IS NO AIR FORCE PUBLIC INFORMATION POLICY ON THE CRASH...IT WAS A CIVILIAN AIRPLANE IN TROUBLE AND WAS BEING GUIDED TO THE NEAREST CLEAR FIELD BY AN AIR FORCE JET FIGHTER INTERCEPTOR... IT EVIDENTLY RAN OUT OF FUEL BEFORE IT COULD LAND... IT STRUCK A CLOSED FILLING STATION! THE BROKEN PUMPS CAUSED THE FIRE

THANKS, COL. CANYON!

MAN TO SEE YOU, COLONEL CANYON!

COLONEL, MY NAME IS RAINN! I'M KIND OF A SPOKESMAN FOR THE FOLKS OF INDIAN CAPE AND HEREABOUTS!...THE PEOPLE ARE MAD CLEAR THROUGH ABOUT THE CRASH!

I CAN IMAGINE! I'M GLAD NO ONE ON THE GROUND WAS HURT.....

THERE'S MORE TO IT THAN THAT... THESE FOLKS WANT SOMEONE PUNISHED!

PUNISHED? FOR WHAT? WHO DID ANYTHING WRONG?

THAT YOUNG PILOT, PEPPER, OR PIPPER — I HEAR HE LED THE PLANE TO INDIAN CAPE WHEN HE KNEW IT MIGHT CRASH OUT OF GAS!

THE CARGO AIRCRAFT WAS IN DISTRESS! PIPPER ASKED PERMISSION OF GROUND CONTROL TO LEAD IT TO THE NEAREST OPEN FIELD! THAT HAPPENED TO BE INDIAN CAPE!

IT'S UNDERSTANDABLE FOR YOU TO DEFEND YOUR BOY, COLONEL—BUT THAT PIPPER HAS BEEN ACTING UP EVER SINCE HE CAME HERE—TAKING OVER THE HIGH SCHOOL BAND AND CHASING AFTER ONE OF OUR SCHOOLTEACHERS!...

...THE FOLKS HAVE BEEN ITCHIN' FOR SOMEBODY TO SLAP SINCE THE JETS CAME AND KEPT US AWAKE NIGHTS... AND THEY'RE LOOKING TO YOU AND THE AIR FORCE TO MAKE AN EXAMPLE OF THE PIPPER KID!

MISTER, I'M DOING MY BEST TO HOLD MY TEMPER! PIPPER USED THE PRESCRIBED PROCEDURE, WITH PERMISSION OF HIS SUPERIORS!

...I RECKONED YOU MIGHT SAY THAT, COLONEL CANYON...

IT WOULD HAVE BEEN REAL EASY IF YOU'D HAVE THE BOY REPRIMANDED AND TRANSFERRED, BUT THIS WAY WE'LL BE OBLIGED TO BE A MITE ROUGH ON PIPPER — AND MAYBE ON YOU!... GOOD NIGHT, COLONEL...

WOULD YOU LIKE TO GO SOMEWHERE AND HAVE A CUP OF COFFEE AND RELAX BEFORE YOU BLOW YOUR TOP?

THANKS, MISS ELM—THANKS VERY MUCH!

New FAB washes clothes WHITER WITHOUT A BLEACH

WHITER...than any other product with a bleach!

IT'S AMAZING — BUT TRUE!
